Kirkland Supports Policy To Deter Support Price Cut

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — Jack Kirkland, Dairy Marketing Specialist at Penn State University, urges Congressional policy makers to look at the surplus purchases by state prior to cutting support prices nationwide. Because much of the overproduction, according to Kirkland, is coming from western producers, he suggests that those producers be encouraged to cut production. Kirkland adds that dairy farmers in the northeast and southeast are keeping supply and demand in line and should not be hampered by a nationwide price cut.

Pennsylvania milk production figures supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture for September showed a decrease in number of milk cows by 2.2 percent and milk production per cow was up by 1.3 percent for a total production decrease of 0.9 percent.

For September of 1986:

— number of milking cows was 734,000

— milk production per cow was 1120lbs.

— total milk production was 822 million pounds

For September of 1987:

— number of milking cows was 718,000

— milk production per cow was 1135lbs.

— total milk production was 815 million pounds.

Although the Dairy Termination Program ended August 31st, dairy farmers continued to sell off an additional 2,000 head in September. Figures recorded in August for number of milking cows was 720,000 with milk production per cow at 1175lbs. Total milk production was 846 million pounds.

"It is interesting that in September, dairy farmers sold off their cows, after the end of the dairy termination program," said Kirkland. "2,000 cows were sold, and I'm not sure what the reduction is a result of. In southeastern Pennsylvania the drought was extensive in some areas and maybe caused some farmers to get rid of some cows, but certainly there is plenty of feed available."

21 Major States

For September 1987 in the 21 major dairy states which account for approximately 85 percent of the total national production, total milk production was 9.887 billion pounds which shows that in spite of the dairy termination program total production had increased by 2.3 percent over last year. Although the number of cows had actually decreased from 1986 by 2 percent, production per cow had increased by 4.4 percent with obviously better producing cows. Also,

Fall Back To Standard Time Tomorrow Morning

At 2 a.m. tomorrow morning, things will get back to normal, or should we say back to standard. Standard time that is. Really us farmers don't need officials or even clocks to tell us the time has come to turn our time pieces back one hour. The shorter days to make the last cutting of alfalfa told us that already. Hopefully the time change won't affect our milking or feeding schedule. At least we'll gain back the hour we lost last spring.

Ressler Heads Up New Holland Satellite Office

BY LISA HAMM

NEW HOLLAND — Over fields and through barns, bottle and bag in hand, Leon J. Ressler is collecting pieces of the Upper Conestoga Watershed.

As the new project associate for the Lancaster County Extension Service's satellite office, Ressler will help farmers maximize crop yields and reduce water pollution by tailoring nutrient management programs to individual farms.

Formerly a Mennonite missionary in Africa, Ressler has taken over for Robert J. Anderson, who was hired as county agent to replace retiring agronomist Arnold Lueck. Assisting Ressler is Jeffrey Stoltzfus, who holds a degree from Penn State in agricultural education.

Ressler graduated from Penn State in 1975 with a degree in agronomy. In 1978, he enrolled in the Columbia Graduate School of Bible and Missions in Columbia, S.C., after which he departed for a six-year program in Kenya where he worked with the Maasai and Luo tribes. The program involved developing a small demonstration dairy farm and an educational program.

Kessler and his wife, Lou Ann, and their two young sons, Lynn and Lee, left Africa once a native was trained to do Ressler's job. For the past two years, Ressler has been working on Spring Lawn Farm, just south of Lancaster, and his family has grown to include 7-month old Lorielle.

The program that Ressler and Stoltzfus are working on is federally funded by the Rural Clean

National Leader Urges Farmland Preservation

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG — A national farm leader told reporters at the capital here Monday that what Pennsylvania lost in the steel industry to foreign production could be small in comparison to what could be lost if the agricultural industry is not preserved.

Cy Carpenter, president of the National Farmers' Union, said, "I admire those of you who are working toward farmland preservation. Agriculture is your number one industry. And if you lose farmland

Lancaster 4-H'ers: A Parade Of Winners

Editor's note: See all those award winners of the Lancaster 4-H Dairy Awards Banquet not pictured, in next week's issue.

BY PAT PURCELL

It was a parade of winners at the Lancaster County 4-H Dairy Banquet Thursday evening at the Country Table in Mt. Joy and winning was not restricted to only 4-H members. The youths' accomplishments were shared by parents, leaders and the county's extension dairy agent, Glenn Shirk. Without this support system, Lancaster County 4-H would not be the source of pride it has become.

Dairy Judging

Coached by Gary Akers and Peter Witmer, the dairy judging team placed sixth out of 38 teams at the national level. Team members are: Bob Barley, Tom Arrowsmith, Tom Barley and Tom Wiker. Tom Arrowsmith placed 18th out of 152 competitors in overall individual judging and Bob Barley placed 24th and took fourth place in the Guernsey division.

Diary Bowl Awards

Jason Herr, George Bard and Daniel Bard, members of the junior 4-H dairy bowl team took a first place in regional competition.

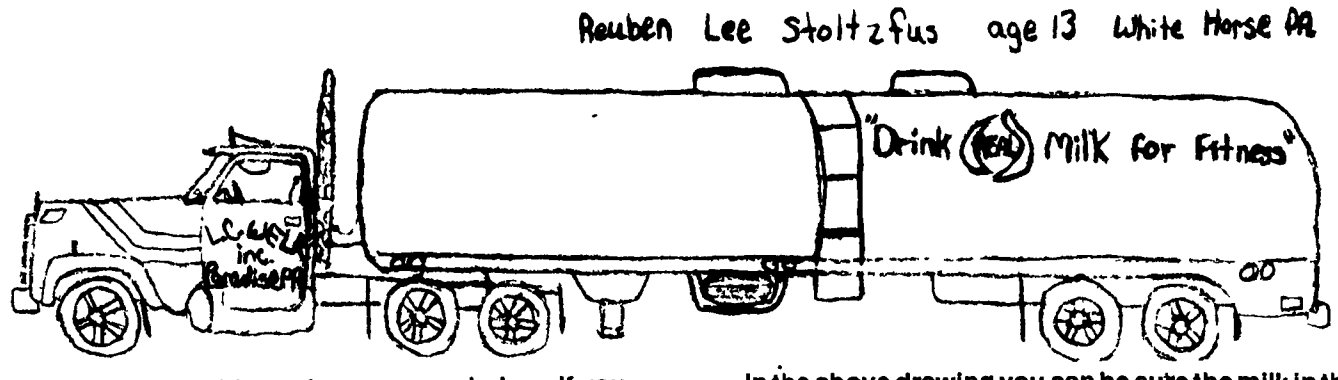
Captivated By Our Children's Pencils



Out of the mouth of children often comes wisdom. If you have been following the drawings of poetry that the children and grandchildren of our Lancaster Farming readers are sending to staff writer Lou Ann each week, you know that the ideas they convey by pen and pencil can be very captivating.

In the above drawing you can be sure the milk in this truck by Reuben Lee Stoltzfus, White Horse, is of excellent quality because it has the Real Seal on it. Even the handler gets a plug.

For more drawings from our children, watch Section B each week--this issue on Page B-10.

FUTURES MARKET TRENDS GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK

This market information provided by ACRES ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service (717) 761 2740

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures closed slightly lower this afternoon, pressured by a late sell-off linked to pre-hedging. Support came from continuing ideas of a large purchase of US corn, however the smaller-than-expected sale announcement yesterday along with ideas that buying yesterday would have covered the sale, encouraged late selling. Ongoing light country movement, insured by yesterday's CCC's corn differential adjustments supported futures. Generic premiums fell from 1/2 to 1% today with bids at 108-109 and offers at 109 and 110. December corn lost one cent, closing $1.83-1/4.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures settled sharply higher today fueled by aggressive buying linked to a brighter export picture. Ongoing speculation about a bonus offer to the USSR and sales to India as part of a food aid agreement generated this buying spree. December closed up 5-1/2 cents at $3.02-1/4 and the March gained 7 cents closing at $3.14-1/4.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures closed mixed this afternoon with December higher and the back months slightly lower in active trading. Prices were sharply higher this morning, with buying fueled by ideas that recent losses were overdone. Ideas that today's market was unable to sustain early gains despite steep advances in the Stock Index futures was cited as evidence that the market is weak and headed for "deep trouble". Pre-estimates for Friday's Cattle on Feed report were released today with On Feed averaging 106.6%; placements at 100.5% and Marketings at 102.5%. Feeder cattle followed live cattle throughout most of the day.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE: 10/19/87 $77.53 dn $ .14

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady to lower futures-steady to lower

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed mostly higher today, gaining on ideas that the market had become oversold during the stock market crisis and by the return of traders who had offset positions during the recent crunch. Further support came from ideas that interior movement would soon drop off in light of lighter runs yesterday. Pork bellies settled sharply higher to limit up this afternoon on a late short covering rally.

Corn That Stands Through The Fall

That corn crop you've labored over won't do you any good if the ears are lying on the ground at harvest time But Funk's G-Hybrids will stand right through the harvest

And they'll not only stand, they'll produce record breaking yields With varieties like G-4027, tops in its field in New York Or G-4446, a record yielder in Pennsylvania Or G-4626, a standout in southern PA and Delmarva areas

And each Funk's variety is backed by Hoffman research We annually run more than 50 test plots to ensure that only the best yielding varieties reach your fields

When you're looking for outstanding yields this planting season, call your local Hoffman seed representative Or call Hoffman Seeds direct We'll deliver a corn crop that stands through the fall

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

OCT. 26-NOV. 1, 1987

Winds blow and jack-o'-lanterns glow.

Erie Canal opened to traffic Oct 26, 1825 Rotary-motion washing machine patented, in Philadelphia, Pa , Oct 26, 1858 Vermont Dairymen's Association organized, in Montpelier, Vt , Oct 27, 1869 Average length of days for the week 10 hours, 28 minutes Poet Sylvia Plath born Oct 27, 1932 A forest fire in Concord, N H was drenched by man-made rain Oct 29, 1947 First quarter of the moon Oct 29 (Thurs) Great Stock Market crash Oct 29, 1929 Halloween Oct 31 (Sat) Manufacturing of barbed wire began in De Kalb, Ill Nov 1, 1873 Riches are like muck which stink in a heap but spread abroad make the earth fruitful

Ask the Old Farmer: We are curious as to why the bridges in the old days were covered Was it to protect the wood? Or was it to keep hay wagons and su h from blowing off into the river during a terrific blizzard? C S , Antrim, N H

As far as I know bridges were originally covered to protect wooden decking from the weather But I also know that such coverings were found to be handy for other purposes

Home hints Always keep ivory objects in a well lighted place extended darkness causes ivory to yellow

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Week begins with cold temperatures, midweek sunny and mild end of week rainy and cold

Greater New York-New Jersey: Beginning of week cold with heavy rain, midweek clear and warm, end of week cold with light rain

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week begins with heavy rain, midweek clear and warm, end of week cool and cloudy showers west

OPINION

We Better Buy Two

Here are some important facts about ice cream that we found in AMS Headlines. Of course, we know ice cream is an important part of the dairy food mix in this country. About 9 percent of the milk supply goes for ice cream.

But did you know ice cream is consumed by over 98 percent of households in the United States—with 86 percent purchasing ice cream at least once a month. U.S. consumption of ice cream in 1986 reached a record 905 million gallons, just over 15 quarts per person!

Besides the appeal offered by the tremendous variety of flavors and novelty products on the market today, ice cream products are nutritious and mouthwatering. Not a caloric devastation—an average serving (½ cup) of vanilla ice cream contains about 160 calories—it provides good energy value and is a source of protein and calcium.

U.S. ice cream consumption is highest in June and July (National Ice Cream Month). This year the National Dairy Board is launching a $5 million joint promotion with the International Ice Cream Association under the umbrella of "Ice Cream For America."

The eight-week program of 15 and 30-second television commercials and print advertisements is geared to the tastes of the U.S. adult population, 56 percent of whom would rather have ice cream than any other dessert.

But ice cream is for the holidays, too. Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association Inc. makes sure of that with their three gallon bulk home freezer special. It is available for farmers from all of the cooperatives and organizations who use Eastern's food buying coop approach. And it is available now for the holidays.

The only problem we see is that if you buy a three gallon barrel now it will be all gone by Thanksgiving. Then what will we do for Christmas? Guess we better get two!

NOW IS THE TIME

To Hunt Safely

The small game hunting season will open next Saturday. We need to remind ourselves to be courteous and considerate while hunting on farms. We encourage all hunters to practice good relations between farmers and hunters. Criticism of hunting often starts because a few hunters forget the landowner is his host. By observing a few sensible hunting manners, hunters will keep themselves from becoming uninvited guests.

Most landowners permit reasonable hunting. Asking permission to hunt is a small courtesy in return for a pleasant day in the field; yet too few people follow this rule. Landowners may actually need protection from indifferent, careless and destructive hunters. When the trouble starts, many farmers post their land for protection from irresponsible hunters.

It takes very little time and costs nothing to observe a few common courtesy rules while hunting: ask permission before hunting, close gates, pick-up litter after eating lunch and stay out of unharvested crops. Keep a safe distance from buildings and livestock while hunting and be sure to respect the property of others as you would expect others to respect yours.

To Plan Winter Weed Control In Alfalfa

As the alfalfa plant slows down and prepares to go into dormancy, other plant populations in that same field can be increasing in vigor and growth. These are the winter annual weeds: chickweed, shepherds purse, yellow rocket and some grassy weeds which overwinter. All are in their young stages of growth.

You'll not see crop injury now, but wait until that first cutting comes off next May. Those same little weeds all will have flowered and set seed by that time. Not only do yield losses occur but field curing problems and lower hay quality results.

Fall applied herbicide(s) will largely eliminate the costly winter weed problem. The Agronomy Guide lists a number of effective materials.

To Inspect Heating Systems

With colder weather just ahead, we'll be using different types of heating units. In order to prevent the potential for fires and other problems, I'd suggest that all chimneys and flues be checked for cracks and places where sparks can escape.

In this part of the country, tobacco sheds have stoves to provide comfort for the winter job of stripping tobacco. Many of these have been in operation for a number of years and may need some attention. The mortar around pipes and between bricks may have fallen out; in some cases a repointing job with mortar will make the system much safer.

Don't take chances on a faulty system; it could start a major fire or the fumes could cause suffocation.

To Be Aware of Evergreen Needle Drop

Don't push the panic button if some of your evergreens are dropping their needles this fall. It's normal for pines, spruce, and similar evergreens to drop one year's growth of needles this time of year.

The needles you see falling are those nearest the center of the tree. The younger, green needles are at the ends of the branches. Scotch pines will lose their 3-year-old needles... while red pines drop its 4-year-old needles.

During this period of shedding, the trees may look like they're dead or dying. But as soon as a hard wind or rain hits them, the old needles will fall to the ground and the tree will look normal again.

The Cooperative Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

TAKING ANOTHER'S BLESSING

October 25, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 2:19-24; 27:1 through 28:5.
Devotional Reading: Genesis 25:19-28.

In some ways the story of Jacob and Esau seems quite inapplicable to our own times. It's hard for us to understand why Jacob and Esau should have contended for the blessing of Isaac, their father. What did it matter who he touched and said the words of blessing over?

In the time of Jacob and Esau, however, the "blessing" of the dying father was extremely important and no mere symbolic gesture. People in those days believed that in pronouncing this "blessing," the patriarch of the family actually conveyed something very real and valuable.

ONLY ONE?

Thus, when he realized that his brother had tricked Isaac, he pleaded with his father: "Have you but one blessing, my father?" (27:38). But Isaac had no more to give, because he had already given it all, albeit unwittingly, to Jacob. It is understandable that "Esau lifted up his voice and wept." What he had lost to his conniving brother was a lot more than a few words and a pat on the head.

Actually, when we look more closely at this story we find that it is still applicable in our own times. For all the basic ingredients in this story are very much present in our lives today. This is a story about a divided home, parental favoritism, sibling rivalry, jealousy, deceit, and hatred — none of which have ever been repealed from the field of family relations. We may not see sibling rivalries for the sake of a father's blessing, but over just about everything else.

ESAU HATED JACOB

Much of the conflict in our world today arises when one person covets the "blessings" of another. This may mean parental favor, it may mean another's success, prosperity, or happiness — but it breeds all kinds of wrongbeing and wrongdoing. It may even amount to hatred, just as we're told that "Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing..." and end up with violence, as Esau planned it (27:41). That is why, according to police reports, the majority of homocides in the USA take place in homes between members of families.

No the story of Jacob and Esau is not obsolete. I wish it were.

TOBACCO FARMERS

The Tobacco Auction System and the Keystone Tobacco Marketing Group continues to work harder than ever to better your tobacco markets.

We have already been contacted to send samples to several Southern Tobacco Companies.

JUST REMEMBER IF YOU SIGN ANY CONTRACTS BEFORE THE AUCTION MARKET OPENS, the buyers will no longer have to work and compete for your tobacco and therefore price will not have to go up.

More information will follow in upcoming issues. STAY INFORMED! Make sure Keystone has your name & full address to obtain a free issue of our upcoming newsletter.

PENNFIELD GROWER OPPORTUNITIES

We have an immediate need for several swine finishing facilities.

We are maximizing returns for our current growers by using single source feeder pigs, maintaining buildings at 100% efficiency and offering competitive contracts.

If you have an existing facility or would like to build a new facility, please contact our Swine Division at 717-295-8783 or 1-800-732-0467.

WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY. FEEDER STEERS & HEIFERS OVER 600 LB. 1 00-4.00 LOWER, MOSTLY 1 00-3.00 LOWER. STOCKERS & CALVES UNDER 600 LB. 3.00-6.00 LOWER. FEEDER CATTLE TRADE FLUCTUATED FROM MODERATELY ACTIVE TO SLOW, WITH DEMAND FOLLOWING A LIKE COURSE.

MANY PROBLEMS AFFECTED FEEDER DEMAND THIS WEEK· 1) STOCKER BUYERS ARE AWAITING RAIN TO STRENGTHEN WHEAT ROOTS. 2) MANY FEEDLOTS ARE AT CAPACITY LEVELS WITH LITTLE PEN SPACE AVAILABLE. 3) THE SHARP DROP IN FUTURE'S HAS PREVENTED SAFE HEDGES AT PREVIOUS PRICE LEVELS. 4) DOW JONES CAUSING MUCH CONCERN AND UNCERTAINTY, ESPECIALLY WITH ITS INTERACTION WITH COMMODITY MARKETS

HOWEVER ON THE BRIGHT SIDE, THE SLAUGHTER CATTLE MARKET IS CURRENT AND STABLE AND THE BEEF MARKET WAIVERED LITTLE THIS WEEK DESPITE BAD ECONOMIC TIDINGS

SLAUGHER COWS 1 00-2 00 LOWER; BULLS STEADY RECEIPTS THIS WEEK 17,737; LAST WEEK 13,821; LAST YEAR 20,096 SUPPLY CONSISTED OF 60% YEARLILNG FEEDERS, 28% CALVES, AND 12% COWS & BULLS

THE ANSWER TO LOW•LABOR MULTIPLE FEEDING WAS RIGHT UNDER OUR NOSES ALL THE TIME... AND IT ISN'T COMPUTERIZED!

It took a dairyman to invent such a perfect feeder.

MULTIFEEDER BY STARLINE

We call this exciting new Starline feeder, "Grain Brain"™ because it "thinks for itself." Here's how it works· When you do your regular feeding, you also fill your "Grain Brain"™ multifeeders. Grain Brain™ does the rest. At the time you have preset into Grain Brain™ the multifeeders drop feed for each cow's next feeding. That means you go from two or three-time to four or six time per-day feeding with no extra labor!

A Grain Brain™ that will handle a 50-cow herd will cost you approximately $3,000, complete. Grain Brain™ is simple, easy to operate, reliable and capable of paying for itself in less than a year. We're anxious to tell you the whole story, so see your Starline dealer soon. By the way, "Grain Brain"™ was invented by a Minnesota dairyman for his own barn. Now a lot of his neighbors have one, too.

AGWAY ALFALFA

LASTING VALUE

Not all varieties of alfalfa can endure year after year of bitter northeastern winters.

But Agway has solved that problem. With four high-performance varieties especially bred for longevity and superior yields under your growing conditions.

Centurion—The newest variety is the first multipest-resistant alfalfa offered by Agway to demonstrate outstanding resistance to all of the Northeast's major diseases. Verticillium Wilt, Phytophthora Root Rot, Anthracnose, Fusarium Wilt and Bacterial Wilt.

Excalibur—The premier Verticillium Wilt-resistant alfalfa in the Northeast.

Sparta—Outstanding yields, plus excellent resistance to Bacterial Wilt and Verticillium Wilt, and moderate resistance to Phytophthora Root Rot and Fusarium Wilt.

Blazer—High yielder, resistant to Bacterial Wilt and Phytophthora Root Rot.

Excalibur, Blazer, Sparta and new Centurion are available exclusively in the Northeast from your Agway store or Farm Enterprise Salesperson.

Working for people who work the land.

Jersey Local Holds District Meeting

Jersey Breeders District #3 members gathered Wednesday night at the Bird-In-Hand Restaurant. Members represented Chester, Berks, Lancaster, Lehigh, and Schuylkill counties. Penn State extension dairy agent Glenn Shirk also attended the meeting.

Make Hardy Brand® your hybrid. Make every kernel count.

"Hardy corn is great! It does a great job of husking, and it's always nice and green, and it stands well. Our 300 acres are all Hardy. Why, some folks say, 'my gosh, I never saw corn like that!' "
Tom McConahy
Volant, PA

"Hardy comes out on top compared to the others. Hardy 760XS is a good shelling corn, yields terrific and stands great. The 370XS short season is a tall corn, and shells so easy, you can hardly hear it go through the combine."
Dave Moore
Boonsboro, MD

"I've been with Hardy for 10 years. We get a lot longer grain with Hardy 370XS, and it really shells great. And Hardy has a better stalk than most I've seen. It's great looking corn, why it really sells itself!"
Roy Hoffman
Richfield, PA

Farm Preservation Bond Referendum On November Ballot

WILKES-BARRE — Pennsylvania residents can vote on a bond issue affecting farmland preservation, November 3rd. This is the only statewide referendum on the election ballot.

The question on the ballot is whether or not the state should establish a $100 million bond issue "for the purchase of agricultural conservation easements for the preservation of farmland." Agricultural conservation easements are more commonly known as development rights. The bond referendum would provide a source of funds to start the program.

"The issues involved in farmland preservation are extremely complex," says Stanford Lembeck, Penn State Community Planning Specialist. "If the referendum is passed, the bond issue will provide funding through which the state can preserve farmland for a period of 25 years or in perpetuity," he explains.

"County committees would set up local priorities that conform with state guidelines to purchase easement rights within the framework of state law," says Lembeck. Counties would also contribute to the cost of locally approved programs.

The enabling legislation will probably be an amendment to the Agricultural Security Act (Act 43) of 1981. Act 43 allows local governments — in reality mostly townships — to create areas where farming is the preferred activity. Pending legislation would amend Act 43 to set up a method for the state to purchase development rights.

The farmland preservation program is entirely voluntary. There would be no effort to force farmers to sell their development rights. If those rights are purchased, the owner could continue to farm, but the deed restriction would not permit other uses.

For a 25 year easement, counties are limited to paying the landowner one-tenth of the full value of the development rights. That value is determined by subtracting the appraised agricultural value from the appraised market value of the property. "That means," says Lembeck, "that a farm with development rights worth $50,000 could be preserved for 25 years by a payment of $5,000, or it could be preserved as farmland forever by a payment of $50,000."

Lembeck stresses that the referendum is only part of a larger program aimed at preserving Pennsylvania's Farmland. "The process of establishing guidelines and an individual farmer's decision to enter the program would be lengthy," he says. "A farmer would have to compare current and potential income, expenses and taxes — all in light of a long-term financial plan. The decision would have to be based on a very careful consideration of personal and family goals."

Farmers who qualify and elect to enter the program would be compensated for keeping their land in farm use. The pressures of development would be eased, local farming would remain and those farmers will be assessed taxes on a lower base. This would also preserve precious open space and the beauty of farmland.

However, local officials will have to determine the tax impact of less development in their boundaries. The purchase of development rights will be costly and include complex procedures.

Pro or con, Pennsylvania Voters will have the chance to decide on November 3rd if they want to establish the mechanism to fund farmland preservation. Lembeck encourages voters to attend local issues forums and public discussions on the referendum and on farmland preservation.

"We're marking every hybrid down for fall sale"

No holding back at Doebler's. Everything's on sale now to Nov. 14. Doebler 75X, Pennsylvania's all-time corn champ. The fabulous Extra Performance hybrids. All three ways. Every single cross.

And write your own ticket. Save $4 to $8 a bushel by merely placing the order. Buy 10 or more bushels and earn a volume discount. Pay cash this fall and cut your price another 10%.

Single crosses as low as $49.77, in fact. Ask your local dealer about these hybrids. He has the fastest calculator in town.

There's no holding back on quality, either. Stuff like grading, purity and germination. And every hybrid sells in Doebler's bonus bag. The old fashioned, 56-pound bushel bag. But hurry. Sale ends November 14.

DOEBLER 89X-C, 120 days. A big sheller everywhere — 165.4 bu. average in 1986 farm tests, 152.5 in '85. Shakes off drought and leaf diseases. Good standup. Deep kernels. Hard cob.

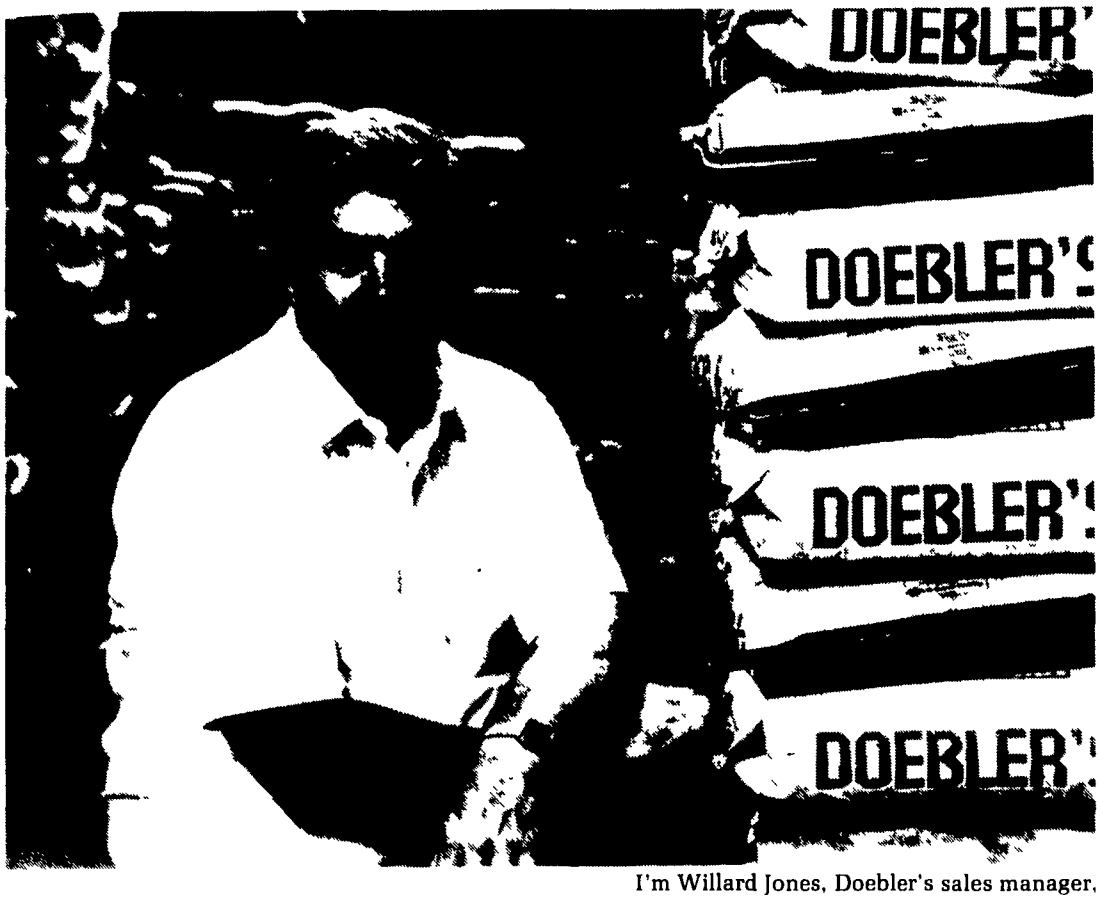
DOEBLER 755-3, 115 days. A modified single cross that looks like 75X, stands like 75X and close on yields. But $9 cheaper as a three-way. Drought tolerant. Great silage. Almost sold out.

DOEBLER 67X, 108 days. Sister pedigree to 65X with same strong stalks, disease tolerance and big bushels. But bigger seed production means lower price. Averaged 160.7 bu. in 1986 tests.

DOEBLER 66XP, 103 days. XP means Extra Performance. And this XP puts 60X-A on notice with 15.2 more bushels and half the down corn. Medium height. Great standup. Sorry. Supply limited.

RD 1, Jersey Shore, PA 17740

WE GOT YOUR NUMBER



I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager, with good news on our Turn-the-Clock-Back Sale.

DOEBLER 65X, 103 days. The fabulous one. Looking great at Cornell and everywhere. 166.5 bushel average last year in 52 farm trials. Super stander. Good disease resistance.

DOEBLER 46X-A, 92 days. Forget 46X. "A" gives you healthier plant, larger ears and a lot more corn. In 14 farm trials last year, 46X-A averaged 145.8 bushels and 23.6% moisture.

DOEBLER 48X, 90 days. Top producer in Penn State and Cornell trials. And on area farms. Medium height. Excellent stander. Popped 156 bu. average last year in 13 farm trials.

DOEBLER 48X-E, 87 days. Quicker dry down than 48X. Same great stalks. And what a sheller. 150.8 bu. average last fall in 13 tests, 159 bu. at Perry, NY, 157.9 bu. at Jersey Shore, PA.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

CASTER AMISH COUNTRY. These people add so much to our history that I can hardly imagine that the politicians would consider moving such a perfect part of our great heritage. This group of people are so self sufficient and ask practically nothing for the state or area that to infringe on their rights as citizens is incomprehensible.

I must admit that I am very adamant regarding this matter as my husbands family has resided in the Richwood area since 1879 and a member of the Reuter family has lived in the house I live in since that time. At present, for the sake of progress Route 55 is being constructed to open South Jersey to North Jersey and surrounding states. This road has destroyed the best farmland in Gloucester county as well as brought in much housing and industry and our whole landscape has been changed forever.

I certainly hope that there will be many like you and your fine paper who will take a firm stand to preserve the fine heritage of the AMISH PEOPLE so that the same is not done to them as was done to the PROUD AMERICAN INDIAN.

Thank you for your enlightening article.

Enclosed find a drawing from my grandson, Jason Godek, for the "Kids Korner" page.

Jason enjoys the drawings so much and likes to cut the tractor pictures out of his Grandpa's papers (Lancaster Farming) when Grandpa's finished reading the paper.

I enjoy the recipes very much. Your paper is super.

Am writing concerning some information I need that has not been listed in Lancaster Farming for possibly a year or so. It is a toy realistic steam working engine that was always listed on a full page such as Binkley and Hurst Bros. Inc. But am not sure anymore who was selling it.

It was a company from New York I believe, and sold for around $90 or $95. Would appreciate if you could locate this address for me if possible.

Thanking you very kindly.

May we express our sincerest gratitude to everyone who has helped us realize this event. A warm thank you to all the firemen, policemen, auxiliary women and volunteers who performed so efficiently and effectively August 17 and 18 at the time of our barn fire. To all the friends and neighbors who volunteered to help in the clean-up and eventual barn-raising and related work-----many, many thanks. We are most grateful to those farmers who most generously brought hay and stray to us in our time of need. Without all of your thoughtfulness, our cows would not be home in their new barn.

Editor:

I'm writing in response to your October 3rd publication of the Lancaster Farmer, concerning two articles. "It Wonders Us"; page 1 & 10, and "School District Plans Acreage Increase"; page A28.

I work for a large company in Tioga county, at this company we have people coming in from all over the world to work with us on various projects. I am presently working with some Italian visitors. One of our visitors made the comment the other day that the U.S.A. is not really a "Free Country". Like they were telling us something that we didn't already know. Both of last weeks articles only proved how true that statement was.

It really is too bad that the "caretakers of this land" are the ones that are forced to give up the land that they not only struggle to maintain as well as preserve, but that it's our own state government that is really doing this. The hardships of farming are bad enough without the state allowing this precious resource to be devoured by the highway or the eminent domain "state" law.

The farm preservation acts, the National Agricultural Land Protection Policy and the Pennsylvania Prime Agricultural Land Policy, will only be effective if it is backed up by our state officials. Under these acts, I would think that not only the Amish and other Lancaster farmers would benefit, but Mr. King as well. Once the land is buried under asphalt and concrete, there is virtually no restoring it. Why is it so hard for our state officials and the general public to understand this?

A highway wouldn't seem to take a lot of land, but a 4-6 lane highway as well as the boundries on either side, do take up a lot of acreage. Besides, have you ever taken a horse & buggy, cattle, or farm equipment across a major highway? If the highway, or the school district has any other alternative, it should be taken, regardless of the cost, so that productive farm land might be saved. It has taken nature millions of years to create the rich fertile farm lands that are in this area, and it takes our politicians a few minutes to sign a document that destroys it.

A final question regarding the school district increase, instead of taking an entire farm, that is in use, couldn't they possibly look into taking a few acres from all the neighboring farms to make up for the total acreage they desire?

Our foreign visitors describe their countries. To them, any kind of beef is a delicacy, for the lack of having the land to produce their own agricultural needs. We are very fortunate to have the productive soils to allow us to be the worlds foremost producer in agricultural products. As our foreign friends pointed out, it really is not a "Free Country."

Editor:

The loss of farmland in Pennsylvania is reaching a critical level. Each year, thousands of acres of prime agricultural land are lost in our state as farms are converted to other uses.

Some people do not realize the impact of this situation. Less acreage available for agricultural production would be a detriment to a state whose number one industry is agriculture and agri-business. In fact, one out of every five workers in this state is employed by the agricultural industry -- an enormous contribution to our economic vitality.

On November 3, the voters of the Commonwealth will be asked to decude whether the state should issue a $100 million bond to support a program targeted at conserving prime agricultural areas. If the bond referendum is approved by the voters, the $100 million in funds would be allocated to counties to use toward the purchase of development rights on prime farmland.

Farmers in designated farming areas who wish to participate in the program would be offered the monetary difference between the market price of the land if sold for farming and the price of it were sold for development. In return, the farmer would hand over only the development rights to the land for 25 years or perpetuity. The farm owner would retain all legal ownership to the land and would be free to sell the land at any time. However, the new owner would be bound by the development restriction held by the county. It should be emphasized that this would be a voluntary program and that no land owner would be forced to participate.

The need for this program is clear if we are to protect and pre-

Irish Cattle Tradition Goes Back 4,000 Years

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

Editor's Note: Our Chester County Correspondent Marjorie Keen recently visited Ireland and was kind enough to file this story for Lancaster Farming readers. We think you'll enjoy the international flavor.

IRELAND — The Irish tradition of farming and cattle raising goes back about 4,000 years. At the end of the Stone Age, newcomers brought cows to the island, along with the skills to clear land and raise crops.

Drive through Ireland today and you no longer see many of the old Irish cattle -- the small black Kerry and the large, hornless, red and white Maoile. You see herds of many hues with a mix of dairy and beef characteristics.

Dr. John Wilson, who's in charge of artificial insemination for the Dept. of Agriculture in Northern Ireland, says that nearly two-thirds of the province's dairy cows are mated to beef bulls. The reason, says Wilson, is that beef-crossed calves sell better than purebred. "Some of these calves at a week old will be making 160-170 pounds," he states. "There's a big bonus for a Simmental or Limousin cross." All inseminations are handled through the government.

Also, a lot of the dairy people will use Angus on their heifers for easy calving, according to Wilson. "That gives you a supply of cross-bred females for the beef herd."

The European Economic Community ban on hormone implants since the beginning of the year has tended to militate against the Hereford breed, Wilson says. Two years ago, he did 35,000 first inseminations with Hereford. Last year, the number had dropped to 7,000.

Northern Ireland's 7,000 milk producers own approximately 290,000 dairy cows, Wilson says. Fresians have long been the popular dairy breed, says he. The Dutch used to have dual-purpose Fresians, he states, for both beef and dairy purposes. But the trouble with pure Fresians, according to Wilson, is a narrow pelvis that causes calving problems.

Last year Simmental sires topped the league with 45,000 first inseminations. Simmentals were introduced to Northern Ireland from Germany in the early seventies. In A.I., Wilson asserts, they have identified the Simmental bulls that are suitable for dairy herds, producing lean meat and fewer calving problems.

Next in first inseminations are the Limousins, about 34,000 last year. The Limousin breed was first shipped from France to Ulster about ten years ago, says Wilson. Charolais has dropped to 12,000 first inseminations, he says. The breed has been replaced by Simmental for easier calving, Wilson avers, although Charolais is still very popular for pure beef breeding.

A new French breed that's growing quickly, he says, is the French Blonde D'Aquitaine. It accounted for 10,000 first inseminations last year.

"A farmer needs growthy cattle that doesn't get fat too soon," declares Wilson.

Probably ten percent of the bulls A.I. are pure Holsteins and there is Holstein blood in a lot of others, according to Wilson. Canadian Holseins have made a big impact in the past ten years, he says. Second generation American Holsteins have come to the province from Germany and Denmark.

"We're very conscious of the trend toward extreme dairy types," Wilson says, "It means we've got to look for better beef bulls."

Northern Ireland tests about 240 beef bulls a year at Loughgall in County Armagh. The growth rate is assessed from ages seven to 13 months. "We try to get the best A.I.," states Wilson.

Of the test bulls, he says, about half are Simmentals. There are 50-60 Limousin, approximately 30 Charolais, 20 Blonde, 15-16 Angus, the rest Herefords and Belgian Blues. The Belgian Blues have just come. "In Britain as a whole, a lot of the Holstein people have been using them because of the double musclature in the hind quarters... We don't know enough about them," Wilson says.

"We're looking for bulls that provide no difficulty in calving. What a dairy farmer doesn't want is a calf that carries over for a long time. He doesn't want a big calf that wrecks his cow to the point that she drops in milk production (or) she's difficult to get back in calf," Wilson explains.

Of the big-breed bulls identified for easy calving, just three Simmentals account for 240,000 straws used, the A.I. chief states. "Central testing is vey costly and this is how we get the spin-off from it, if you like," says he.

Northern Ireland's 200,000 beef or suckler cattle are kept mostly on hills and marginal land. Cows are Angus crossed with Fresian, Angus crossed with Shorthorn, Shorthorn crossed with Fresian, Fresian crossed with Hereford or pure Fresians that have lost a quarter.

"Cross-breeds tend to be more fertile," Wison says. "For maximum hybrid vigor, we like to use a Simmental bull with an Angus-Fresian cross, Angus-Shorthorn cross or Shorthorn-Fresian cross. Putting together three totally unrelated breeds, you get (maximum vigor) in fertility, hardiness and growth rate."

A Class of Simmentals has just finished the performance test at the Northern Ireland Beef Testing Station, Loughgall, County Armagh, in May 1987.

Wilson explains that the Angus-crossed cow is the basis of the beef herds. The animal that is three-quarters Simmental or Limousin tends to be too large for wet ground. "Hill sheep and suckler cows are scavengers," he says. "They're existing on land that's not good for anything else."

Beed calves are generally produced in March or April and sold at auction at age six months, according to Wilson. They're fattened on grass silage and meal mixture. About 80 percent of the beef is exported to other parts of the United Kingdom and to Western Europe.

Wilson believes that the decline in beef consumption in Northern Ireland has more to do with price than health-awareness. Chicken is more widely consumed because it's cheaper, he thinks. Pasteurized whole milk is delivered to consumers daily on flatbed trucks. "People here still like the top of the milk for tea," he says. Homogenized or fat-reduced milk isn't marketed in the province.

"Every country calls their biggest grain crop corn," Wilson explains. In Ireland, corn refers to oats. However, in recent years, barley has supplanted corn as the number one grain. Mostly, grass is grown: Italian and perennial rye. The Emerald Isle's "forty shades of green" continue year-round.

Tax Changes Touch Farmers

BY LISA HAMM

LANCASTER — April 15 may still be half a year away, but most accountants and taxpayers would agree, it pays to be prepared. That probably explains why more than 160 people attended a two-day tax workshop given by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service last week.

The workshop dealt primarily with the Tax Reform Act of 1986 and the changes that it brings.

Lehan Power, a Penn State area farm management agent, discussed the changes that affect those involved in the dairy buyout program. The current tax laws have done away with capital gains treatment for raised animals, according to Power. But, he added, Congress has provided a special exclusion for those farmers in the buyout program that fall in the two last months of Period 2 or all of Period 3. These farmers will have a capital gain exclusion of 60% on the raised dairy cattle that were sold, just as in the prior laws. To receive this exclusion, the animals must be 24 months old.

For instance, farmer A received a dairy termination program payment of $80,000. He also sold 50 raised cows (at $500 each) for $25,000 for total sales of $105,000. Of that $105,000, the beef price of $25,000 and the difference in price between the dairy value of cows ($900 per head in this example) and beef price for cows, which is $20,000, qualifies for the 60% exclusion treatment. The remaining $60,000 is reported as ordinary income on Schedule F, the Farmers Income Report.

Another change in the tax code affects farmers that receive commodity certificates and use them to redeem Commodity Credit Corp. loans. The new ruling says that the year in which a certificate is redeemed for a CCC loan then first, the loan must be reported at income if the farmer elected not to report the loan as income in the year that he took it out, and second, the value of the grain that was pledged as security for the loan must be reported as taxable income, regardless of whether is was sold or not. According to Penn State extension economist, Larry C. Jenkins, "The point where the certificate is exchanged for a loan is a taxable event."

This new rule differs from previous law in that prior to 1987, so long as the grain was held on the farm unsold, it didn't have to be reported as income.

Jenkins led the discussion on preproductive costs, another topic of interest to farmers. Under the new tax act, taxpayers, including farmers, are required to capitalize preproductive costs. The capitalization applies to the direct costs (materials, labor, veterinary, feed) and a pro-rata share of indirect costs (taxes, depreciation) incurred to support plants or animals during the preproductive period, if that period is two or more years. Animals held for slaughter, such as bull calves, are not included.

The preproductive period for a dairy cow is from conception until it drops its first calf. For plants, such as orchards, the period is from planting until the first crop is harvested.

If the farmer chooses to capitalize preproductive costs, he must either keep a record of all costs for the plant or animal's preproductive period, or assign a farm price or unit livestock price to crops and animals. "In the farm-price method, inventories are valued at market price less direct cost of disposition," said Jenkins. "The unit-livestock-price method assigns a value on each class of animal on a farm during that period. The assigned price is subject to approval by the IRS district director upon examination of the taxpayer's return." In addition, the prices and classifications, once established, must be used in subsequent years.

If the farmer chooses to deduct his preproductive costs as they occur, he must continue to deduct in subsequent years, and he binds his spouse and children under 18 years of age to the same method. Also, the farmer must use the straight-line method of depreciation and a longer recovery period for all depreciable property placed in service in 1987 or later.

If the farmer makes no decision on the tax return to capitalize or deduct preproductive costs, the IRS will record him as wishing to deduct the costs on a yearly basis with the result that he will be subject to the slower method of depreciation.

Farmers Will Get $12.75 For September Milk

NEW YORK — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during September 1987 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $12.75 per hundredweight (27.4 cents per quart); the price for the corresponding month last year was $12.79 per hundredweight. Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $12.44 in August 1987. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive fund returned a total of $3,985,166.53, or $.448 per hundredweight, to the dairy farmers' uniform price for September. This fund was generated by reducing the uniform price paid to producers during the high-production spring months.

A total of 14,578 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 888,328,133 pounds of milk during September 1987. This was a decrease of 2.7 percent (about 25 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $115,446,412.64. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 386,015,131 pounds of milk for Class I, 43.5 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For September 1987, handlers paid $13.72 per hundredweight (29.5 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $13.61 a year ago.

The balance (502,313,002 pounds or 56.5 percent) was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $11.48 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For September 1987, there was a price differential of 16.7 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

— Milk production continued its seasonal decline while September prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for milk at wholesale averaged 45 cents above a year ago, the State Department of Agriculture said today.

Federal-State surveys show total September milk production this year was 512 million pounds in comparison with 509 million pounds in September, 1956, and 542 million pounds in August of this year.

— The Pennsylvania State Plowing Contest Committee Friday voted to expend every effort to bring the 1958 National Plowing Contests to the Keystone State next August.

— Tom Halladay, Jr., R1 Kirkwood, was the only boy to have top score in his 4-H breed club as awards were presented at the annual 4-H Dairy Club Banquet Oct. 18 at Strasburg.

The three girls were Linda Mumma, Landisville, Guernsey; Sandra Rutt, Stevens, Holstein; and Carol Krantz, Ayrshire.

— During the first three years of the Farmers Home Administration's soil and water conservation loan program, 11,430 farmers borrowed more than $40.5 million to improve their soil and water resources, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

— Now Is The Time... To control chickweed... to prevent rabbit damage to trees and shrubs... to control barn fires and to provide winter pasture for sheep and hog herd.

— A Class 1 milk price of $6.35 a hundred for Lancaster County producers from January to March may be granted by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission as the result of a hearing Monday.

Lancaster County milk dealers and producers presented testimony to the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission in Lancaster on why milk prices in the Lancaster area should be raised.

Junior and Senior Dairy Show Champions

Harry Roth representing Atlantic Breeders was recognized for his support of the 4-H'ers competing in the dairy show. In addition to announcing the show, Atlantic Breeders provided show hats, the public address system and awarded show halters to the champion first year showmen.

Dee Martin was honored as the senior champion in the Ayshire division. Junior champions honored were Gerald Boyd in the Brown Swiss division; Steven Wagner in the Guernsey division; Bob Barley in the Guernsey division; and Helen Arrowsmith in the Jersey division.

Breed Champions

Tom McCauley, president of the Lancaster County 4-H Holstein Club presented the awards for the breed champions. Winners were: Angela Spickler-Ayshire; Steven Wagner-Brown Swiss; Scott Wagner-Guernsey; Holly Welty-Holstein; and Tom Arrowsmith-Jersey.

Best Owned and Bred

"One of the greatest accomplishments of showing cattle is to do well with an animal you have bred. Breeding an outstanding animal requires a vision of what you want to attain, and then selecting the right sire to help you reach that dream. Proper care of the animal and a good job of fitting and showmanship also are important. You must believe in what you are doing and have the perserverance to carry your plans to completion. You must also have the ability to recognize bad decisions, accept mistakes and failures, and the courage to forge ahead and live up to the 4-H spirit of "Making the best, better", said McCauley.

Honored with these awards were Angela Spickler-Ayshire; Janine Garber-Guernsey; Beth Kauffman-Holstein; Helen Arrowsmith-Jersey. Also, Harlen and Margret Gatchell encouraged many of the young people by making fine quality Jerseys available to the them. Friends of the Gatchells have sponsored a memorial trophy in appreciation for their many years of support. This was presented to Helen Arrowsmith, the exhbitor of the best owner-bred Jersey.

Champion Showmen

Tom Arrowsmith, President of Kids and Kows presented the champion showmen awards. Winners were Justin Howes in the first year division; in the Junior Division it was Matthew Welk and in the Senior Division Janice Garber received the award.

The reserve champion showmen were Reuben Kennel, first year division; Matthew Kolb, Junior Division; and Nickelle Wivell in the senior division.

Honored Leaders

Milton Brubaker, Elvin Hess, Kenneth Eshleman and Elam Bollinger were honored for their 25 years and over service as 4-H leaders. Bill Arrowsmith, Peter Witmer, Gary Akers, Donald Trimble and Earl Stauffer were honored for 10 to 25 years of service. Robert Kindig, Dale hershey, Robert Kauffman and Gerald Garber were honored for five to ten years of service. Richard Hess, Robert Wenger, Joe Wivell, dale Oliver and George Bard were honored for one to five years of service as leaders.

Selected for exhibiting the best owner-bred female in the dairy competitions were (from left): Janice Garber-Guernsey; Helen Arrowsmith-Jersey; Angela Spickler -Ayrshire and Beth Kauffman- Holstein.

Farmland Preservation

to corporate takeover for nonfarm development or corporate takeover for commercial farming, the rural structure of Pennsylvania will be destroyed. That's not just a dream." Carpenter said. "It will happen unless different directions and values are applied."

"In all fairness much of the public has a better appreciation for agriculture than might first be assumed," Carpenter said. "As you know, there have been several national poles conducted that show better than 60 percent of the consuming public feels the farm situation is bad and would be willing to pay more for food. And they want farmland especially in the hands of individual owners. We want to expand and regain some of our world trade for our markets. But to do that we must apply direction to trade policies. And we are grossly negligent in both our national and international situations as it relates to a realistic stable future for production agriculture."

Carpenter was in Pennsylvania as a guest of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Union for a three-day visit with farmers and other people to discuss what needs to be done and to share discussion. The national farm leader also hopes to encourage farmers to get involved in their own destiny.

4-H leaders honored for their service to the club 25 years and more were: (from left) Elam Bollinger, Kenneth Eshleman, Elvin Hess and Milton Brubaker.

Penn State Dairy School

NEW BERLIN (UNION CO.) — By popular request from dairymen the Penn State Cooperative Extension will be offering the Dairy Reproductive School for two days at the Sun Area Tech School on November 5th and 20th, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This is a good opportunity to get the latest information regarding efficiency for your dairy herd. The program takes two days and is limited to the first 50 dairymen to enroll.

The fee is only $5.00 to cover the cost of materials, and lunch is available at the school cafeteria at a nominal charge. Reservations must be in before October 28th. Dairymen who sign up will receive material ahead of time to gather some information for their herd.

To enroll, issue a check made payable to Montour County Agricultural Extension Service and mail to: Richard F. Little, RD #4, Box 8, Danville, Pa. 17821. Make sure you list your name, address and telephone number.

Schedule for Friday, Nov. 6

Maryland Schedules Breeding Conferences

KENNEDYVILLE (MARYLAND) — The Maryland Holstein Association Breed Improvement Committee will be conducting three breed imporvement conferences next week.

Pintail Point open house will be starting at 10 a.m. on October 29 with a tour of the facilities including the newest heifer barns and machinery building. There will be a parade of some of the outstanding Holsteins in the herd and a complimentary lunch will be served. Staff members as well as several of the business firms involved with the building program will be on hand to answer any questions regarding the operation.

The committee will have a meeting on the farm following lunch. The program will be on Mating Cows. Speakers will be Dr. Kathy Lee from the Holstein Association to speak on computer mating; Dr. Ron Buffington of Ohio, to speak on AA Analysis Breeding Guide; and representatives from Sire Power will speak on the mating program.

On October 27 the Karl L. Bender Farm, near Accident, Maryland in western part of the state will host a breed improvement conference to begin at 7:30 p.m.

On October 28, the Peace and Plenty Farm of Joseph Schwartzbeck will host a conference along the eastern shore area near Union Bridge The conference will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Beef Council Opens New Office

CHICAGO — The Beef Industry Council of the National Live Stock and Meat Board has opened its first field merchandising office. Opened to serve the populous northeast, it is located in Ithaca, New York.

The office will be manned by Terry Dockerty, northeast field merchandiser for the Beef Industry Council. Dockerty, formerly with the New York State Extension Service at Cornell University, has a doctor's degree in meat and animal science.

Dockerty will serve as a liaison between the beef industry and the retail and wholesale supermarkets with headquarters in the northeast. He also will be making personal visits on retailers, promoting Meat Features and other beef or veal point-of-purchase materials, identify special retail needs and communicate beef program information to packers and other processors in the area.

The office is located in Room 224, Langmuir Lab, Brown Road, Ithaca, N.Y., 14850. Phone 607-257-8452.

Scientists Complete 44-Year Task To Map Soils

It took 44 years for a small group of dedicated scientists to visit every acre of land in Pennsylvania, but it has been completed. Soil scientists of the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS) started mapping and classifying the soils of Pennsylvania in 1943.

On October 23, the final remaining acre to be mapped will have a ceremonial auger bored into the soil in Bedford County, reports Garland Lipscomb, SCS State Soil Scientist. Instead of a lone soil scientist checking the soil core for texture, drainage and other characteristics, an elite group of local, state and federal officials will proclaim the kind of soil.

Camp Living Water, Bedford County will be the location of the symbolic mapping of the last acre of soil in Pennsylvania. Program for the mapping of the final acre is being developed by officials of the Bedford County Conservation District. Officials from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, State Departments of Agriculture and Environmental Resources, Congressmen, legislators and county officials have been invited to take part in the observance.

Lipscomb noted that soils information on every acre of land in the Commonwealth is now available. Published county soil surveys will be available for all Pennsylvania counties by the end of 1991, added Lipscomb.

"This is not the end of the soil survey program in Pennsylvania, reported Lipscomb. The effort will now move into making the surveys more useable for those needing soils information."

"Soils maps will be digitized to have the information computer accessible. Some surveys will be updated to meet local needs," he added.

Lipscomb reminisced that some soil scientists spent their entire federal career working on the soil survey. "We had up to 57 soil scientists working at one time on the survey over the years," said Lipscomb.

The soil scientist, working alone, walked over every acre of land, using a hand auger to determine soil depth, texture, drainage, color and parent material. Laboratory tests were made on samples of collected soils by the Pennsylvania State University, Pennsylvania Department of Transportation and the SCS soils lab at Lincoln, Nebraska.

County soil survey reports are published following completion of field mapping and lab work. Reports are published cooperatively by the Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, the State Conservation Commission and the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Reports and soils information are available from SCS, conservation district and county agricultural extension offices located in most counties in the state.

Water Program and offers free soil and manure testing. The test results are plugged into a computer along with the farmer's management practices to devise a plan that tells the farmer how much manure to apply and when to spread it in order to increase crop yields.

Ressler considers his work to be part of a voluntary educational program for farmers. "The challenge for us is to find ways to address the water-quality problem through education. The problem can be improved if farmers have the information they need."

The problem with the water is its level of nitrates: water samples taken in the Eastern Lancaster County area exceed the maximum amount considered safe for human consumption. This excess can be attributed to the improper use of manure and commercial fertilizer. Ressler and Stoltzfus are working to alleviate this problem.

In some cases, farmers need only to stop buying additional fertilizer, their livestock's manure being high enough in nutrients for their crops.

But for those with more livestock than their land can support, the answer lies in part in applying less manure, either less often or in smaller quantities. "Farmers buying lots of feed probably have the most serious problem with excess nutrients," said Ressler. "Most of the nutrients in feed stays on the farm — it's not converted to animal product. In these cases, we encourage the farmer to take the extra manure to rent, sell it, or even give it away."

A big issue in nutrient management is what to do with the additional manure. It is, according to Ressler, a problem yet to be solved.

"One option for farmers with a facility problem is to investigate Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service contracts where the government shares the cost for building a storage container," Ressler commented. "If the problem is an excess of manure and no where to put it, then there is no certain solution."

Part of the problem in dealing with extra manure is that should a buyer be found for it, the cost of transportation is usually more than the manure's nutrients are worth.

"There was a pilot study this summer involving incinerating poultry manure," Ressler commented. "But they found that this method wasn't feasible.

"What we need to do," he continued, "is find a way to increase manure's value to be able to effectively eliminate excesses."

In the mean time, Ressler and Stoltzfus will do their part to clean drinking water by testing soil and manure and educating farmers. Ressler's goal is to provide nutrient management plans to 100 farms during the next 12 months.

New York Grange Holds Annual Meeting

CORTLAND, NY — Improving the quality of life in New York's rural areas is a top priority of the Cuomo admininstration, said First Assistant To The Governor Elaine M. Ryan as she spoke before the 115th Annual Session of the New York State Grange on Sunday in Cortland.

Addressing nearly 500 Grange delegates, officials and guests, Ms. Ryan explained that this priority will be met by addressing environmental issues, continuing agricultural research and marketing initiatives, and by developing an integrated approach to the revitalization of rural New York.

Agricultural Initiatives

Though agriculture is already recognized as New York's leading economic sector, the 1984 study "New York Agriculture 2000" indicated that new product research and development, improved marketing and greater diversification of agricultural production could yield an additional $325 million annually in farm sales as it created 28,000 new jobs and generated $1 billion throughout the rest of the State economy.

New York State's investment over the past three years, said Ryan, is paying off. Eighty percent of New York's retail supermarkets are now in the Seal of Quality Program promoting consumption of home-grown and processed agricultural products. The State's three-year-old research and development program has funded 80 of 438 project proposals; already brought several new products to market; and will continue to expand New York's capacity to meet its consumers' needs from in-state sources.

Establishment of the Grape and Wine Foundation and the Passage of the Wine Cooler Bill have brought a renaissance to the grape industry. These types of programs, said Ryan, not only strengthen markets for farmers as they create new demand in the State's food processing and distribution industries, but also give consumers access to fresher and contemporary products of exceptional quality.

As the Cuomo administration has moved to develop new products and markets, Ryan pointed to its success in working with the Legislature to help the State's dairy industry. After fifty years, said Ryan, a reform of milk licensing laws will allow statewide milk dealer licensing by April 1st. In addition, milk producer security requirements were strengthened to protect farmers and the Attorney General was authorized to take legal action to remove inter-state trade barriers restricting the flow of New York milk into neighboring states.

Environmental Issues

Environmental regulations will be on the front burner in 1988, Ms. Ryan told the Grange. Interested pest management, pesticide notification, solid waste management and groundwater protection are issues of concern to all New Yorkers.

For several years, said Ryan, New York has promoted Integrated Pest Management as a meaning of limiting pesticide applications. Since the start of the program in Wayne County, farmers have cut costs by $38/acre as they reduced pesticide use. This cost-effective crop protection also benefits the general population as it protects ground-water supplies.

The voyage of the Islip garbage scow has graphically illustrated the twin problems of increasing volumes of solid waste and decreasing space in landfills to cope with the problem. The Cuomo administration will continue work this coming year to develop lasting solutions to this statewide problem.

The Cuomo administration is paying close attention to Sen. Patrick Leahy's proposal to have the federal government provide $30 million to fund 50 percent of state rural development programs and another $205 million for rural infrastructure grants to communities with populations under 5,500.

"New York State became the first state in the nation to create an Office of Rural Affairs," said Ms. Ryan. This office will help rural local governments deal with state agencies and present a rural perspective when statewide legislation and regulations are being considered. "In particular," said Ryan, "this office has been working with the Department of Transportation to administer a new rural transportation improvement program."

The Office of Rural Affairs will be holding its first annual conference November 17th in Albany. Rural town, village and county government officials will have an opportunity to meet with Departmental Commissioners and ranking agency personnel to raise questions of concern to their localities.

Ms. Ryan invited the New York State Grange to share its priorities for the State's rural agenda as the Governor prepares his State of the State message for 1988. "I look forward to listening to your recommendations in this area," said Ms. Ryan.

As New York State Grange Master Bert S. Morse presented Ms. Ryan with an honorary Sustaining Membership to the Grange he reflected that, "The Cuomo administration has publicized the needs of agriculture more than any other administration since (Gov.) Dewey."

1st American Sheep Industry Convention

DENVER — Sheep-related products from fencing to vaccines, wool slippers to wool art, will be displayed by 50 exhibitors at the First American Sheep Industry Convention Jan. 16-20, 1988 at the Hyatt Regency in San Antonio, TX. Exhibits are open to convention participants and area residents interested in industry products, artwork and educational information.

Major agri-business companies will join with artisans from across the country to exhibit at the first joint convention of the National Wool Growers Association, American Sheep Producers Council, and the National Lamb Feeders Association. Over 1,000 people are expected to attend this important event, which will include information and education sessions, general meetings for all three organizations, tours of San Antonio and area sheep operations, and a variety of entertainment events including a Tex-Mex Fiesta.

Trade Show hours will be 8:30 a.m.-7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19, and 7 a.m.-noon Wednesday, Jan. 20. Exhibitors are sponsoring an array of special events in the trade show area, including music, food, beverages and drawings for prizes.

Exhibitors, representing some of the top handcraft artists in the country, will display a variety of wool and sheepskin products, as well as other handcrafted work including photographs, paintings, ceramics and jewelry. Other exhibits will include state-of-the-art livestock equipment, animal health products, and information on sheep breeds and associations.

The Trade Show is sponsored by the National Wool Growers Association and the National Wool Growers Women's Auxiliary. For information on exhibiting or attending the First American Sheep Industry Convention, contact the National Wool Growers Association, 10 Lakeside Lane, Suite 200, Denver, CO; (303) 455-0991.

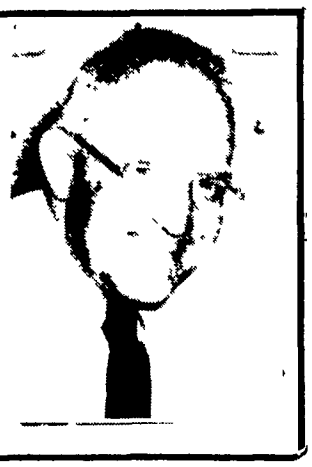
The Milk Check



TOM JURCHAK
County Agent

Early Spring

If you were looking at market reports and dairy prices, ignoring the flaming foliage and the geese flying South, you would have to believe that Spring time is here already. With butter prices dropping over 13 cents and cheese prices over seven cents, the leaves should be green and the geese flying North. Last month I mentioned that the "signs of the future" were not good for milk producers but the future is already here. The drop in the support price in October from $11.35 to $11.10 was anticipated a month ahead with butter prices dropping as much as six cents in one week. The cut in the support price of butter from $1.37 to $1.35 was only two cents but the market price dropped over 10 cents last month. Cheese wasn't quite as bad but it did drop below the new support price of $1.20 long before October. All of this gets reflected in the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series that determines your Class prices in Federal and State milk marketing orders. True, the M-W has moved up a little in recent months but it's expected to be taking leaps and bounds at this time of the year. Last year it increased 49 cents from July to September and this year only 28 cents. In addition, it's six cents lower this September than a year ago. It appears that the M-W has already peaked for 1987 at $11.42 and that's 49 cents less than the best in 1986 which was $11.91 in November.

Not all of the drop in cheese and butter prices can be accounted for in the 25 cent drop in the support price and some of the cuts may be in anticipation of the 50 cent cut in January and you are already increasing production nationally. Considering all that, what dealer wants to risk buying any more than he needs when it looks like dairy products will be even cheaper next month? I've always maintained that producers should be watching butter and cheese prices instead of Class prices or blend prices because that's where your Class prices are determined. With no over order premiums in Eastern markets you're at the mercy of the butter and cheese prices and right now the way they are behaving it looks a lot more like Spring than Fall.

It Feels So Good

If you're only looking at the numbers on your milk check, everything I've said up to now has to seem contrary to what you see. That's not hard to explain because a year ago you were paying 52 cents a hundred in assessments that you won't have this month. A year ago in September you paid 40 cents for the Dairy Termination Program and 12 cents for the Gramm-Rudman assessment. So, while milk prices are 13 cents lower than a year ago when you consider the 52 cent assessment you were paying it can look like prices are 19 cents higher. Milk checks will be looking better compared to a year ago but only because you will have no assessments starting in October. That reminds me of the fellow who hit himself with a hammer because it felt so good when he stopped.

So, how do farmers in other areas cope with falling butter and cheese prices that reflect on their milk prices? You've heard it before many times in the last two years. It's called over order pricing. You can trace the increases in the premiums that cooperatives in other markets are getting from handlers as the milk prices fall. The average for all 35 markets reporting over order premiums was 99 cents a hundred on Class I milk in September. This compares to "only" 83 cents a year ago. In individual markets the increases were even higher. In Chicago it jumped from $1.61 last year to $1.86 this year. In Milwaukee it went from $1.21 to $1.46 and in Kansas City from 96 cents to $1.10 a hundred. Some increases were as high as 25 cents and the average was 16 cents but this was in addition to the premiums they were getting in 1985 and for many years before that. The point is that where producers want to control the milk price in a market through a cooperative they can even do it in spite of falling milk prices that are determined by butter and cheese prices rather than the local sales of fluid milk. However, many producers in Eastern markets still don't feel the need for over order pricing or let their mistrust of cooperatives keep them from participating especially in Order 2.

On The Other Hand

The situation is different in Order 1 (New England) and Order 4 (Mid Atlantic). In Order 1 RCMA feels confident of obtaining a 73 cent premium on Class I milk in September, according to the Agri-Mark Monthly. According to that publication, handlers in New England who "originally opposed the RCMA premium pricing 'have' agreed to support RCMA following negotiations that ended on September 4" and "RCMA members should receive their first over order check in early November." In Order 4 the over order pricing cooperative is MACMMA — Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Agency — and according to Atlantic Update published by Atlantic Dairy Cooperative "Class I milk (price) is set at $14.70 per hundred; the Federal Order 4 price is $14.20 per hundred." "According to Dr. Paul Hand, Atlantic's general manager, the cooperative (MACMMA) will begin collecting the order premiums September 1."

On the other hand, Harold Ely, Pennsylvania coordinator for RCMA says "in Order 2 where RCMA support is not that strong the premium will be 33 cents on Class I milk and Order 2 dairymen can help themselves by joining ranks and supporting RCMA to the same extent they are in New England. If you want RCMA to work to its fullest potential the dairymen of Pennsylvania will have to get the sign up that will make that possible. Time is running out as well as the money that cooperatives are willing to spend to get RCMA organized. If you want to keep RCMA as a permanent organization to negotiate your milk prices in the future you better join today." That's from Harold Ely.

Order 2 Prices

In spite of a 25 million pound or nearly three percent drop in production in Order 2 compared to a year ago, the blend price was four cents less or $12.75 a hundred. This was 31 cents more than the August price but 10 cents of that came from a higher pay back of 45 cents from the Louisville Plan. Class prices increased 10 cents following the M-W price and you got another 10 cents from a 4.5 percent jump in Class I utilization because the schools were open and you shipped six percent less milk than in August. You'll see higher blend prices in Order 2 the next two months because the M-W went from $11.27 to $11.42 in September but after that I'm afraid it's all down hill for a long, cold winter unless you can get over order premiums.

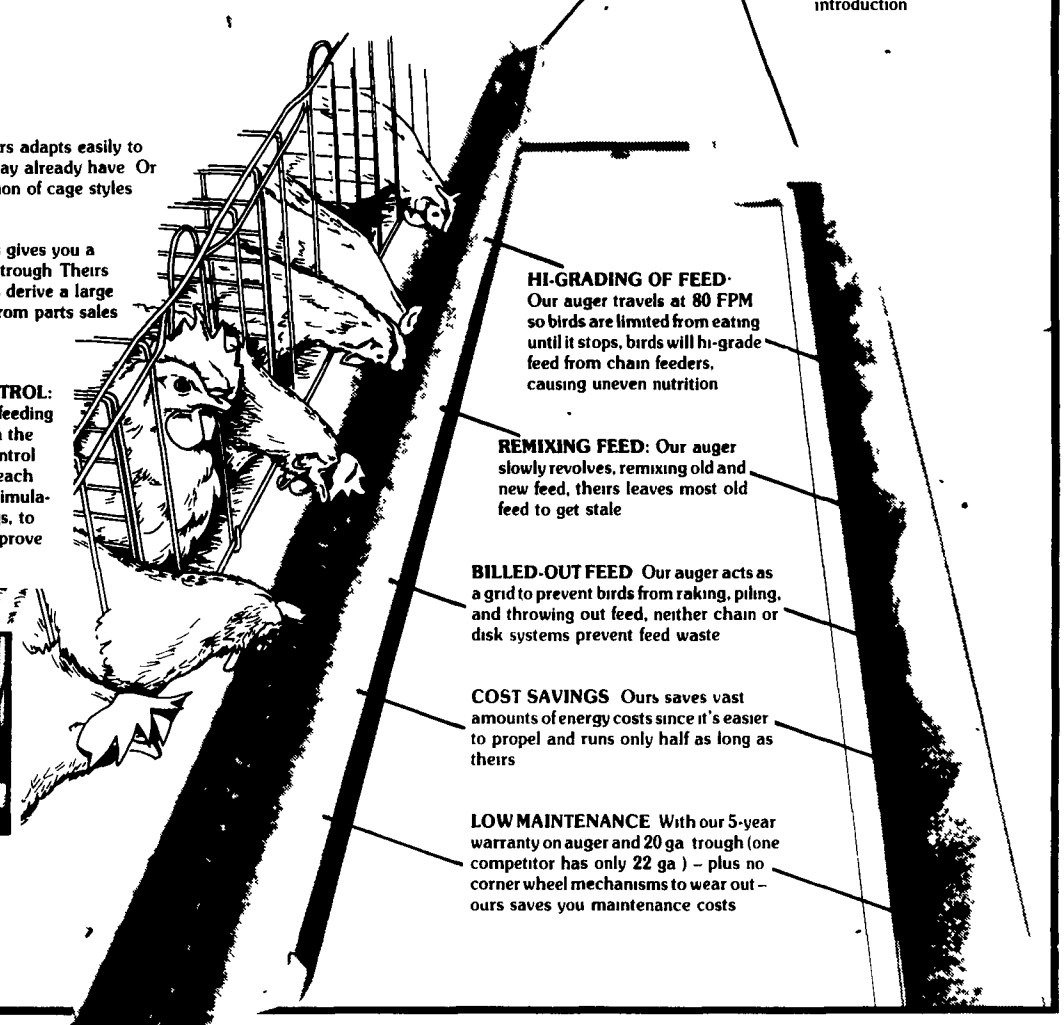
Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house Year after year

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel, their chain has more Our corners are heavy 12 ga zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life

PROVEN DESIGN Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction



EASY ADAPTABILITY· Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles

5-YEAR WARRANTY Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales Ours don't

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake

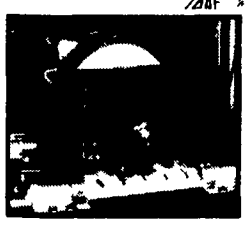
HI-GRADING OF FEED· Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops, birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed, theirs leaves most old feed to get stale

BILLED-OUT FEED Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed, neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste

COST SAVINGS Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs

LOW MAINTENANCE With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga trough (one competitor has only 22 ga) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs



SIMPLE OPERATION Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation

Gather Round: It's Produce Auction Time

Franklin Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG — Carts loaded with various types of home grown produce line the large open-air platform at Leinbach's Farm Market. Buyers walk up and down the aisles, inspecting the peppers, apples, tomatoes, chrysanthemums, squashes and pumpkins. Promptly at 11:00 an announcement comes over the microphone. "Gather round. It's produce auction time."

Owner Paul Leinbach, announcer Eddie Horst and auctioneer Richard Foreman move between the carts and start to sell produce. Bushels of apples and boxes of butternut squash and Indian corn are quickly struck off. At a cart full of cantaloupes Leinbach holds up one of the melons he has cut open. "It has a good flavor," he says.

Buyers come to the clean, colorful auction from Altoona, Pittsburgh, Erie, Baltimore, Hagerstown, Winchester, VA and the Washington, D.C. area. Most own farmer's markets or large roadside stands and resell the produce to retail customers. A few are wholesalers.

The growers who supply the produce are farmers from Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New York, and all over Pennsylvania. "We have some dedicated growers who bring us everything they farm," Leinbach said. "Others bring only their surplus, and they don't make out as well. The farmers who bring produce in steadily each week sometimes get a high price and sometimes get a low price, but they average a good price."

Leinbach owns the building and leases it to the twenty farmers who are his partners in the venture. Although the market is only two years old, Leinbach is already planning a major expansion. "We're figuring on a big new building by next year. We're going to go all out for the buyers and growers." The new building will be across Route 11 from the present building and will have two to three times the space and five times the parking area as the current site.

Originally from Lancaster County, Leinbach has lived in the Shippensburg area for eighteen years. He has been involved with produce all his life, both wholesale and retail.

The market, which has a staff of seven, had over $225,000 in total sales in 1986. "We're hoping to near double that in 1987," Leinbach said.

"We definitely need more growers," he stressed. "Those who bring in produce consistently, in medium-sized lots, are the most satisfied with the price. Some bring one truck load a month and flood the market." Buyers like to come, he added, when they can find certain produce there each week. "They don't want to drive one or two hundred miles and find no cauliflower or potatoes," he said.

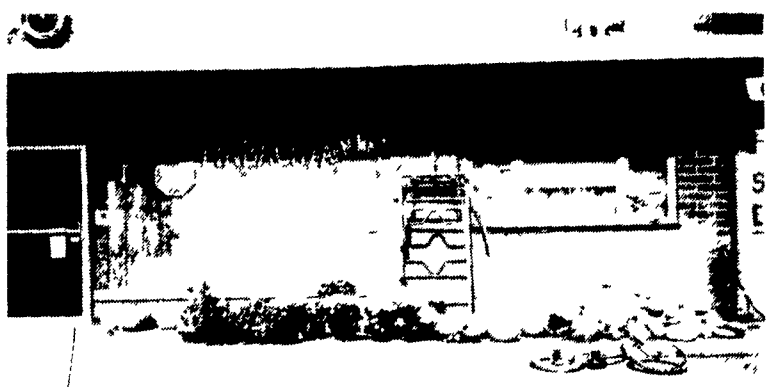
The market is open to all buyers except retail purchasers.

John Shearer, Franklin County Extension Agent, visited Leinbach's Market recently. "This type of outlet for produce certainly makes production of vegetables and fruits in this area more attractive. It gives the grower one more possible way to market his produce," he said. "Also, it's an alternative to the more traditional dairy, beef, hog and poultry production. It opens up an outlet for the small farmer who can't be a dairyman or who wants to quit dairying," he added.

Cauliflower, apples and pumpkins ready for sale at Leinbach's Farm Market.

The auctions start in mid-May with sales three days a week. In July and August, produce is sold six days a week, tapering off to three days a week in September and October. Starting November 1, auction will be held on Thursdays only. All sales at the building start at 11 A.M.

Farmers interested in growing produce for the market may call Leinbach at 717-530-1700.



Leinbach's Farm Market has grown quickly in the two years since it was started and plans further expansion.

Farmer-Owned Dairy Store Opens

WASHINGTONVILLE, PA — "For 25 cents, you can have lunch on dairy farmers."

That's what officals of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative say is one of the bargains to be found, while supplies last, at the two-day Grand Opening of the co-op's sixth dairy store on Oct. 23 and 24.

Located in Washingtonville, PA, the store will kick off the grand opening with a ribbon-cutting at 10 a.m. Friday, Oct. 23, by local dignitaries and dairy officials.

Dairy princesses, a clown and store personnel will be handing out free food and product samples. There also will be discounts galore, including a 25-cent lunch consisting of a hog dog and a glass of milk.

Besides a vast array of fresh dairy products, other food items and farm supplies, the store boasts a hot food bar and self-serve gasoline pumps.

"People who patronize this store are in effect buying from local dairy farmers," says Eastern President R. LaVerne McCarty, a dairy farmer from Forksville, PA. "We like to foster that link between consumers and dairy farmers, not only because of the fresh dairy products, but also because this store, and the other five like it, are owned by the 3,700 member-farmers of Eastern."

Eastern General Manager Michael Donovan noted that the stores are operated by the co-op's rapid-growth Dairy Products Division, which is based in Canton, PA. Started just a few years ago as a way to provide members of the co-op with inexpensive bulk cheese and butter, he said the service quickly mushroomed into a series of rural truck routes bringing hundreds of products to tens of thousands of customers in 11 states. Under the guidance of Manager Thad Woodward, Donovan added, the Dairy Products Division also decided to test the retail outlet business, which proved so successful that it opened the last three stores in just a year and a half.

The division, which employs some 70 people, posted $7.5 million in sales last year, Donovan said, and is targeting a sales increase of about 15 percent this year.

Besides Washingtonville, Eastern has stores in Troy, Canton and Wellsboro, PA, and in Fulton and Newark, NY.

The Eastern National Livestock Show recently held it's annual 4-H/FFA and Collegiate Judging Contest in Timonium, MD.

Seven 4-H teams and 13 Collegiate teams participated at this year's 40th anniversary show and sale which attracted approximately 10,000 people. Indiana 4-H and Purdue University were named the top teams in the contest.

Participants from Maine to Florida and as far west as Indiana attended the Eastern National Livestock Show. The awards were presented at a breakfast sponsored by the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore.

Eastern Milk Directors Elects New Officers

SYRACUSE, NY — Dairy farmer R. LaVerne McCarty of Forksville, has been elected president of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative. He succeeds Earl R. Forwood of Hop Bottom, who was president for the past four years.

An Eastern member for 30 years, McCarty was first elected to the board of directors in 1981 and has served as vice president for the past two years. He and his wife, Dora, operate a 350-acre farm with their son, Tracy. They milk some 80 Holsteins. The McCartys also have three other children.

As president, McCarty will serve for one year, representing some 3,700 farmers in nine states. As a member of the board, he also represents more than 250 farmers in a district that includes Sullivan and East Bradford counties in Pennsylvania and parts of Chemung and Tioga counties in New York.

McCarty was elected at the board's reorganizational meeting, which followed the Eastern Annual Meeting held Oct. 6-7 in Syracuse, NY. Also elected were:

- Robert Gabel of Newport, PA, vice president.
- George Fuller of Cohocton, NY, secretary.
- George Haddad of Bainbridge, NY, treasurer.
- Charles Freligh of Cayuga, NY, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Vice President Gabel and his wife, Berneice, operate a 200-acre farm in Newport, PA, milking some 40 cows out of a herd of 80 Holsteins. The Gabels, who have a son and a daughter, were honored earlier this year as 1987 Master Farmers. The award was bestowed by Pennsylvania Farmer magazine and the Cooperative Extension of five states (Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and West Virginia). Gabel was a delegate for 12 years before being elected to Eastern's board two years ago. As a director, he represents over 200 farmers in portions of southcentral Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Gabel has been active in a number of agricultural organizations, including 4-H, Newport Young Farmers Organization, the Grange, the DHIA board, and the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Advertising and Promotion Board.

Secretary Fuller and wife Lois milk 30 Holsteins on a 225-acre farm in Cohocton, NY. He is a past chairman of the New York State Grange Dairy Committee, past president of the County Farm Bureau, and past chairman of the Allegany County Dairy Princess Committee. Fuller served as a delegate for 19 years before his election to the board in 1979. He served as assistant secretary-treasurer this past year, secretary for three years before that, and as treasurer before that. As a director, Fuller represents some 200 farmers in a district straddling New York and Pennsylvania in the western parts of those states.

Treasurer Haddad and wife Shirley operate a 240-acre farm in Bainbridge, NY, milking some 60 Holsteins. They have five children. Haddad is a member of the Bainbridge Local, where he served as a delegate for three years and as vice president for two years before being elected to the board in 1980. He is beginning his third term as treasurer. As a director, he represents over 200 farmers in parts of Chenango, Cortland, Madison, Otsego, Delware and Broome counties.

Assistant Secretary-Treasurer Freligh and his wife, Margaret, have two daughters and two sons. They milk 80 head and maintain a herd of 160 Holsteins on a 400-acre farm in Cayuga, NY. Freligh has been active in a number of agricultural organizations, including the Cayuga County Holstein Club, state and national Holstein-Friesian associations, and the County Cooperative Extension. He was elected to the board two years ago after serving as a delegate from the Throop Local for a year. As a director he represents over 250 farmers in parts of the Finger Lakes region and Central New York.

Headquartered in Syracuse, NY, Eastern Milk Producers is a dairy cooperative with some 3,700 member-farmers in nine states. Those member-farmers own two cheese plants in New York's Southern Tier, which are leased to Leprino Foods Corp.; a butter and powder plant at Grove, PA; and milk receiving stations at Dover, DE; Sunbury, PA, and Hinesburg, VT. Eastern's Products Division in Canton, PA, operates six dairy stores, and a bulk-buying service with truck routes serving rural customers in 11 states.

New York To Host National Grange Convention

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The 121st annual convention of the National Grange will be held Nov. 9-15 in Syracuse, New York. Officers and delegates representing 365,000 members nationwide will debate legislative issues of importance to the economic welfare of rural America.

Certain to be among the topics discussed will be U.S. trade policy, agricultural exports, food safety inspection, social security benefits, welfare reform, primary and secondary highways, fiscal and monetary policy, election law reform and targeted farm program benefits. Action taken by the voting delegates will determine future National Grange legislative policy.

This is also an election year for the National Grange. Edward Andersen, National Master, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election. He was elected National Master in 1979 and re-elected to three consecutive two year terms.

The Junior department of the Grange will begin its 100th birthday celebration at this year's convention with a centennial luncheon on Fri., Nov. 13. Special events are planned throughout 1988 for Junior Granges nationwide. The celebration will culminate at the November 1988 National Grange convention in Redding, California.

The Syracuse convention is expected to draw a minimum of 5,000 Grange members. New York is one of the top five states in Grange membership with 500 local chapters and approximately 30,000 members. The Grange is the only farm organization which is also a fraternal order. Thousands of members are expected to attend ritualistic degree conferrals on Sat., Nov. 14 at the Landmark Theatre.

During the convention the Grange will also announce national awards for community service, membership development, art, photography, sewing, needlework, public speaking, talent and youth leadership.

Ag Secretary To Speak In Scranton

SCRANTON — Boyd Wolff, State Secretary of Agriculture, will speak on "Economic Development in Rural Areas of Pennsylvania" on Tuesday, November 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Scranton at the Best Western University Inn on Mulberry Street and Franklin Avenue, according to Wilfred Richards, president of the Lackawanna County Cooperative Extension Association.

The Secretary will explain the new programs linking the state's rural areas to Governor Casey's Economic Development Partnership. These programs to revitalize Pennsylvania's economy, include efforts to improve rural development and are a major component of the Partnership.

Secretary Wolff has been an active dairy farmer for 33 years winning the Master Farmer Award in 1970. He has served on the Penn State Board of Trustees and has been a director of the Federal Land Bank and the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

The occasion for the meeting in Scranton is the combined Annual meeting of the Lackawanna County Cooperative Extension and the Farm-City Week dinner of the Greater Scranton Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee. The public is invited to attend. A reception will be held for the Secretary at 7:30 p.m. before dinner is served. Reservations must be made before November 4 by mailing $6.00 per person to the Lackawanna County Cooperative Extension at 200 Adams Avenue, Scranton, Pa. 18503. For more information call the Extension office at 717-963-6842.

serve the scenic and productive qualities of Pennsylvania's rural landscape. For nearly 20 years, the state has been genuinely interested in saving farmland. In 1969, Governor Raymond Shafer appointed a committee to come up with recommendations for conservation of agricultural areas and every governor and General Assembly since the completion of that study has worked on developing a farmland conservation program. In 1981, the General Assembly passed the Agricultural Area Security Act (Act 43) which provided for a farmland conservation program, but funding to implement the program was not included. This referendum is intended to provide that funding.

As a major supporter of ag-land preservation, I encourage all Pennsylvanians, not just farmers and rural residents, to support the referendum on the November ballot. I am hopeful that the citizens of this Commonwealth will realize that only by protecting our rich and fertile lands can we hope to preserve the beauty and bounty of Pennsylvania agriculture.

Kirkland

although the number of milking cows decreased from the same period last year, 3 million cows were added from August of 1987 to September.

For September 1986:

— number of milking cows was 8.95 million

— production per cow was 1,080 lbs.

— total milk production was 9.662 billion pounds.

For September 1987:

— number of milking cows was 8.775 million.

— production per cow was 1127 lbs.

For August 1987:

— number of milking cqws was 8.772 million

— milk production per cow was 1171 lbs.

— total milk production was 10.27 billion pounds.

"This totally blew away all the predictions I had made," said Kirkland."I did not think production would come back so fast."

Kirkland attributes the production increase to dairy producers in California and the southwest and he sees the very real possibility of a cut in support prices by 1988, although he would rather see the dairy termination program reinstated. However, he does not think that will happen.

Buy-out Program Vs. Price Cut

"Reducing the support prices hurts everybody. I believe Congress is reluctant to reinstate the DTP, but another 50 cent drop in support prices would make it very tough for everybody. I would much rather see them bring back the DTP because that allows the farmers who want to get out of farming to do so and the ones who reallly want to stay in, to be able to get the prices they need to enable to continue farming.

"I think you have to be careful in the dairy industry. You can push prices too low," he added, "and if dropped down to a certain level, a big bunch of farmers may go out of the industry."

Dropping prices may force farmers out of the industry because they do not adhere to good management practices and sound financial planning. However, Kirkland warns that if prices are allowed to drop too low it would be impossible for many farmers to continue. However, the farmers who would be pushed out of the industry are not the farmers who are overproducing.

Regional Farm Policy

This hints at a regional farm policy which meets with a great deal of resistance in Congress, according to Kirkland. The problem as Kirkland sees it is that support prices are nationwide, however the over production is not. While the northeast and the southeast have their supply and demand in line, milk producers in the west and south west are drastically over producing.

In September of 1987 the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) purchases were 22 million milk equivalent (ME) units and 164,000 in the same week of 1986. In the first nine days of October of 1987 CCC purchases were 204 million and for the same period in 1986 it was 60 million and last week CCC purchases were 183 million and for the same period in 1986 it was 15 million ME units.

"The large sales in the last three weeks did that. California had a 9 percent increase in sales to the CCC," said Kirkland. "That is why it is very important to look at this per state. We must bring this out and look at government purchases per state."

CCC Purchases High In West

Washington state, according to Kirkland, sells 30 percent of its production to the CCC and California sells 20 percent of its production while Pennsylvania in 1985-86 sold less than two percent even in the years when purchases were high.

Apparently farms in the west can sell to the government and still make a profit. They can produce milk for a lower price. However, the impending support price cut Kirkland feels would be too low for many northeast farmers who make less profit per unit of input to be able to continue.

The government buys the overproduction through the CCC and the national policy is geared on the level of the CCC purchases. But the California production increase isn't taken into consideration. Kirkland strongly suggests that CCC purchases should be separated by state and the milk equivalent purchases would point the finger at some areas.

"This must be brought out, although I don't know that this will change government policy. There is a great deal of resistance when a regional farm policy is mentioned. But it has to be brought out and we can certainly make the Congress aware of the impact adversely to certain areas as price supports drop in certain regions," said Kirkland.

It is very important to get the ag policy out of Congress and out of politics, says Kirkland.

"We can't have an industry which operates under new policy every two years. Let the secretary of ag determine national policy. Farmers can't operate a business with a market price that can fall every few years. It makes it impossible to do any planning," said Kirkland.

NE Dairymen Must Cut Costs

Kirkland also pointed out that when it is no longer feasible for western milk producers to produce milk for the price it is receiving, they have alternatives available. They can do something else. However, Kirkland feels the alternatives are not available for the northeast dairy farmers.

"Costs must be kept down in the northeast in order to be competitive. Northeast farmers will need to scrutinize spending practices. In areas where there are big herds their size permits them to buy in large quantities so they can operate at a lower unit cost."

"This situation could force north-east producers to get bigger. Small farmers, although efficient, cannot generate enough income for a family to exist and will need to supplement with off-farm income or make the decision to go to the bigger farms."

The middle herd size will not make the transition, according to Kirkland. The middle herd size may be too labor intensive to allow the farmer to pursue off-farm income and too small to be able to reap the benefit of a large farm and making large purchases with the inherent cost reduction.

The northeast farmers have a competitive advantage because they are located near population centers and transportation costs may be less than for western producers, but that will not give northeast producers the advantage that they need. It is critical that northeast farmers must do a better job of financial management. Kirkland feels that farmers in 1988 will have to take up another notch in their belts and certainly there will be a group that won't be able to survive in 1988.

There are some bright spots in all this, consumption is increasing, says Kirkland. In 1986 consumption increased by 2.8 percent. And culling prices are up which is a good sign.*Culling prices for September 1986 were $35.8/100 wt.; for August 1987 were $42.3/100 wt; and for September 1987 were $43.80/100 wt. There was a 22.3 percent increase because fewer cows are being sold.

Another facet of the problem is that farmers in the northeast have an emotional attachment to farming, whereas the west coast producers do not, and as Kirkland adds, to the west coast farmers, farming is only a business. And when that business is no longer profitable, they can always do something else. However, to the farmers in the northeast and southeast, farming is a way of life and for some of them there is no alternative. All in all, farming is still going to be a tought battle in the east as Kirkland sees it.

Another Route 23/30 Meeting Set

Another meeting to help clarify the issues of the 23/30 bypass through Lancaster County Amish country is scheduled for Wednesday, October 28, at the Leola Fire Hall according to Richard Armstrong, sponsor of the meetings. Starting time is 7:30 p.m.

Three previous meetings announced last week had an average attendance of 50 persons. And others who would like more information or who would like to express their opinion to the state are invited to this meeting. The state has requested this input but the questionaire that was sent out is reportedly lengthy and complicated.

The present situation came about whan an overwhelming turnout of Amish farmers by their presence at a public meeting quietly made their opposition to the highway known. Plans call for the state to make its recommendations back to the community in December.

A Houseful Of Company Brings Laughter

BY LOU ANN GOOD

FLEETWOOD (BERKS) — Judy and Luke Kurtz fill their lives and home with people they love. Their 100-acre Fleetwood farm with its spacious 19-century farmhouse is the ideal place for friends, neighbors and relatives to celebrate life by enjoying each other's company.

And celebrate they do, especially during holidays. Judy recalls that several years ago they had 31 relatives as overnight guests. "We put them on windowsills and hung them from the ceiling," she joked.

Seriously, the Kurtz's home, although large, was a bit cramped by the guests who pushed furniture aside to lay down spare mattresses and sleeping bags. But the crowded conditions only added to the laughter and jokes. Judy asks, "Did you ever watch 31 people try to brush their teeth at one time?"

Gracious entertaining begins with planning. Judy explained, "When I first began having company, I thought everything had to be perfect. I tried to clean cupboards, closets and everything else plus do the cooking. Needless to say, I was exhausted by the time my guests arrived.

Now, she said she does her detailed housekeeping in advance so that the week she entertains she only has minimal cleaning. That leaves more time for cooking and allows her to be more relaxed so she can enjoy her company.

"I do a lot of things to add to the atmosphere," Judy said. Atmosphere, Judy believes, enhances communication. She likes to make the house smell inviting by simmering a mixture of 3 apple peels and cores, 2 orange peels, 3 cinnamon sticks, 6 cloves and 2 cups of water. The aroma wafts throughout the house and gives their home "a cozy, not sterile feeling." She uses a lot of candlelight and special effect lighting to increase the cozy atmosphere.

Their century-old farmhouse lends itself well to her country decorating touches. "I think the way a person decorates expresses his or her personality," Judy remarked.

With that thought in mind, the Kurtz's home is loaded with personality. Collectibles and handicrafts fill the nooks and crannies of their home. Judy said, "You don't need a lot of money to decorate. She points out that "I just collect junk by frequenting yard sales, flea markets and craft shops."

For antique hunting, Judy said, "I don't look for perfect pieces. An antique has more character if it is earmarked with nicks and bangs." Judy tries to purchase pieces that hold their value and can be handed down to the next generation.

She believes displaying antique dishes, pots and pans are too cold unless fabric, dried flower or wooden touches are interspersed to add warmth. In her kitchen dining area a wooden box contains a bundle of dried baby's breath and a treadle sewing machine that still works has a homespun runner on top.

Judy likes to experiment by combining collectibles with handcrafted articles. "It gives you a sense of satisfaction to look at something your created. She admits that the collectibles that line her walls fill a dual purpose. "They cover a lot of structual imperfections that older homes are prone to have."

To Judy, hospitality is more than centerpieces, menus, table settings and spotless rooms. She puts a lot of emphasis not on elegance or finery but on the sharing and laughter that comes with entertaining. "It's always a positive experience," Judy said. "That's why we keep inviting people again and again."

Entertaining seems to be dying out in the present generation and those who don't open their homes to others miss a lot, Judy believes. Her own interest in becoming a gracious hostess stemmed from being a dairy farmer's wife and being tied to a schedule. "If we were visiting others we needed to leave early and go home to milk the cows, but if we invited guests, they enjoyed the farm atmosphere and stayed on through the milking time."

Luke and Judy have two children, Jonathan, 10, and Tammy, 6. Their children enjoy having company as much as their parents. With their friends they explore the barn, take them for snowmobile and three-wheeler rides and do gymnastics on their olympic-size trampoline.

The Kurtz farmhouse is Luke's parents' homestead. Judy said, "They had 11 children so they had a big kitchen that comes in handy for entertaining. She added that an enclosed porch stays cold enough in the winter to store pies and fresh citrus fruits that are needed for entertaining large groups.

With practice and a few pointers, Judy believes others can learn to be gracious hostesses. She said, "Don't be afraid to accept help from your guests."

One of the easiest meals to serve is buffet style. "Arrange your food on a countertop or table, have your guests grab a plate, fill it and find a place to sit," Judy suggests.

"And don't be afraid to let your guests help," Judy emphasized. During family gatherings, her four brothers and one brother-in-law often prepare breakfast and everyone helps to wash dishes and clean up.

Today, with microwaves and other conveniences, many dishes like potato filling can be prepared ahead of time.

"If you're having a crowd, make sure you stock up on the toliet paper and your plumbing works," she warns. Judy believes she's lucky to have some relatives living nearby who share silverware and bedding with her when her home overflows. In fact, some times she uses their ovens when her own is full.

The Kurtz's take a lot of pleasure in sharing their home with others. They encourage acquaintances to have a houseful of company, bring out the games, pop some popcorn and prepare for fun, laughter and warm memories that linger.

The enclosed porch fulfills versatile uses. During the winter months, Judy uses it to store foods that need to be kept cool when her refrigerator overflows. Windows line the outside wall and overlook the countryside so it's an ideal spot to relax during warm summer days. Backdoor visitors use the porch as an entrance to the Kurtz home.

"Collectibles needn't be expensive," Judy said. Here she displays several interspersed with a few pieces from her agateware collection.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"I was going to go to work today, but then the kids needed rides several places, I had laundry to do, and I never did get to the job."

"Gee, where can you get a job like that?" I wondered with envy, after reading the above comment in a printed article.

Reading a few lines farther revealed that the individual making the comment worked at home.

On second thought, I could have very well said that myself.

The self-help article proceeded with advice on how those of us who work (for pay, as opposed to all the daily non-pay stuff) at home with some degree of accomplishment and credibility. For instance, we're supposed to dress for the part, rather than hack around the household office in a bathrobe and slippers.

How does worn blue jeans and sneakers sound? I mean, I'd look awfully silly taking a break from the computer to put cows in the barn, dressed in heels, stockings and a skirt.

The barn is only one of the many diversions from discipline at the computer keyboard. And, on a crisp, sunny October morning, the temptation to linger anywhere but the office is heavy.

Like the "homeworker" above, laundry needs almost constant attention, and seems to pile up endlessly. And, my deep Pennsylvania Dutch roots tell me it's unthinkable to toss wet laundry in the clothes dryer on a gorgeous day when it can be hung out in the breeze.

Besides, it's a superb excuse to get out into the sunshine.

Immediately, at least a half dozen kittens come charging through the yard, tumble around my feet, and climb into the wash basket. One takes a flying leap, and lands, claws clinging to my heavy jeans, square on my right knee -- an incredibly bad habit of these kittens. Someday one will do that to a visitor wearing expensive pantyhose.

So, hanging out the laundry takes a while. Petting kittens is time consuming when they must be pried off one's knees.

Frost damage to the flower border needs a quick check, to see what might be salvageable for indoors. Not much but the roses, which thrive on the cooler weather. Their razor-sharp thorns demand cutting with a pruner, which means another quick trip to the basement for the proper tool.

Back in the office, roses established in a vase, the keyboard and I punch out a couple of sentences. I spot the mailman's vehicle and retrieve the day's delivery. Sorting and checking the worthwhile stuff from the junk takes another several minutes.

Before another sentence is on the screen, the phone will ring at least once, perhaps twice, maybe even three times.

Another load of laundry is ready to be hung out. Accompanied by the kittens.

Somewhere between noon and one o'clock, someone will show up for lunch. Maybe. On half-days of scheduled classes, the college student arrives home with the day's news to share. Another call comes in.

Afternoons sometimes offer an hour or two of uninterrupted time. But supper must be started. A quick trip to the post office. Our high schooler charges through the door, home from school, and stampedes the kitchen for rescue from impending starvation. About four, I'll be summoned to help put the cows into their stalls for evening milking.

Still, the benefits of being a "homeworker" usually outweigh the distractions. No computer traffic (except for falling over a row of kittens). A low-cost clothing budget. Flexible hours. All the coffee breaks I want to take.

Maybe I just need to have my mother remind me occasionally to get at it and get my homework done.

Get The Facts Through Nutri-Facts

Are your facts straight? There seems to be more confusion over the place of meats in our diet than nearly any other food. However, help is on the way.

Consumers can now get accurate nutrient information from a program developed by the National Livestock and Meat Board called NUTRI-FACTS. The program is based on recommendations from the National Academy of Sciences, the American Heart Association and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Product labels and point-of-purchase posters and pamphlets were designed to give consumers up-to-date nutritional information about red meats.

The NUTRI-FACT materials are based on the recommended serving size of three ounces, which actually means three ounces of trimmed, cooked and boned meat. Properly prepared and eaten in moderation (meaning no more than two 3-oz. servings a day), red meats can contribute substantially to a well balanced diet.

For example, one serving of meat can provide over half of the recommended daily allowance for protein. But even more importantly, meat contains an excellent balance of amino acids as well as vitamins and minerals.

Pork, as bacon, ham or spareribs, is always a favorite. Although the nutrient value depends on the cut, degree of trim, and extent of processing, the nutrient content remains fairly constant. Pork contains more thiamine (necessary for growth) than other meats. It also contains large amounts of B vitamins.

Lamb, which is growing in popularity, is the lowest in calories of all red meats and is a good source of iron and B-vitamins.

Beef contains high quality essential amino acids, which meet our nutritional needs more closely than most other meats. Lean beef is an excellent source of the B-complex vitamins and liver is a good source of vitamins A, C, and D. Beef also contains many of the major and minor minerals required for body function.

Perhaps one of the biggest controversies concering red meat is its high cholesterol. In fact, many do not know that cholesterol is not only necessary for normal body function, but that it is manufactured by the body if their diet does not supply enough.

The American Heart Association recommends limiting cholesterol to 300 mg. a day. Most three ounce servings of beef, lamb or pork contain less than 80 mgs. of cholesterol, which is well below the recommended amount.

Are You A Burn-Out Candidate?

Burn-out — that physical and emotional feeling of not being able to do another thing — can rob us of an energetic and fun life.

Burn-out is one reaction to too much stress in our lives. Place a check mark by the descriptions that apply to you:

—— I am often tense and anxious and/or I often experience muscle tightness.

—— I am more and more prone to negative addictions — smoking, overeating, drinking, using drugs or tranquilizers.

—— When I try to relax I feel guilty about important unfinished work.

—— I seldom control how my time is used. it is controlled by crises and other people.

—— I feel isolated. I have no one to let off steam to, no one's shoulder to cry on.

—— I'm supposed to have all the answers. I often have no one to turn to for advice in dealing with especially difficult problems.

If you've checked three or more of the above items, you may need to reduce the stress level in your life.

Consider these helps... take a mini-vacation, exercise regularly, reduce demands on your time by learning to say "no", learn to talk to others about your problems, and give yourself permission to relax.

Microwave Cooking

BY AUDREY HALLGREN

Casseroles are easier to prepare than ever with the speed and convenience of the modern microwave oven. You can also convert many of your favorite casserole recipes, but before adapting a recipe, compare it with a similar microwave recipe in the cookbook you received when you purchased your oven. It is very important to check the amounts of ingredients, cooking times, and power settings. Other pointers to consider:

1. Because there is less evaporation when microwaving than during conventional cooking, the amount of liquid should be reduced. A good rule of thumb is to reduce the liquid by half.

2. Seasonings, including most herbs and spices should be reduced by half because there is less liquid to dilute them. You can always add more after tasting.

3. Use ingredients of similar size and shape. Occasional stirring or turning of the dish will also help promote even cooking, as will covering the dish.

4. If the casserole has a cheese topping, it is better to add the cheese toward the end of the cooking period since overcooking will cause the cheese to be tough or stringy.

5. Casseroles that contain a cheese or sour cream sauce should be cooked on less than full power to achieve fast cooking without overcooking or curdling.

I think all of us have yummy casseroles that are reminiscent of Mom or Grandma or a special friend, and is there anyone who does not enjoy tasting casseroles at a potluck and discovering a wonderful new version of an old favorite?

These recipes will fit even the busiest of lifestyles, and I hope you will discover for yourself that good taste has not been sacrificed.

Italian Zucchini Bake

1 pound bulk pork sausage
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
3 cups thin zucchini slices
½ pound cheese spread, cubed.

Cook sausage for 4-5 minutes on High; drain. Stir in sour cream, bread crumbs and oregano. Cover bottom of a round or oval baking dish with 2 cups of zucchini; top with meat mixture and cheese spread. Arrange remaining zucchini around edge of baking dish; cover with wax paper. Bake on medium power for 4-7 minutes until zucchini softens and casserole is heated through.

Mom's Goulash

1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, chopped
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups uncooked egg noodles
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce

1. Crumble ground beef into 2-quart casserole; add onion.

2. Microwave (high), uncovered, 5 to 6 minutes or until no longer pink, stirring once. Stir to break meat into pieces; drain. Mix in remaining ingredients. Cover with casserole lid.

3. Microwave (high) 13 to 15 minutes or until noodles are tender, stirring 2 or 3 times.

Quick Chicken Parmesan

4 deboned chicken breasts, halved
1 Tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup dry bread crumbs
½ cup parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon paprika
Dash pepper
¼ cup spaghetti sauce
Mozzarella cheese

1. Microwave (high) butter in 8" oval baking dish 30-45 seconds or until melted.

2. Mix together bread crumbs, parmesan cheese, paprika and pepper. Dip chicken in butter, then in bread crumb mixture, coating both sides evenly. Place in baking dish. Cover with paper towel.

3. Microwave (high) uncovered 1-1½ minutes, or until heated through.

4. Top with mozzarella cheese. Cover with foil to maintain heat. Let stand at least 10 minutes before serving. It is very important to allow 10 minutes standing time so chicken will continue to cook into center of meat.

■ You can get rid of eggplant's bitter taste by salting slices and allowing them to drain in a colander for 30 minutes. Be sure to rinse to get rid of the salt.

■ Packaged salad dressings are a $650 million-a-year industry.

■ Jerusalem artichokes, also known as sunchokes, accumulate calories as they're stored because of a chemical change that takes place in their carbohydrate content. When freshly dug, small tubers contain as few as 7 calories; after storage, the level can jump to 75.

Warm Up With Soup

Soups have long been an outstanding part of the world's cuisines. To a chef, soups can be one of the most versatile components in meal planning. They can serve as a hearty introduction to any meal or as a satisfying main course.

For budget-minded cooks, soups play an important role in low-cost menus. Not only are they highly nutritious, but they can include broths and leftovers which many homemakers may discard. Inexpensive meat cuts which are generally used in soup making have the same nutritive value as higher-priced cuts.

Readers have shared their most tantalizing soups. For delicious soups to warm you on these cold days, try both traditional and newly-created soups.

GRANDMA'S POTATO SOUP (With Rivels)

8-10 medium potatoes, diced
1 tablespoon chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2½ cups milk
2 tablespoon heavy cream
RIVELS:
1 cup flour
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt

Peel and dice potatoes about ½ -inch size. Cover with water and bring to a boil. With a spoon, remove the foam that forms and discard. To boiling potatoes; add onions, celery and salt. Boil on low heat until quite soft. When they are almost soft, prepare rivels by mixing rivel ingredients until crumbed about the size of rice (use a bit more flour if it seems sticky). Slowly add rivel mixture to boiling potatoes, stirring briskly with a long-handled fork to prevent clumping. Turn heat to simmer and allow to cook for a few minutes more. Stir often to keep from scortching.

Warm the milk in a separate kettle. Add to potatoes. Mix in butter and heavy cream for good-tasting soup. A dash of pepper or chopped parsley or celery salt makes it even better.

HEARTY HAMBURGER SOUP

2 tablespoons butter
1 pound hamburger
2 cups tomato juice
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 cups milk
1 cup chopped onions
½ cup chopped green peppers
1 cup diced potatoes
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ cup flour

Melt butter in saucepan, brown meat and cook onion until transparent. Stir in remaining ingredients except flour and milk. Cover and cook over low heat until vegetables are tender, about 20-25 minutes. Combine flour with 1 cup milk. Stir into soup. Boil. Add remaining milk.

Liberty, Ky.

DOUBLE MUSHROOM SOUP

½ ounce dried mushrooms
1½ cups hot water
1½ teaspoon peanut oil
1 medium leek (white part only), well rinsed, dried, coarsely chopped
1 large shallot, sliced about ¼ cup
½ rib celery, coarsely chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
3 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
Pinch dried tarragon

Soak dried mushrooms in hot water. Heat oil in medium saucepan over medium heat. Add leek, shallot, celery, and garlic. Cover pan and cook, stirring once, until wilted, about 5 minutes. Stir in fresh mushrooms; cook covered, stirring once, until mushrooms are slightly soft and begin to give off juices, about 5 minutes. Strain soaked dried mushrooms over saucepan and press mushrooms with back of spoon to extract as much liquid as possible. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 5 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients. Serve hot. Serves 2.

Everybody welcomes a big bowl of soup when the weather turns chilly, especially if its a hearty soup to be a meal in itself.

CREAM OF BROCCOLI SOUP

1 large head broccoli, washed and cut into pieces
2 tablespoon onion, minced
2 stalks celery, minced
2 tablespoons margarine
¼ cup sifted flour
1 13-ounce can chicken broth
1 cup light cream, scalded
dash of salt

Cook broccoli in small amounts of water until tender. In a saucepan, saute onion and celery in margarine about 3 minutes. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in broth. Cook until broth is slightly thick. Stir in broccoli and cream. Heat gently.

HAMBURGER STEW

Brown in heavy skillet or kettle:
1 pound ground beef
Drain excess fat and add:
2 cups tomato juice
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup diced potatoes
1 cup diced carrots
1 cup frozen lima beans
1 teaspoon salt

Cover and simmer until vegetables are tender.

Make a white sauce:
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk

Blend into first mixture and serve. Serves 6.

CORRECTION

On September 19 a recipe called Chicken and Rice was not complete. Our apologies. The complete recipe follows:

CHICKEN AND RICE CASSEROLE

½ stick butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of celery soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup uncooked rice (not minute rice)
1⅓ cup water
dash of garlic salt
seasoned chicken parts

Melt butter. Combine with all ingredients except chicken in large casserole. Place chicken pieces on top. Bake at 300 degrees for 3 hours.

Apple Bread Stuffing

7 cups bread cubes
¾ cups minced onion
1½ cup chopped celery stalks and leaves
1 cup butter
1 tablespoon salt
3 cups finely chopped apples
1½ teaspoon crushed sage leaves
1 teaspoon thyme leaves
½ teaspoon pepper

In large skillet cook and stir onion and celery in butter until tender. Stir in ⅓ of the bread cubes. Turn into large bowl. Add remaining ingredients and toss. Stuff turkey or large roaster.

To give a golden brown glow to the turkey or roaster, paint it with a mixture of egg yolks and milk. Loosen the breast skin and insert bay leaves arranged in a flower petal design underneath the skin. Salt and pepper. Bake at prescribed time for the size poultry used.

TRACTORS

385 • 485 • 585 • 685 • 885 TRACTORS

/35 to 72 PTO HP (26.1 to 53.7 kW)

New! A complete line of mid-power tractors offers new comfort, convenience and productivity.

Unlimited visibility in every direction.
The new cabs on the 585, 685 and 885 models feature exceptional visibility. For greater operator efficiency, there's an almost unbroken line of vision all around, including clear view of the hitch and drawbar. There's plenty of big-tractor comfort and convenience, too, with a fully adjustable seat and controls that are close at hand. You can enter or leave the cab from either side through doors that open easily with gas-assist cylinders. The cab is quiet, too, with deluxe padding all around.

Easy operating convenience.
To maximize your productivity without clutching, all five 85 Series tractors can be equipped with electro-hydraulic two-speed power shift, controlled by a dash-mounted toggle switch. The power shift system provides for a fast shift speed reduction which increases pull power and field performance. Fields speeds, as well as loader and hauling speeds, meet your everyday needs. Power shift is standard on the 885, optional on other models.

Traction boosting MFD
is available on all 85 Series row-crop and utility tractors. Simple, reliable center-line Mechanical Front Drive increases your traction and your pulling power. Shift in and out of MFD on the go with electro-hydraulic ease (optional on 385 and 485 tractors).

QUESTION - Mary Jane Jones, Mount Storm, W.V., requests a recipe for Shake-N-Bake Chicken.

ANSWER - A Chadds Ford reader requested a recipe for canned apple pie filling that had appeared in Lancaster Farming within the past two years. Thanks to numerous readers who sent in recipes. Evidently, the newspaper has published several recipes for apple pie filling. Below are some of them:

Canned Apple Pie Filling

4 cups sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
10 cups water
1½ cup clear-jell
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Mix all ingredients together in 4-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil until thickened. Fill 7 quart jars half full of sliced peeled apples. Spoon filling over apples, then fill the jars with more apples and more filling on top. When jars are filled, seal and cold pack for 20-25 minutes.

Lucy Martin
Narvon

Spiced Apple Pie Filling

5 cups sliced apples
¼ teaspoons cinnamon
1 tablespoon tapioca
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ -¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ to ½ cup water

Was, core, peel and slice apples into a bowl of salted water (1 tablespoon per quart). Rinse before cooking. Mix sugar, spices, tapioca and water. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add apples, bring to boil over moderate heat. Lower heat and simmer until barely tender. Add lemon juice. Pack hot into hot, sterile quart jars. Remove air bubbles, cap and process for 20 minutes. Makes 1 8-inch pie per quart.

Gail Hunter
Smithsburg, Md.

Canned Apple Filling

4½ cups sugar
1 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1 teaspoon salt, optional
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
¼ teasoon ground nutmeg
10 cups water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
16 cups sliced apples

In a large sauce pan, blend the sugar, tapioca, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Stir in 10 cups water. Cook on medium high heat and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook an additional 2 minutes. Add lemon juice and if desired 2-3 drops yellow or red food coloring. Add the apples to the sauce. Stir constantly. Bring mixture to a rolling boil. Cook one minute. Keep sauce pan on the burner and ladle mixture into sterile jars leaving a ½ -inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath for 25 minutes.

When you go to open a jar of the filling, you may observe some separation of tapioca but the filling is o.k. Stir the tapioca into the mixture and proceed: Line pie plate with pastry. Add 1 quart filling. Adjust top crust, cutting slits for escape of steam. Seal. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 minutes or until crust is nicely browned.

Or, you can use 1 quart of apples in a greased pie pan. Top with an oatmeal crumb topping and bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

Crumb topping is made as follows:
1 cup oatmeal (instant or quick oats)
⅓ cup flour
2 tablespoons shortening
2½ tablespoons sugar

Stir well and sprinkle on top of filling.

ANSWER - Mrs. Glenn Martin, Ephrata, requested instructions on canning casseroles, stews, and soups in a water bath canner or in the oven. She does not have a pressure cooker and wonders if jars MUST be pressure cooked to remain sealed? Also, she would like to know how long ingredients like pasta and vegetables need to be precooked before canning. Thanks Nancy Kramer, Newmanstown, who reminds us that canning books do not recommend using a water bath for these items. She explained that meats, vegetables, seafood and poultry are low-acid, and low acids must be processed in a pressure canner at 240 degrees. Oven temperatures are not hot enough to destroy bacteria. Reminder: Canned items may look normal but if not processed properly can contain botulism, which can be deadly. Mrs. Kramer said more information on canning can be found by contacting your county extension office or purchasing a canning book.

ANSWER -Sophia McClintock, Dillsburg, requested a recipe for homemade catsup. Thanks to many readers who sent in recipes. Three are listed below:

Heinz Catsup

Mom's Favorite

3 quarts thick pulpy tomato juice
3 onions (if desired)
4 cups white sugar
½ teaspoon cloves
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 pint vinegar

Boil 1 hour. Add 2-3 tablespoons clear-jell. Bottle and seal while boiling hot.

Ketchup

6 quarts tomato juice
Bring to boil and add:
2 cups vinegar
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons mixed pickle spices tied in cloth bag
2 tablespoons onion powder
2 tablespoons celery salt
1 tablespoon salt
½ tablespoon red pepper

Boil uncovered for 1½ -2 hours, then thicken with ½ to 1 cup clear jell mixed in water. Boil a few minutes longer and pour in jars. Seal.

Soup

Tomato Soup

1 cup onion, diced
½ cup carrot, diced
¼ cup celery, diced
¼ cup butter
2 pounds tomatoes
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1 teaspoon garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
Garnish parsley, thyme or bay leaf
4 cups chicken broth

In kettle, saute onion, carrots and celery in butter until soft and lightly colored. Add the tomatoes, chopped coarsely, tomato paste and spices. Bring to a boil, then simmer on low heat, covered, for 20 minutes. Strain through a sieve, rubbing through as much of the vegetables as possible. Add chicken broth, and continue to simmer for 10 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Garnish.

York Extension's Annual Holiday Meeting

The Penn State Cooperative Extension Service will be sponsoring a Holiday program on November 10, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the York 4-H Center.

The program will feature a foods demonstration "Holiday Foods From The Heart" with Patricia Forrester and Miriam Derrick, local dietitians and members of the American Heart Association. They will show how to modify holiday recipes to meet the health needs of loved ones.

Nada Gray, from Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, will present "Potpourri of Christmas Decorations for Tree and Home in the Victorian Manner." Mrs. Gray, author of Holidays: Victorian Women Celebrate in Pennsylvania and Herald Angels, has been researching Victorian tradition for more than ten years. Her decorations have been featured at Packwood House Museum, Slifer House Museum, The Presidents Home at Bucknell University and the Museum of American Folk Art.

"Floral Symbolism and the Holiday Calendar" will be the program presented by Mrs. Peggy Reynolds, a member of the Gettysburg Garden Club and a Master Judge of National Council of State Garden Clubs. She will show nine arrangements based on holidays throughout the year.

Extension Homemakers Groups will have exhibits of holiday decorating ideas.

Tickets for the event must be purchased in advance for $2.75. This does not include lunch. Everyone is asked to bring a brown bag lunch.

Tickets can be purchased no later than November 2 at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402.

ANSWER - Mrs. L. Reiff, Lititz, requested a recipe for chocolate shoo-fly pie. Many readers mailed in recipes. I'm sorry that there is not room to run all of them, but I'm sure you'll enjoy the two recipes that follow:

Chocolate Shoo-Fly Pie

1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1⅓ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup margarine
Dissolve ¼ teaspoon baking soda in boiling water; stir in chocolate syrup and vanilla. Set aside. Combine flour, sugar, ¼ teaspoon baking soda and salt; cut in margarine with pastry blender to form coarse crumbs. Set aside 1 cup each of crumbs and chocolate mixture. Gently combine remaining chocolate and crumbs (will be lumpy). Pour reserved 1 cup chocolate mixture into pastry shell. Pour chocolate crumb mixture evenly over liquid in shell. Top with remaining crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 45 minutes.

Chocolate Shoo-Fly Pie

2 cups brown sugar
1 cup shortening or oil
2 eggs
4 tablespoons cocoa
2 cups molasses
4½ or 5 cups flour
2 cups hot water
2 teaspoons soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
Cream together brown sugar, shortening, eggs and cocoa. Add molasses. Soak soda in hot water and add to mixture and blend well.
Chocolate Pudding:
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups water
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
Stir ingredients together in a saucepan for chocolate pudding. Cook over meduim heat until it boils. Remove from heat and divide evenly into 4 9-inch unbaked pie crusts. Put shoo-fly mixture carefully on top of each one.
Bake 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes. When cooled put icing on top if you wish. Makes 4 pies.

Busy Berks Dairy Club

The Eastern Berks Dairy Club has been very busy during the summer. We had many winners at the various fairs. Several of our members qualified for the PA Junior Dairy Show in Harrisburg and did very well. A congratulations goes out to all of our members for an excellent year. Keep up the good work. Also, a special "Thank You" to all the parents who helped with many of the activities.

Our November meeting will be our annual "Awards Night" and a "Pizza Party." All the members and families are invited to a night of fun. We will be giving out awards of yearly membership pins, officer pins, blueform and project book awards, plus many other awards. The project books and blueforms are due to Gary Kurtz by November 1, 1987.

We will be electing officers at this meeting. Any members who need Milk & Fat forms and/or Distinguished Junior Holstein member forms for the County Holstein contest, please contact Amy or Brian Richard immediately. They will be due to Dave Bitler by November 1, 1987.

We would like to welcome any new members for the year 1988. If you are interested in joining our club, please contact Gary Kurtz (683-9386) or Scott Youse (987-6415).

DEALER INQUIRIES INVITED

Studies show that almost every man, woman and child in America will have foot problems severe enough to demand a visit to the podiatrist. Women who wear high heels are especially prone to problems. Fortunately, a cushioned mini insole called Slip-Stops, a Johnson's Foot Care Product, provides extra protection from slipping and sliding, and offers a buffer to help absorb shock. Protecting your feet, podiatrists agree, may help put more of a spring in your step.

"Drink (REAL) Milk for Fitness"

Just The Facts

Judy Dodd, a registered dietitian with the Dairy & Nutrition Council, answers some frequently asked questions on food and nutrition.

QUESTION: Is it true that frozen vegetables can be just as nutritious a choice as fresh ones?

ANSWER: This is a question that comes to mind as we see the last of the summer garden! Fresh vegetables are the quality choice for peak flavor and nutrition, but frozen vegetables are a great alternative.

The longer the time span from garden to table, the more opportunity there is for the environment to affect the quality of fresh produce. Air, temperature changes, water, and even light can lower the availability of some nutrients, especially Vitamin C. Fresh produce in the supermarket has probably suffered many abuses from the time of picking to the day of purchase.

According to the processors, frozen vegetables are rushed from farm to freezer. Food companies know that the quality of their product depends on quick and careful handling. Concern for such factors as colors, texture, and flavor usually means nutrients are also protected and kept close to the quality of well-handled fresh produce.

Choose fresh or frozen vegetables with confidence, but look for signs of mishandling at the supermarket. Fresh produce should have no signs of wilting or drying out since water loss indicates possible nutrient loss. Shop where frozen foods are handled with care. Limp, discolored packages, food shifted to one end, and frost-covered wrappings may indicate the food was thawed and refrozen.

Finally, what you do at home can do more to lose nutrient value than any middleman! Learn to handle both fresh and frozen vegetables with care. Either way, they offer variety and nutrition.

QUESTION: Is it true chocolate can greatly affect the calcium available in foods?

ANSWER: The answer to this question is a qualified no. The presence of chocolate can affect the amount of calcium available, but the end result should not be a great loss.

Chocolate contains small amounts of a substance known as oxalic acid, something that is found in other foods including certain vegetables. In the body, oxalic acid can combine with calcium. This is a natural process that prevents a small amount of the calcium from doing the work it is intended to do. The remaining calcium is still available.

An example is the popular beverage chocolate milk, a high calcium food. Studies have shown that less than one percent of the 280 milligrams of calcium available in eight ounces of chocolate milk is affected. That means about three milligrams of calcium is attached to the oxalic acid found in the chocolate but at least 275 milligrams of calcium is still available to contribute to health and nutrition.

As always, the key to good nutrition is remembering that variety, balance, and moderation are important.

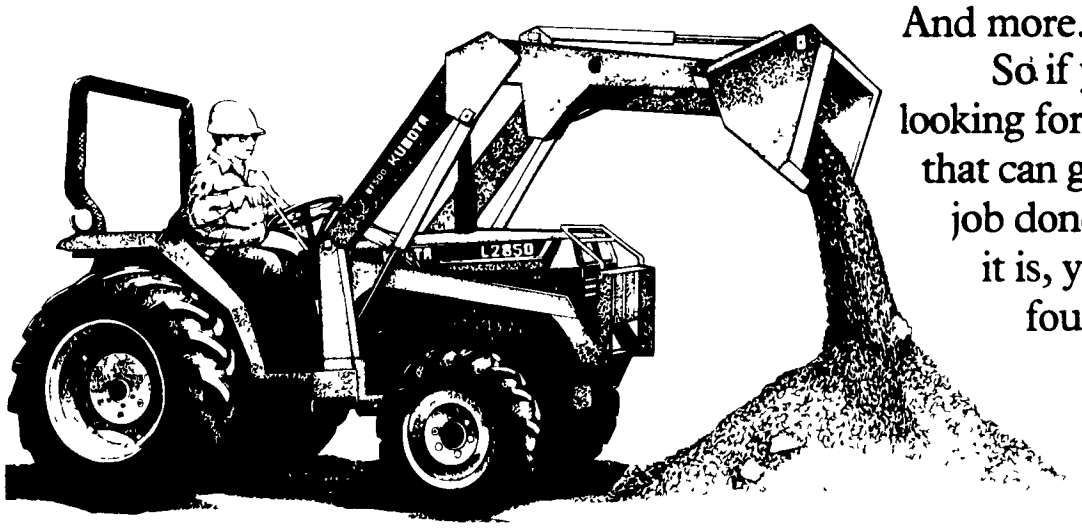
THEY HOLD DOWN MORE THAN ONE JOB.

Kubota's mid-sized tractors are very versatile. You'll find them at work on farms, in parks, nurseries, estate homes and even on construction sites.

The reason is simple. Our L-Series tractors come with features you'd expect to find only on bigger, heavier machines. For example, 3-, 4-, or 5-cylinder diesel engines with PTO horsepower from 21 to 40.

Other features you can select include 8x7 or 8x8 mechanical or hydraulic shuttle-shift. A choice of 2- or 4-wheel drive on most models. A hefty 3-point hitch. And more.



So if you're looking for a tractor that can get the job done, whatever it is, you've found it. The Kubota L-Series.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As my children grow up and leave home and marry there is one thing that they take along with them and that is my recipes. The girls especially will sit down at the kitchen table and write their favorite recipes on their file cards. They copy and copy until I think that I won't have anything left, but of course that isn't true.

After all I do have two or three recipes from my mother and from my husband's mother. Yet somehow I feel possessive of the special ones that I've collected over the years and have been praised for serving. By now they surely are scattered over the United States.

This summer we had someone come and trim the hoofs of our dairy cows. Without trimming they would grow too long and therefore cripple the animal. Although, I did pity the animals as they were laid on their sides and immobilized. Maybe it reminded me of the dentist's chair where nowadays you are put in a horizontal position instead of a sitting position and made to feel so very vulnerable.

Anyway, the point of all this is the young man who ran the operation. He ate his noon meal with us and during the course of our discussion, I asked him about his schooling. He told me that he had graduated from Penn State University with a degree in biology and a masters degree in agr. industry. And then, unexpectedly he said "I am using my degree as much as your son is!" Now he did not need to defend his degrees to me. You see, Philip has a masters degree in agricultural engineering from the University of Wisconsin. Yet there they were —both sweating and getting dirty, but both doing what they wanted to do — being their own boss.

Walters Receives Distinguished Service Award

UNIVERSITY PARK — Bette D. Walters, Forest County, received a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists at the association's annual meeting in Louisville, Kentucky, October 4-8.

A home economist with Penn State's Cooperative Extension office in Forest County, Mrs. Walters was cited for her innovative programming and work with county families.

"Family health is a priority in Forest County. The family living program emphasizes health by instructing families on good health practices and proper nutrition," said Mrs. Walters. The program includes topics such as diet and cancer and walking your way to fitness. Individual health risk appraisals and a cancer core group is also part of the county's family living program.

These programs are presented to homemaker, civic and community groups, business and industry personnel, and have been set up for the community in health fairs and winter carnivals. This information is also available in the "Forest Homemaker" newsletter, and "Patchwork," a weekly news column dedicated to nutrition and health information.

Mrs. Walters received a bachelor of science degree in home economics from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania, and a master of science degree in communications from Clarion State College. She has also won numerous state communications awards.

She is a member of the International Home Economists in Business and Education, the Forest County Historical Society, the Tionesta Women's Club, and the National and Pennsylvania Associations of Extension Home Economists.

Mrs. Walters is married to Charles M. Walters and has one son.

Adams County 4-H'ers To Compete In Beef Show

GETTYSBURG — The Adams County 4-H Beef Show and Sale will be held on Monday, November 2 at Wenger's Saddlery, just north of York Springs on Rt. 15. Twenty-two Adams County 4-H members will compete for honors at the Third Annual County Show and Sale. The show will begin at 10 a.m. with the steers shown in weight classes. The show includes selection of: Grand Champion; Reserve Grand Champion; and a Junior, Intermediate, Senior, and Advanced Fitter/Showman.

The 4-H steer sale begins at 7 p.m. on Monday, November 2 at Wenger's Saddlery. You are especially invited to be a buyer at the bid-type auction. As a buyer, you have two alternatives when you become a finished steer owner. Obviously, if you want some excellent quality beef for your freezer, this is the place to get such. The second alternative allows you, as the new owner of the finished steer, to resell the steer on the open market.

As a freezer beef owner, you need to make arrangements for the steer to be slaughtered, cut, wrapped, etc. to your order with your local slaughter shop. A 1,000 pound steer should yield 600 pounds of beef. 4-H leaders and members have offered to haul your new steer, within reasonable distance, to your slaughterer. Please check these arrangements just prior to the sale with the sale management.

The second alternative allows you to become an intermediate owner. Arrangements have been made with commercial buyers to resell your newly purchased steer. The steer will be transported to the commercial buyer by 4-H leaders and members. Your steer will be bought at the current market price. On this alternative, you absorb the difference between what you paid and what the steer sold for at the current market price. You pay the difference that evening and the commercial buyer pays the balance.

Adams County 4-H Beef Club members need your help at the November 2 sale. You may want to discuss a joint purchase with another party(ies) to reduce the burden in either alternative.

The steer you purchase has been grain fed and will grade choice or prime. You won't find any better tasting beef around. The steer will have been held off feed and water for 12 hours before it is weighed. This will equal a 20-30 pound shrink and will help increase the value of the animal you buy. Most steers will weigh 1,100-1,200 pounds and we hope you'll be able to buy one for $1 a pound. The sale is a bidding auction with the highest bidder taking the steer. You bid the price per pound you are willing to pay.

All buyers will receive publicity through newspaper articles in the Gettysburg Times, Evening Sun, and Lancaster Farming. Buyers will also be reported exclusively on the WGET Extension radio program broadcast at 6:15 a.m., 11:45 a.m., and 5:20 p.m. on November 5. Also, display ads will be placed in the Gettysburg Times and Evening Sun.

Please give this idea some thought. Help support Adams County 4-H members in this educational experience. They have been feeding, walking, washing, and caring for their steers for one year.

We ask you to become a part of making their project experience financially successful. Potential buyers are asked to register after 6 p.m. on Monday, November 2. You will be the club's guest for light refreshments at the sale foodstand. If you have any questions about the show and sale, contact Jared Tyson at the Adams County 4-H Office, phone 334-6271 or 624-4525. Bids can be carried to the sale if you are unable to attend.

Christmas In October For The Creative Giver

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER — You may complain that October is too early to think about Christmas, but for the do-it-yourselfer a headstart is needed to create lovingly-crafted gifts and holiday decorations.

More than 500 women gathered at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster, this week for the annual extension-sponsored "Christmas in October."

The workshop started with Audrey Hallgren, freelance home economist and columnist for Microwave Cooking, sharing hints and recipes to make heart healthy holiday dishes. Many traditional Christmas recipes are loaded with calories, and Audrey shared a few ideas and recipes that can make holiday meals healthier.

Since holiday snacking seems to be a part of everyone's life, Audrey shared several easy-to-make recipes. One called "Date Surprises" calls for 12 whole dates split open and the seeds removed. Insert a shelled almond into each hole. Pinch the edges of the date back together. Serve immediately or store in the refrigerator.

This year, the toy industry is marketing some amazing new concepts in toys. Doris Thomas, Lancaster Extension Home Economist, presented a short slide presentation on new toys. The audience found it mind-boggling to discover there are dolls that can actually carry on a conversations with others with a vocabulary that expands daily over a two-year period.

Sherry Kalbach, better known as the garbage can lady because she uses junk for her crafts, again participated in the annual workshop and demonstrated inexpensive ideas made from scraps like dryer lint. To make a modeling material from dryer lint, Sherry instructed, "Take 3 cups lint, 2 cups water, ⅔ cup flour, 3 drops oil of wintergreen or cloves and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture forms peaks. Pour onto several thicknesses of newspaper to cool. Shape over boxes, bottles, balloons and other forms for molding like papier-mache. It dries in 3-5 days to felt-like consistency.

The audience at the "Christmas In October" program discovered that many holiday decorations are simple to make and very impressive. Here, Doris Wallace from Wallace's Antiques and Crafts, plopped some greens in a basket with a light and some gingerbread men.

To give Christmas use to battered Easter baskets, Sherry suggested that they be sprayed and then stenciled with hearts or holly. The baskets can then be filled with small gifts appropriate for the age of interests or recipients. For children, Sherry displayed homemade games made like "Concentration" which she made from carboard covered with fabric and wallpaper.

Baskets used to give a mother of small children a break can be filled with bathroom supplies plus a certificate for two hours of babysitting service so the mother can enjoy a leisurely bath.

To custom design a sweatshirt for that special person on your list, Sherry suggests that you purchase a pastel-colored sweatshirt and draw or stencil a design on it with glitter pens. If a mistake is made the glitter can be washed out as long as it has not been permanently set with a hot iron.

Into her humorous Christmas demonstration, Sherry crammed a few ideas for other special ocassions. For example, "If your child loses a tooth. Sprinkle some glitter on the bedroom carpet and on the pillow to awe your child with the thought that the fabled tooth fairy actually has visited." And for the Easter season, Sherry showed a stencil of a gigantic rabbit footprint. She sprinkled flour in a rabbit-like foot trail over their yard that led to the Easter basket's hiding place.

When you use glitter, traces of it does get scattered across the floor, but Sherry points out, "It's classy dirt."

As an innovative idea person, Sherry admits her housework usually gets shoved aside. Since many homemakers can identify with the frenzy of holiday preparations, Sherry offered her favorite cleaning tips that can save your housekeeping reputation from unexpected guests. She said, "Keep your vacuum cleaner inside the front door. When unexpected guests arrive, pull it out and say, 'Oh, I was just starting to clean.'"

If you're wondering what to do about the stacks of Christmas cards accumulated over the years, Sherry suggests you recycle them by cutting off the picture part in a 4x6-inch size and send them out for Christmas post card greetings. Sherry admitted, "Some people think it's tacky," she said with her typical humor, "but what I think is tacky is mailing them the same card they mailed you last year."

Doris Wallace, from Wallace's Antiques and Crafts in Witmer, wrapped up the afternoon session by demonstrating country crafts. One of the new products on the market is a ribbon called Creative Twists which can be used and reused. The treated paper ribbon has a texture similar to dried corn husks and comes in natural and pastel colors. Creative twists are used not only as package decoration but also braided, twisted or bowed for unique wreaths.

To line your walkway with light and give a merry welcome to guests, Doris suggests partially filling mayonnaise jars with cat litter, and inserting 1½ -inch diameter candles in the litter. To extinquish the flame, screw the lids on the jars and you have easy to care for luminaires.

Doris demonstrated dried and silk flower arranging. She stuck greens in a basket, placed a globe light in the center and inserted gingerbread boys around in and several long cinnamon sticks in the back that gives a festive touch to typical country assesories.

Several farm women groups provided the luncheon. Others set up craft and food displays. The same program was offered on Monday and Tuesday.

Are you frustrated by the growing stacks of outdated neckties? Sherry Kalbach, who thinks of a use for everything, suggests making a Christmas tree skirt out of them.

Doris Wallace demonstrates the use of Creative Twists, a treated paper ribbon used for package decorations, wreaths and other crafts.

This elegant swan is fashioned from dried branches. By changing the bow and the silk and dried flowers that flow from the back, the swan becomes a Christmas decoration for Doris Wallace.

Alternate Ag Conference Scheduled In Reading

NEWARK, De. — A two-day regional conference on marketing specialty foods, ornamentals and flowers will be held November 18 and 19 in Reading, Pa.

Open to growers, producers and marketers, the conference will focus on how to develop new markets through direct marketing techniques, wholesaling to restaurants and promotional campaigns. The conference will also offer sessions on organic farming cooperatives, aquaculture, perennials, herbs and edible flowers, and game birds and specialty fowl.

The first 450 registrants will be accepted. Preregistration fees are $15 for the first participant and $10 for each additional person registerested from a farm family or business.

To obtain a copy of the program and a registration form in Delaware contact county Extension offices in Newark (451-2506), Dover (697-4000) or Georgetown (856-7303).

The conference is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Systems of Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland and the Departments of Agriculture in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland.

Wool Seamstresses Fleece Contest Awards

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

UNIONVILLE — Jackie Heald, 1986 senior winner of the Pennsylvania Make it With Wool contest, once again took top honors in the southeastern district. The University of Delaware student from Landenberg, Chester County, placed first in the senior group when this year's contest was held at the Unionville Fair.

Heald, who constructed a teal worsted woolen suit with flowered cotton blouse, will represent the counties of Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery at the 1987 state contest in December. Pennsylvania's winner will be given a trip to San Antonio, Texas, where she will compete nationally in January.

Twelve-year-old Ellen Herr of Parkesburg placed first in the preteen class for her plum-colored soft wool skirt with side pockets. Joan Fichtner, Norristown, was the adult winner with a Maritime-blue, handloomed, virgin wool suit, trimmed with black braid and silver buttons.

Second prize in the senior division was awarded Downingtown High School student Cindy Matter, who modeled the brown and charcoal plaid jacket and soft, rich brown mid-calf skirt she had constructed. The senior and preteen winners were presented with Ginker shears by Chester County Sheep and Wool Growers Association.

Francis Title of Atgen won second in the adult category. She modeled a hand-knit traditional-pattern Icelandic wool sweater in gray, black and white and carried matching sweater and socks that she had knit for her husband.

Fichtner was awarded a cash prize from the Chster County Extension Service. Tittle's prize was a gift certificate for the Stitch in Time Shop, Oxford.

Contest judges were Beverly Campbell, Downingtown High School Home Economics teacher; Caryl Atmajean, Interboro High School Home Economics teacher; and Carol Prange, needlework and knitting instructor, Oxford.

The state Make it With Wool competition will be held in conjunction with the Second Annual Shepherd's Symposium at Carlisle December 5.

Frances Tittle models her Icelantic sweater and holds a pair of matching socks and a sweater she knit for her husband. Ellen Hear, center, is a preteen winner who cares for their sheep, with her sister Anne Herr who was a contestant in the senior division.

Pollution In The Home

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

WILLIAMSPORT — The air your breathe at home could be more harmful than Los Angeles smog, according to Dr. Phyllis Barner, the Penn State extension housing specialist.

Barner addressed homemakers on indoor-air pollution at Lycoming County's Fall Homemaker's Day last week. Other topics at the meeting were curbing holiday spending and creating corn husk dolls.

"Oven cleaners and furniture sprays are among the most toxic contaminants in the house," said Barner. "They are so toxic, in fact, that the containers are now on a list of products to go to a special toxic-waste dump."

Barner explained that indoor-air pollution became a problem when homeowners insulated their houses to increase energy efficiency. As a result, air flow in the home was drastically diminished. In the 1850's, it is estimated that air was exchanged four times per hour in an average-size house. By 100 years later, that exchange rate had decreased to 1.5 air changes per hour, and homes built in the '80s have an air exchange only once every three hours. The government recommends a minimum of one exchange every two hours.

"You can increase air exchanges by opening windows on opposing sides of the room one inch for five minutes each hour," Barner stated.

Discussing indoor air quality, Dr. Phyllis Barner, Extension Specialist in Housing from Penn State University, warns homemakers of the toxic effects of ordinary household cleaners.

Pollutants fall into three main categories: combustion-related products, formaldehyde-based building materials, and household cleaners and personal-care products.

Combustion-related contaminants are released into the air by burning fuels such as wood, gas, coal and kerosene. These fuels give off carbon monoxide and among other things, which may cause blurred vision, impaired mental and physical performance, irregular heartbeat, and even death.

Building materials, such as chipboard and pressed wood, that have used formaldehyde as a preservative or bonding resin releases vapors that may cause headaches, dizziness, lethargy, nausea, nosebleeds, and memory loss.

The household products to watch out for are moth crystal balls, aerosol sprays, paint strippers, and tobacco smoke. These products include contaminants such as amonia, methylenechloride, lead arsenate, and mercury.

Barner also expressed concern over radon contamination. Thirty-five of Pennsylvania's 67 counties have been listed by the EPA as possessing geological characteris-

In northeastern Pennsylvania, these include Lycoming, Centre, Snyder, Union, Northumberland, Montour, Columbia, Sullivan, Bradford, Luzerne, Carbon, and Schuylkill counties. According to Barner, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Pike, Monroe, Wayne, and Lackawanna Counties will almost certain be added to the list as more data becomes available.

Ever since 1984, when Stanley Wattres set off radioactive alarms at the Limerick Nuclear Power Plant, and the source of contamination was found to be his home instead of the plant, radon continues to loom as an ever larger problem as more homes are found to contain high levels of radon.

Radon is a naturally occurring radioactive gas produced during the decay process of uranium or radium in the rocks. The government considers a radon reading exceeding 4 picocuries per liter (pCi/l) for a residence to be a safety hazard. This amount is roughly equivalent to 10 times the average outdoor exposure level. Wattres was exposed to more than 2,000 pCi/l or roughly the equivalent of 455,000 chest x-rays in one year. Radon can enter the home in any crack or crevice.

In addition to geographic location, things that can determine a home's susceptibility to radon entry are the type of foundation, a house's square footage, and possession of an attached greenhouse or garage where there is more potential contact with the earth.

To check radon levels, Barner recommended buying and inexpensive charcoal cannister, leaving it in the basement for three days, and then sending it to a lab to determine radon levels. If the charcoal cannister registers a level of more than 4 pCi/l, then she advised buying the alpha tract detector which is placed in the home for a longer period of time and then sent to a laboratory for analysis.

Lowering radon gas basically involves sealing off the source and increasing air flow through the basement. Depending upon what this involves, remedial measures may range from inexpensive to costly.

For more information about radon Barner suggested writing to the EPA Public Information Center, 820 Quincy Street, N.W., Washington DC, 20011.

Holiday Spending

Many people oversplurge at Christmas time, much to their dismay at bill-paying time. For those who want to avoid spending more than they have, Dr. Marilyn Furry, family resource management specialist had three questions: Why are you celebrating the Christmas holiday? What is important for you about Christmas? How are you going to get it done?

"Begin by deciding what is important to you. Families that are the happiest are the families that prioritize," she observed. "You can't do everything."

During the holidays, she said, all families want a relaxing and loving time together; realistic expectations about gifts, an evenly paced holiday season and strong family traditions.

Planning ensures a more relaxed holiday for everyone whether it is deliberately deciding to accept fewer invitations in order to spend more time with the immediate family, starting a family tradition by making a wreath, or engaging in some other activity as a family.

She advises less emphasis on gift giving and more on doing things together as a family. "Traditions are the glue that holds people together," she asserted. "Families that are strong families incorporate some family traditions in the holidays."

Learn To Sew For Profit

Home-based sewing businesses play a significant role in the income of many Cumberland and Dauphin County residents. Sewing oriented businesses include such specialities as monogramming, drapery and custom home furnishings, crafts, custom sewing, quilting, machine knitting, alterations, bridal wear, and more.

"Based on the number of inquires we have been receiving, home-based businesses appear to be the up and coming trend in employment opportunities. The increased flexibility of time schedules, the reduction of fixed rent and transportation costs, and the advantage of being your own boss are some reasons people are staying home to work," according to Joyce Izbicki, Assistant Director, PA Small Business Action Center.

A one-day seminar on Sewing for Profit is set for Thursday, November 5, 1987 at the Holiday Inn of Harrisburg/Mechanicsburg. This informative day is sponsored by The Pennsylvania State University Cooperative Extension Service of Cumberland and Dauphin Counties and is open to the public. The seminar hours are 9:00 am to 4:00 pm. The $25 fee for the day includes lunch and all materials. Each participant will also receive a .5 Continuing Education Unit from The Pennsylvania State University.

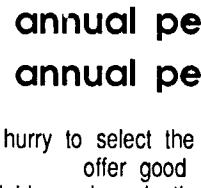
The keynote speaker, Willoughby Dade, Regional Representative for SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), will address "Is A Home Sewing Business For You?" This will cover family considerations, physical facilities, management practices, and finding your clientele. Raymond Hedger, attorney from Hedger and Hedger Law Firm, will cover legal issues such as zoning, taxes, insurance and copyright laws.

The "Proper Steps for Starting a Business" will be the topic covered by Joyce Izbicki from the PA Small Business Action Center in Harrisburg. She will be followed by Mary C. Saylor, Arts Specialist, The Pennsylvania State University, who will discuss the pros and cons of various marketing techniques and advertising.

A panel of persons involved in various types of home-based sewing businesses will answer concerns from the audience and discuss the good and bad points of this type of business venture.

The highlight of the day will be commercial exhibitors displaying and demonstrating new fabrics, notions, patterns, sewing machines, and more. Participants will also be eligible to receive one of the many door prizes that will be given away that day.

For anyone presently involved in a home-based business or considering starting one, the day is sure to answer many questions and give much needed advice. Interested persons may contact the Dauphin County Extension Service at 564-6956 or the Cumberland County Extension Office at 249-7220, and request a brochure on "Sewing for Profit." Preregistration is required. Don't miss this valuable opportunity to learn how to operate a profitable home-based business.



EGGS MAKE THE TEAM

What is a spice?

While the word "spice" is often used in a generic sense to refer to a wide variety of seasonings, true species usually come from a tropical area. Spices are the dried seeds, bark, flower parts, root, buds or fruit of plants. Black and white pepper, nutmeg and cloves are examples of true spices.

What are herbs?

Herbs are the aromatic leaves of plants usually from temperate zones. Examples are thyme, oregano and tarragon.

Are seeds considered spices and herbs?

They can be. Black and white pepper and allspice are seeds and are true spices. There is another group of seeds such as anise seed, fennel seed and sesame seed that are not true spices. In the spice trade these groups of seasonings are simply defined as seeds and have their own category.

How should spices and herbs be stored?

Heat and moisture hasten flavor loss and cause caking in the container. For these reasons they should not be stored in an area where excessive heat and moisture are generated. Direct light can cause some products, especially herbs and paprika, to fade.

What is the shelf life of spices and herbs?

Assuming they have been properly stored, herbs and ground spices have a shelf life of about one year. Whole spices last up to five years or even longer. Members of the red pepper family last one year or up to two years if refrigerated. Examples of this family are red pepper, paprika and chili powder. Dehydrated vegetables have a shorter shelf life of about 6 months.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 1

Seventeen members of Berks County Farm Women Society 1 met for dinner at the Covered Bridge Hotel, Pleasantville in observance of Farm Women Day.

Following dinner, Agnes Noll, president, led the group in devotions, followed by a business meeting. On November 13, several members will go to Berks Heim to play Bingo with guests. Members are asked to bring a gift to give to a Berks Heim guest.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Ruth Walters, Douglassville.

Berks Society 4

Berks County Society 4 of Farm Women held their October meeting at the home of Mary Fizz, Boyertown. She read a poem, "Death Is the Door to Life Evermore," in memory of Edna Angstadt, a member who passed away.

Fund raising chairperson Verna Taylor reported the dessert sale at the Reading Fair was a success and the ham tickets are selling well. a new project will be selling ceramic bells.

Virginia Taylor, program chairperson, reported a banquet celebrating farm Women's Day on October 15 will be held at the Casa Blanca room of Washington Inn, Boyertown.

The group will be purchasing gifts for Berks Heim residents again this year.

Members should bring a prize on November 12 at 7:00 p.m. for a game party with the residents of the Heim.

Games were played and a prize given to those in Halloween costumes.

The next meeting will be November 3 in the home of Marguerite Rush, Boyertown. The program is a mystery!

Berks Society 9

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 9 was held on October 7 in the home of Peggy Lewis, president. Nine members celebrated "Everybody's Birthday and enjoyed games, gifts and refreshments.

The next meeting will be held on November 4 at Karen Schreier's home, Douglassville, where members will make Christmas crafts.

Berks Society 6

The Berks County Farm Women Group 6 met October 13 at Arner's Restaurant, Mt. Penn, to celebrate Farm Women's Day.

Plans made to help with the bingo at Berks Heim on November 12 at 7 p.m.

New officers elected include the following: Mrs. Samuel Mast, president; Mrs. William Mast, vice-president; Mrs. David Bauer, treasurer; Mrs. Earl Hoffman, recording secretary; and Mrs. Randall Hetrick, corresponding secretary.

A gift certificate was presented to Mrs. Paul youse in appreciation for her work as sale committee chairman for the past several years.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Ronald Kelchner, Oley, on November 17 at 8 p.m.

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon Farm Women Group 20 met with Farm Women Group 1 at the Ono Fire Hall recently. Special guests were county officers Marie Steinmetz and Pauline Gundrum.

The program theme was "Four Seasons." Each table was decorated according to the season. Readings were given by Mae Stamm, Joyce Stoner and Kathy Bomberger. The group representing summer sang about the Statue of Liberty.

The November meeting will be at the home of Pat Ziegler with a dessert auction.

Leadership Award

Karen Eckert of Mechanicsburg and Darlene Coover of Carlisle have been awarded the national I DARE YOU LEADERSHIP AWARD in recognition of personal integrity, balanced living, and motivation for leadership. The honor was presented by Duff George at ceremonies held at Grace United Methodist Church, Carlisle on October 8, 1987.

The I DARE YOU AWARD is made available each year by the American Youth Foundation in cooperation with 4-H leaders and County Agents across the country. The Award was first offered in 1941 by William H. Danforth, founder of the Ralston Purina Company in St. Louis, who dared young people to achieve their highest potential and to influence others through lives of service. The Award takes its name from the book, I Dare You, written by Mr. Danforth, in which he commends the balanced life of mental, physical, social, and spiritual development as the backbone of leadership.

In addition to a Certificate of Recognition, Karen and Darlene receive a copy of Mr. Danforth's inspirational book, I Dare You, and a partial scholarship of $250 to attend a two-week National Leadership Conference sponsored by the American Youth Foundation. Over 6,000 schools and 4-H programs participated in the I DARE YOU LEADERSHIP AWARD each year.

Pumpkins In All Sizes, Shapes And Colors

With Halloween just around the corner it's time for a few pointers in selecting just the right pumpkin for a Jack-O-Lantern. Pumpkins come in two basic types — the field or ornamental pumpkin and the pie pumpkin. Most of us probably can't tell them apart.

The field pumpkin is usually bigger than the pie pumpkin and will be at least 12 inches in diameter and larger. This is the one you want for Halloween.

The pie or sugar pumpkin, as it's sometimes called, is not often under 10 inches in diameter. The outside color is usually a much darker orange than the field pumpkin. It has a dense flesh that makes carving difficult. The flesh is also darker, yellowish orange, fine textured and sweet. Although field pumpkins can be used for making pies, the pie ones provide a better flavor.

Don't be surprised if the pies made from fresh pumpkins are not as firm as those made from canned pumpkin pie mix. Commercial pie mix is usually a combination of one-third pumpkin and two-thirds squash. The addition of squash gives more body to the product.

The traditional Halloween pumpkin has a ridged angular stem. If you were to cut across the stem it would be star shaped. The big mammoth round show pumpkins are really squash. They have round stems.

When choosing a pumpkin for a table decoration or Jack-O-Lantern, select one that's fairly light in weight for its size. This kind generally has a thick skin or rind, less meat, is easier to cut and there is more room inside for a candle.

Pumpkins come in various shapes and sizes so selection is a personal matter. Certain shapes definitely add character to the ghostly Jack-O-Lantern. Whatever shape or size you choose, whether perfectly round or delightfully lopsided, select one that is flattened on the ends. Tipping over a lighted Jack-O-Lantern could bring disastrous results.

Select one with the stem attached. It will tend to be less mature and therefore hold up better if buying ahead. If you do buy early, store below room temperature and above 40 degrees F. Both chilling and high temperatures will cause the pumpkin to break down much faster than if stored properly.

National Competition Results

Of PA 4-H Dairy Judging Team

MADISON, Wisconsin — The Pennsylvania 4-H dairy judging team recently returned from the National 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Contest in Madison, Wisconsin which was held in conjunction with the Central National Dairy Show.

Members of the 1987 team included Henry Seidel, Lenhartsville, Berks County, Robert Barley, University Park, Centre County, Tom Arrowsmith, Peach Bottom, Lancaster County and Brett Nesbit, Maryland, Indiana County. Coaches for this years team were Allen Kosak, of State College and Gary Akers of Quarryville.

On a team basis the Pennsylvania team placed 6th with a total score of 2055. The first place team Minnesota was able to capture that position with a score of 2129, this goes to show that the top teams were very close placings.

On an individual basis the Pennsylvania team members did quite well. Tom Arrowsmith scored a 690 to put him in the 18th place just 32 points behind the first place winner Jeff Fuchs of Minnesota. Robert Barley was five points behind Tom with 685 points to put him in 24th place. Five points behind Robert was Henry Seidel coming in 28th place.

According to coach Allen Kosak a fun time was had by all and each of the young gentlemen were able to leave the competition with a great deal of knowledge and with a feeling of satisfaction from placing as high as they did.

Each of the four young gentlemen would like to thank their coaches for the time they took to work with them before and during the trip.

The following is a listing of the top 10 teams and their scores;

1. Minnesota- 2129
2. New York- 2096
3. Maryland- 2081
4. Vermont- 2081
5. Tennessee- 2075
6. Pennsylvania- 2055
7. Virginia- 2049
8. Wisconsin- 2045
9. Ohio- 2038
10. Illinois- 2025

Hunters Beware: There's A New Game Code

HARRISBURG — Thousands of Pennsylvania hunters will return to the woods this fall to face their prey and some possible confusion over the state game law, said Representative Terry R. Scheetz. That's because the game code was extensively revised, effective July 1.

The major changes in the game law affect the amount of flourescent orange hunters must wear, rules regarding the practice of spotlighting, the size of various fines and other issues.

During deer and bear seasons, hunters have the option of wearing either 250 square inches of flourescent orange (on a vest or coat) visible from all angles or they may wear a flourescent orange cap. While big-game hunters are urged to wear both a vest and cap, the law does not require both.

Sportsmen who hunt woodchucks are required to wear flourescent caps under the new code.

Changes were also made in regulations affecting the practice of "spotlighting" game. The revised code now prohibits spotlighting which frightens, excites or harasses livestock, poultry or other farm animals. The law already prohibited spotlighting of homes and other such structures.

In addition spotlighting is now prohibited after 11 p.m. and anytime during deer season. Those guilty of spotlighting during deer season risk fines of up to $300. Those spotlighting after hours or near farm animals could face fines of up to $100.

Several changes in the game code are of no concern to law-abiding hunters, but are still worth mentioning -- those involving the size of fines. They've increased substantially.

Poaching or hunting animals out of season now carries a fine of up to $500 for killing deer (up from $200) and $100 for most small game (up from $10). Littering fines have also been boosted to $50 while dumping a load of trash carries a $300 penalty.

Another step law-abiding hunters will appreciate: The penalty for hunting while intoxicated was increased from $25 to $300, and wildlife conservation officers may now require hunters who are believed to be intoxicated to submit to a blood alcohol test. Those refusing to cooperate face a one-year license revocation.

The game code revisions took a great deal of time and energy to prepare, but that should pay high dividends in the preservation of wildlife, protection of farmers' rights and safeguards to prevent loss of human life.

Paula Holabaugh Elected PA Maple Sweetheart

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS — Paula Holabaugh, Guys Mills, Northwest Maple Queen, was elected Pennsylvania Maple Sweetheart at the 1987 Pennsylvania State Maple Tour Banquet held at the Riverside Inn, Cambridge Springs. Paula will now be the official representative and spokesperson for the Pennsylvania Maple Industry replacing Christina Hill of Nelson. Lori Roupp, the Potter Tioga Maple Queen, was elected alternate Pennsylvania Maple Sweetheart.

This year the Northwest Maple Producers' Association had the honor of hosting the State Maple Tour, visiting local sugar camps and conducting the annual state banquet. The Riverside Inn, Cambridge Springs was the headquarters and producers from Massachusetts, New York, Vermond, Ohio and all over Pennsylvania attended the program.

The following maple sugar operations were visited: Chris Dengler, Saegertown, viewing a new sugar house for both retail business and making maple syrup and maple products. Dengler has a 3'x10' and a 2'x6' evaporator, reverse osmosis equipment to remove water from the sap thus reducing boiling time and saving energy. He uses both buckets and tubing to gather maple syrup.

The Charles Dengler, Saegertown, maple operation was visited. His sugar house has a 5'x14' and a 4'x12' evaporator, a syrup press and a canning room. They use all tubing and some on a vacuum pump for collecting maple sap. The visitors were also very interested to hear how the Denglers rebuilt after being hit by the tornado 2 years ago.

Richard Tatalovic's sugar camp was another stop. He has a 3'x12' evaporator and a 2'x6' finishing pan and a canning room. His sap is collected in buckets and tubing. The guests also enjoyed viewing his newly remodeled dairy barn.

Bernard Tobin, Cambridge Springs, showed the visitors his sugar house consisting of two oil fired evaporators, one 5'x16', the other 4'x16'. His sap is gathered by tubing and buckets.

Charles Herrick, Cambridge Springs, took the group to the woods where Ted Perdos, Forester, Pa. Dept. of Forest & Waters, discussed woodland improvement and answered questions on the Gypsy moth and what effect the insect will have on the maple trees. While at the Herrick Farm, Mrs. Herrick described their maple operation with their gas fired evaporator and finishing pan. In addition, she discussed ceramics and how they are made while Mrs. Tobin explained making items with clay.

Northrop's Sugar Camp at Corry allowed the group to see a new reverse osmosis machine, a 4'x16' evaporator, a 3'x2' finishing pan, and the use of ultra violet light to preserve the sap. In addition, Frank Schambach, New York, gave a demonstration on how to hang tubing in a maple woods for gathering sap.

Firth's Sugar Camp in Spartansburg was viewed; a new innovated evaporator called a piggy-back evaporator was observed. This evaporator is designed to be energy saving and at the same time allow greater production of maple syrup from the sap. A large, new reverse osmosis machine was also an attraction. Troy Firth has the largest maple operation in the State and possible in the Northeast. Firth's woods was also viewed to see sap gathered by tubing and to see how to properly manage a woods for future maple production.

The highlight of the banquet was two-fold. First the election of the new Pennsylvania Maple Sweetheart and second to hear the nature slide presentation by Yetive Pulling of Cambridge Springs. Neldon Wheelock of Townville challenged the group to identify the 20 different antiques he brought.

National Pork Board Commits Additional Funds

"Pork producers are seeing the results that checkoff-funded activities are generating, and are support the 100% checkoff program," according to Virgil Rosendale, a pork producer from Augusta, IL and president of the National Pork Board.

According to Rosendale, the Board originally underestimated the support of the nation's pork producers. When the 100% National Legislative Checkoff Program went into effect November 1, 1986, the Board estimated that it would generate approximately $18 million during 1987. Rosendale said strong market prices, coupled with producer confidence in the effectiveness of checkoff programs, will result in an increase of over $4 million in checkoff collections on 1987.

This increase has allowed the Board to invest producer funds in the most effective way possible by approving a diversified program. "It takes more than just media avertising to make up a balanced program. Expanding promotional, research and educational activities in the areas of foodservice, retail merchandising and production research are all important parts of the entire effort," said Rosendale.

At the meeting held September 6 and 7 at the officers of the National Live Stock and Meat Board in Chicago, the National Pork Board allocated $900,000 in 1987 producer checkoff funds. The Board designated the bulk of the funds, $500,000, for use in the "Pork-The Other White Meat" campaign.

Pork producers have indicated that improvement of foreign market opportunities is a high priority. As a result, the board allocated $100,000 to the National Pork Producers Council for foreign market development and improvement.

The National Pork Board voiced its support of next year's World Pork Expo by allocating $250,000 in 1987 checkoff funds to be used for producer education programs, youth activities, pork value, and other activites at the event. Rosendale said, "This is an international effort that we think can be very effective in helping pork producers improve the quality of their product." World Pork Expo will be held June 12-13-14, 1988 in Des Moines, IA.

Looking ahead to 1988, the Board also committed $7,350,000 of 1988 checkoff funds. A total of $6.6 million in 1988 funds was earmarked for the area of consumer product marketing. Some $5.4 million of the consumer product marketing budget will be used by the National Pork Producers Council for this "Pork-The Other White Meat" consumer advertising campaign. The National Live Stock and Meat Board will use $65,000 for meat science research and pork nutritional information and education.

No-Till Farming — Agricultural Revolution Of The 80s

LEESPORT, PA — Early agricultural writers often referred to crop residue as a means of protecting the soil against erosion. "However the technology did not exist at the time for leaving much of the residue on the surface after plowing and planting," says John Fior of the USDA Soil Conservation Service. The standard farming technology of the time, moldboard plowing, turned the crop residue under sod and left the fields in a clean-tilled condition where they were very susceptible to erosion. "As a result many of the nations major agricultural areas have suffered from excessive soil erosion over the years," says Fior. Extensive use of conservation practices in past years such as contour farming, stripcropping, and terracing has helped to reduce soil erosion dramatically, but crop residues are still needed on the soil surface to control sheet and rill erosion. Recent developments in equipment technology, herbicides, and pesticides has made farming with crop residues a practical reality.

Various forms of conservation tillage have been developed over the years where conventional farming operations such as plowing, disking, harrowing and cultivating are greatly reduced or eliminated. Ground disturbance is minimized. As a result large amounts of crop residue remain on the surface. The new crop is planted in the old crop residue. The residue protects the soil from wind and water erosion, acts as a mulch to retain soil moisture, and reduces fuel and labor costs. In no-till farming conventional tillage operations are completely eliminated. Seeds are planted in narrow slots cut in the ground. "No-till farming often aggravates weed and insect problems," says Fior. "Additional herbicides and pesticides are usually required."

"No-till systems are adaptable to all major field crops such as corn, soybeans, small grains, grain sorghum and to a lesser extent vegetables and specialty crops," says Fior. Alfalfa and other legumes and grasses are also suitable for no-till establishment, but intensive management is required for maximum pest control and seedling survival. Reports show that no-till crop yields are comparable to conventionally tilled crop yields. "USDA reported that 10.5 million acres were planted to no-till in 1982," says Fior. This was a 313 percent increase over 3.3 million acres planted in 1972. "USDA estimates that by 2010 more than half of all cropland will be no-till and at least 95 percent will be in some form of conservation tillage," adds Fior.

"Recent surveys indicate that most farmers consider erosion control the primary reason for no-till, in addition to fuel and labor savings," says Fior. Farmers who practice no-till only for savings in fuel, labor, and other inputs may return to intensive tillage when economic conditions improve. "Farmers who practice no-till primarily for erosion control will probably continue to do so," adds Fior.

For further information on no-till farming contact the Soil Conservation Service office located in the Agricultural Center in Bern Township.

A Barn Raising Experience

Friends and relatives or Harold Wenger, Chambersburg, help to construct an addition to his barn. Wenger's stanchion barn was expanded from 32 stalls to 54. Seventeen hundred square feet of space was added to the upper barn floor.

IMITATIONS
When you're told "it's the same as Big Dutchman," you're being reminded that Big Dutchman is the leader with the best quality poultry feeding equipment Why does that salesman from the other company mention us, his toughest competitor? It's pretty clear Big Dutchman is the standard We are the measure of all the others
The next time a salesman says, "it's as good as Big Dutchman" let that be your cue to call us for the real thing
Quality, reliability and proven performance these are what distinguish Big Dutchman from the imitators

Farm-Toy Show Slated For November

CHAMPION, Pa. — The Penn-Jersey Farm Equipment Dealers Annual Management Conference and Trade Show will be held at Seven Springs Mountain Resort here.

This year, the Farm Equipment Dealers will start their convention with a Farm Toy Show and Sale. The show and sale will be held Sunday, November 15th from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Numerous equipment dealers and dealers that sell toys will be exhibiting their merchandise and limited edition serial number toys.

Some of the scarce farm toys of the 40's and 50's will be offered for sale. They are very valuable and highly prized toys. Beside the sale tables, many show toys will be on display. Early John Deere toys will be displayed.

The Farm Equipment Dealers Management sessions start Sunday, November 15 and will end Tuesday night, November 17th with their annual banquet and entertainment.

For more information, please call Art Smith at Penn-Jersey Farm & Power Equipment Dealers Association, Harrisburg, PA (717-545-2381) or PA and NJ (1-800-932-0607).

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

QUARANTINE ORDER

WHEREAS, the Varroa mite has been found in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Florida, and WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture hereby declares that the Varroa mite when introduced into a colony or hive of bees is a serious threat to the health and survival of the colony; and WHEREAS, there is evidence that the movement of honey bees by man contributes substantially to the spread of the Varroa mite; and WHEREAS, the Varroa mite poses a serious threat to the economic well-being of the bee industry and the fruit and vegetable industries.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE pursuant to the authority granted by Section 3 of the act of April 6, 1921 (P L 95, No 56) (3 P S ss 691-704), as amended by the act of September 10, 1965 (P L 513, No 260), promulgates the following quarantine order for the prevention, control and eradication of the Varroa mite within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

For the purpose of this order Varroa mite shall mean the insect scientifically known as VARROA JACOBSONI Oudemans

1 The transportation or movement of honey bees into the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is prohibited without certification issued by the state entomologist or appropriate official of the state of origin that the bees in question are free of the Varroa mite

2 The transportation or movement of bees out of and within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from their present location is prohibited without certification issued by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture that the bees in question are free of the Varroa mite.

3. Beekeepers will maintain adequate and complete records of all bees that they acquire or dispose of during the pendency of this Order.

4. The Department of Agriculture shall conduct surveillance throughout Pennsylvania as deemed necessary to detect the presence of the Varroa mite It is the duty of every person having information of the existence of the Varroa mite in Pennsylvania to report that information to the Department.

5 This Order is effective on October 14, 1987 and shall remain in effect until further notice.

Boyd E Wolff, Secretary of Agriculture

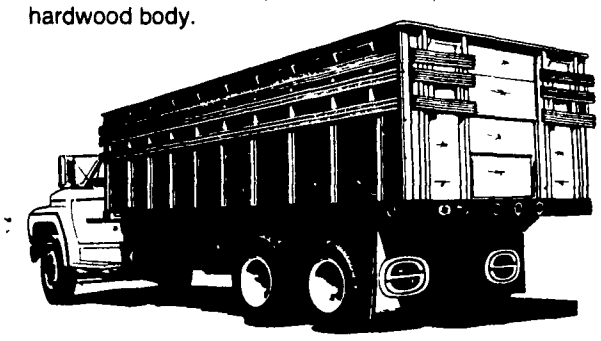
Grain & Livestock Bodies

Bigger than ever, Better than ever. A full 96" wide...

We've built rugged truck bodies for more than 60 years and today we're continuing that tradition. That's the reason you can't make a better investment than an Omaha Standard steel, stakeless steel, aluminum or hardwood body.

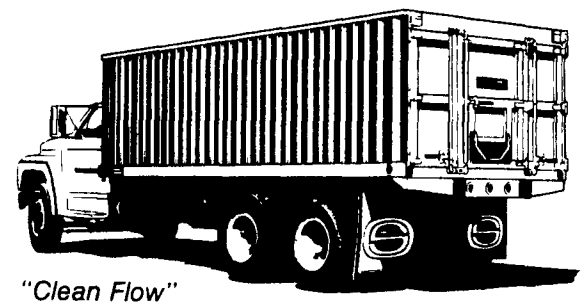


Steel and Hardwood Farm Bodies

- One-piece roll formed steel sides with built-in tarp rail Available in 28", 40" and 52" heights ..all with maximum corrugation for maximum strength
- 40", 48" and 54" hardwood sides also available ..the truck body Omaha Standard built its reputation on
- Maximum legal width of 96" increases payload
- The toughest platform in the business — laminated wood, smooth steel, treadplate or steel over wood
- Easy-conversion fold down stock racks
- Full line of rugged gates engineered to make your job easier.

Omaha Standard Hoists

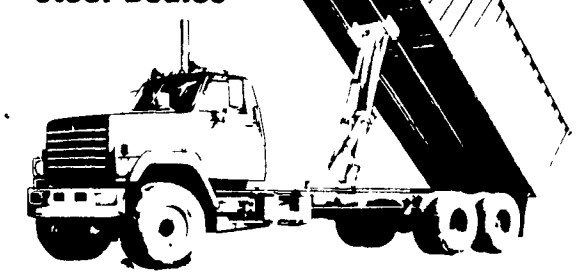
Select a job-matched, precision-engineered Omaha Standard hoist for your Omaha Standard body Available in fourteen models — scissor or the stabilized "Olympic" telescopic line Capacities from 5 to 52 tons



"Clean Flow"
Aluminum Bodies

- All-aluminum construction...splice-free 60" or 72" high stakeless sides. .extruded outrail and tarp rail cap..."I" beam cross sills
- "Clean Flow" design of the extra deep 30° sidewall corrugations allows complete emptying with no sharp corners for grain to hang up.
- Standard three-section full opening rear doors and swing-out header.
- Greater inside dimensions and light weight give you more hauling capacity and let you save fuel while doing it.

"Clean Flow"
Stakeless Steel Bodies



- 52" or 60" heavy gauge sides give you more hauling capacity for grain, sugar beets and other commodities
- "Clean Flow" design of the extra deep 30° sidewall corrugations allows complete emptying with no sharp corners for grain to hang up
- Greater inside width and length make this an ideal body for hauling bagged or palletized products
- Standard three section full opening rear doors and swing-out header

SUPER HOPPER

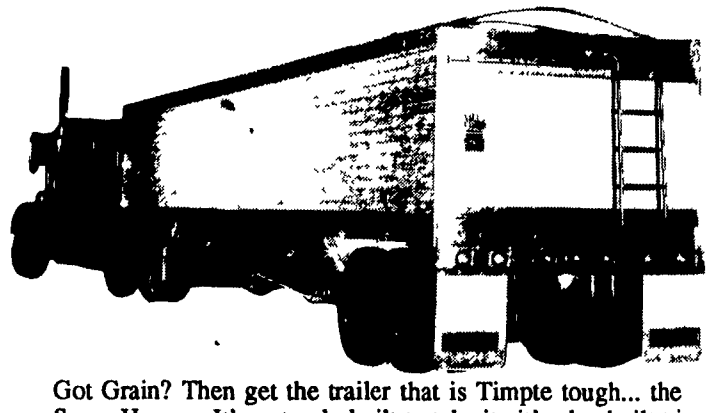
REDESIGNED 1988 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

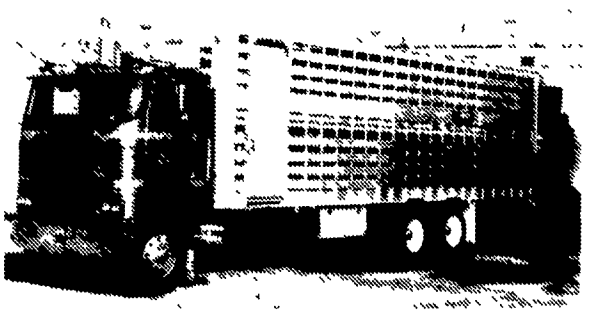
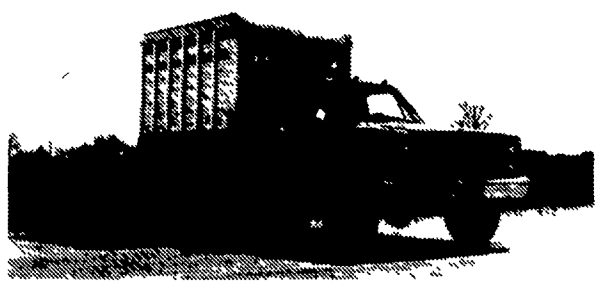
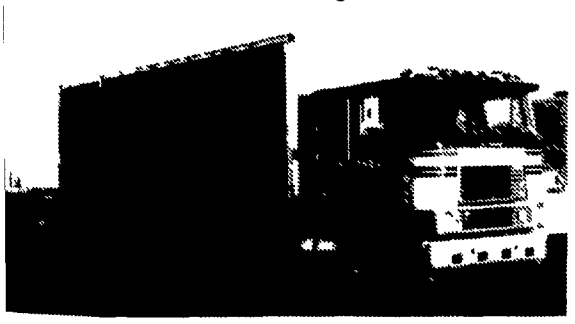
An Eby grain body is surprisingly affordable and built for the long haul



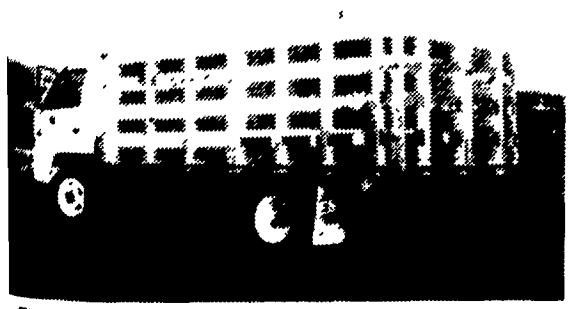
Reliable Eby livestock bodies are now aerodynamically designed



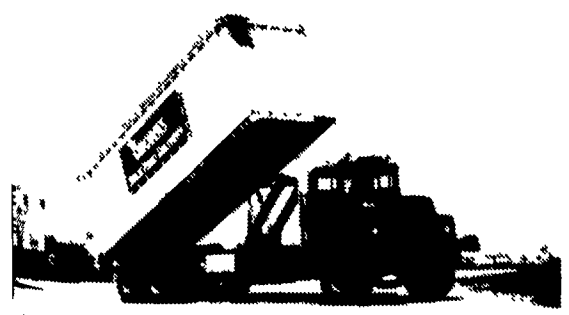
Eby's slip-in extends the usefulness of your pickup for minimal investment



A chicken body built to keep your birds dry and protected



Eby stake body is the right choice for farm or commercial use



Consider an Eby bulk body for reliability and ease of use

Aluminum Bodies for the Agri-Industry

Back in 1938, when Menno Eby Sr. began making wagons and cattle trucks, he was determined to give farmers strong, wooden truck bodies at a competitive price.

Some things change. Others stay the same.

Today, M. H. Eby, Inc. produces a wide variety of sturdy and reliable truck bodies for agri-business. Everything from livestock bodies through stake bodies to grain and bulk bodies. All at competitive prices.

But now every Eby body is all-aluminum. Consider some of the advantages you get over traditional wood and steel construction:

- As much as 50% lighter — allows for increased payloads.
- It will never rust through or rot.
- No need to paint.
- Overall maintenance costs are greatly reduced.
- Just an occasional power washing keeps aluminum bodies looking new for years.
- They have much better resale value.

What's more, you can always tell Eby what you want on your body. Everything we make is custom-built. A long list of options available for every body style allows you to design the body you need for your operation.

Give us a call, or write, to find out more about the lightweight alternative.

BID DEPOSIT: Bid must be accomplished by certified check, cashier's check, postal money order, bank money order or bank draft, payable to Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), for at least 10 percent (10%) of the total bid. Preference will be given to a cash offer.

RATES AND TERMS: A minimum of ten percent (10%) down payment is required with terms on the remaining credit not to exceed 25 years or a period for which the property will serve as adequate security, whichever is less. The interest rate will be determined at the time of approval of the credit requested based upon Farmer Program ineligible interest rate published in FmHA instruction. The current rate is available upon request of the FmHA County Offices. Rates and terms available to a bidder considered eligible for FmHA regular loan programs may vary.

TERMS OF SALE: Contact County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, 5 East Avenue, Wellsboro, PA 16901, for appointment to inspect the farm. Sealed bids are invited and will be accepted until 1 00 PM, October 28, 1987, at the Farmers Home Administration, 5 East Avenue, Wellsboro, PA, and will be opened publicly at 1:30 PM, the same date and place. The Government reserves the right to reject any or all bids. This farm will be sold without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin or marital status. This property is being sold subject to the Environmental Regulations of the USDA.

The stream on this property will be protected by a deed restriction establishing a buffer zone extending 25 ft. on either side of the center line of the channel.

For further information and bid forms, contact the Farmers Home Administration 5 East Avenue, Wellsboro, PA 16901, Telephone 717-724-4812.

Animals Bring Good Price At Eastern National Livestock Show

The 1987 Eastern National Livestock Show grand champion market steer was purchased by M.H. Eby, Inc., of Blue Ball, Pa. Eby paid $1.05 per pound for this 1395-pound Simmental steer.

Ezra Good, hog buyer from Hatfield's purchased the 1987 grand champion market hog at the show, which was held in Timonium, Md. Good, who is also a Judge, purchased 90% of the hogs exhibited by the 4-H and FFAers at the sale. Eastern National is one of the few remaining shows that feature a 4-H and FFA sale.

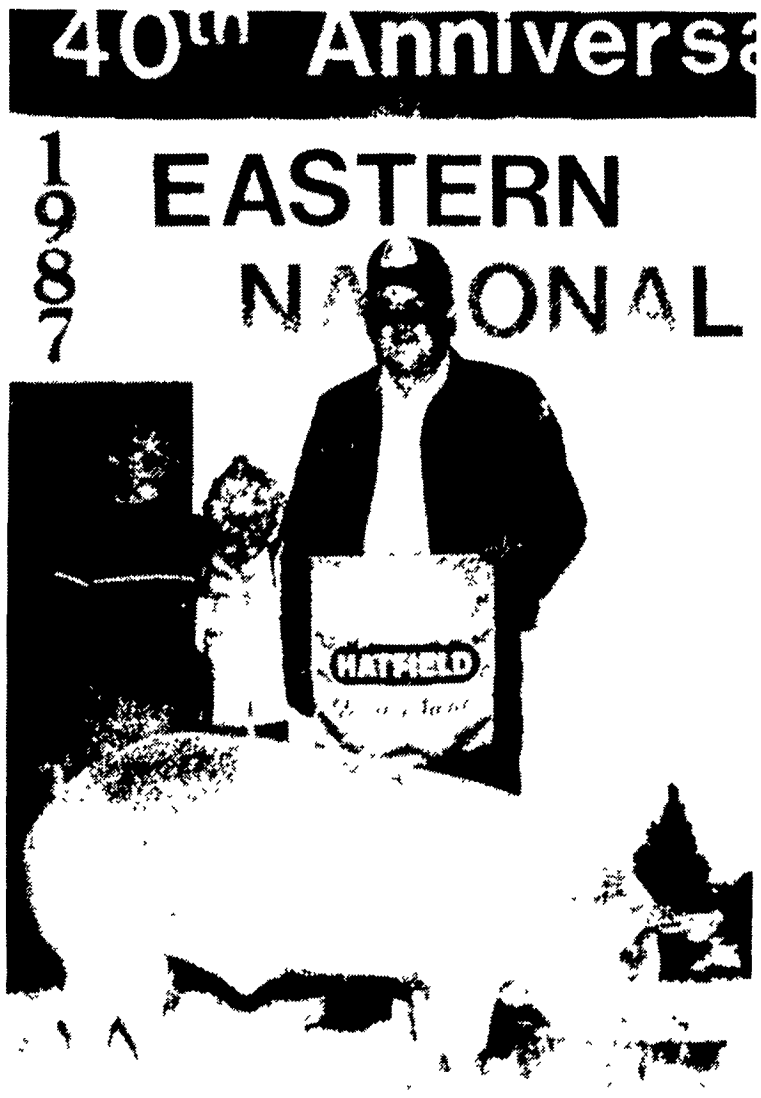
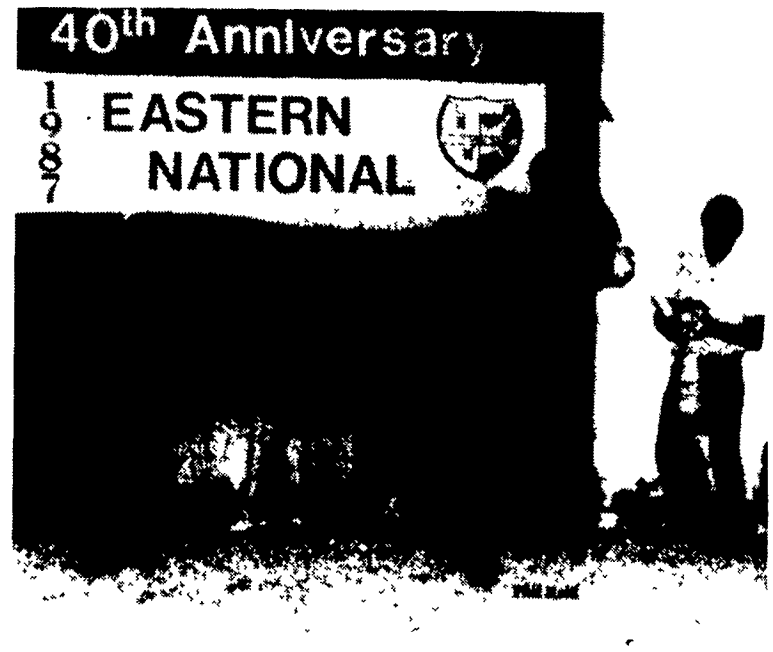
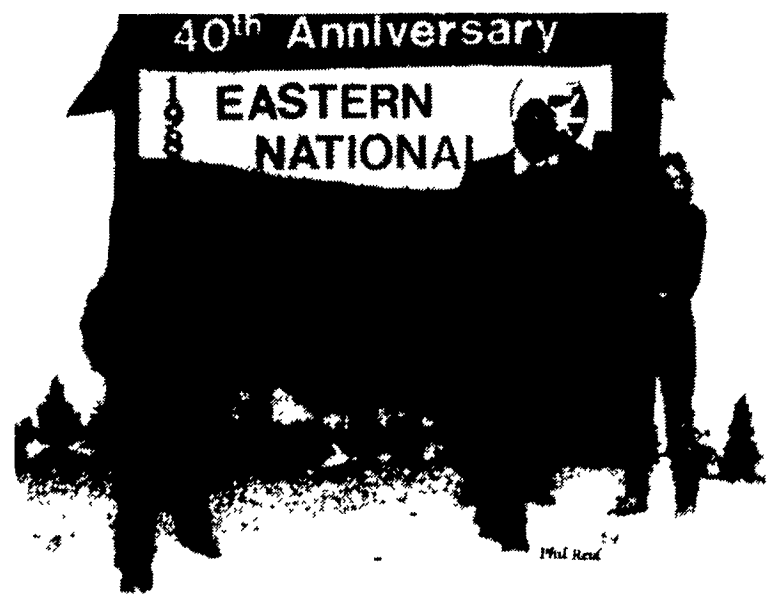
The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, the mid-Atlantic's largest agricultural leader, purchased this champion lamb exhibited by Joyce Harpster of Boalsburg, Pa. The lamb brought $1.20 per pound. Farm Credit Banks also purchased the reserve champion novice steer. The 1250-pound Chianina steer, shown by Kelly Mazur, was bought for $.77 per pound.



The Eastern National Livestock Show champion hog was shown by matt Soper of Westminster, Md. The hog was sold for $5.00 per pound.



Kevin Mast's champion steer was purchased for $1.05 per pound by M.H. Eby Inc. Mast is from Millersburg, OH.



Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore purchased the champion novice steer. The Chianina brought $.77 per pound.

October FFA Member-Of-The-Month

CRANBURY, NJ — Jay Betsy, an FFA member of the Middlesex County Chapter, and resident of Cranbury, New Jersey, has been selected as Outstanding FFA Member of the Month for October.

Each month applications for outstanding members are reviewed and judged by the FFA state officers and executive committee. The application includes any practical work experience the member has, the offices the member has held, any degrees they have earned, and committees and activities the member was a part of.

Betsy's application included his work experience on three different types of farms: a 400-acre dairy farm, a 27-acre pumpkin and grain farm, and a 950-acre grain farm. Betsy also had held the office of Sentinel and is presently Chapter President. In addition, he has earned both the Greenhand and Chapter Farmer Degrees. Betsy also has managed to find time to take part in the Safety in Agriculture, Public Relations, and Building Our American Communities Committees. He has been active in both the State and the National Conventions, and has been a contestant in the State Weed Identification and Nursery/Landscape contests.

"The FFA has done alot for me," Betsy comments, "It can help me get far in life."

In April, 1988, Jay Betsy will be under consideration for Outstanding FFA Member of the Year. The FFA promotes leadership and friendly competition, while giving it's members numerous chances to excel.

N.Y. Cattlemen Hear Check-Off Report

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Officers and county directors of the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association heard a progress report on the national and state Beef Check-off programs at their recent Council meeting at the Sheraton Inn here.

Jerry Reed of Rome, executive director of the New York State Beef Industry Council, said, "yes, the Beef Check-Off is working and working efficiently", pointing out that state Beef Industry Councils do not duplicate the work on the national level but coordinate their programs with those of the national Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board.

He called on beef producers "to recognize that you are not only in the cattle business but also are in the food business," as he emphasized the need to adapt to consumer life styles with market research and new products. He cited the state Beef Industry Council funded work at Fairbanks Farm to tenderize certain beef cuts and to package beef for the microwave.

Reed said the latest research shows "red meat marketing is moving in the right direction. Ninety per cent of those surveyed are aware of the leaner cuts and 50 per cent by 'lean beef' ".

He reminded the cattlemen that the New York State Beef Industry Council represents veal and dairy producers as well as beef producers and is charged with collecting the Beef Check-Off dollars and implementing and administering research and promotion projects.

He reported he has met with the American Heart Association in the state to explore areas the two groups can work together. He said he is also working with the state dairy cooperative. The State Beef Industry Council has purchased an insert in the American Dairy Association newsletter and will have the pamphlet, "How Are My Dollars Being Spent" mailed with the Oct. 10 milk checks to members of the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association Inc.

He showed the cattlemen two video tapes: one outlining the general advertising and research and one previewing the massive television campaign which will carry beef advertising on the major shows on the three major networks.

Reed also reviewed some of the many farm and consumer events he has attended since he became director of the New York State Beef Industry Council.

New York Beef Cattlemen's Association president Peter Nixon of Westfield noted that Cattlemen's vice president Henry Bono who is chairman of the State Beef Industry Council and dairy farmer Ralph Mitzel are members of the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board and that he, Peter Nixon, and veal producer Ralph Many have been seated as directors of the Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board.

Cattlemen's advisor Dr. Terry Dockerty who works in the Northeast for the Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board, said the high level of cooperation on the New York State Beef Industry Council is "a real plus". He added, "we all need to work together to increase the demand for beef and to improve its image."

He emphasized the Beef Industry Council can not address production or political concerns but is charged with education, promotion, and research. "The New York Beef Cattlemen's Association is the 'Supply side' and the New York State Beef Industry Council is the 'demand side' of the industry," he explained and emphasized "there is no competition between the two groups."

Dramatic Changes Predicted For 21st Century Farm

As the 21st century approaches, American agriculture is in major transition and faces even more dramatic changes and opportunities than in past years.

That is the report from speakers at a Cornell University symposium celebrating 100 years of agricultural research in the United States.

The symposium was held to mark the centennial of the Hatch Act of 1887, which paved the way for establishing agricultural experiment stations across the nation.

Focusing on the theme, "The Next Century," speakers covered topics ranging from the role of agricultural research in the world economy to the impact of technology on the 21st century farm.

Biology and other areas of science and engineering will revolutionize agriculture in the next century and dramatically change the methods by which American farmers produce food and fiber, predicted Sylvan H. Wittwer, former director of the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

Wittwer said that there is no question that agriculture, which he called "the world's most important and dynamic industry," is in transition.

"More and more, technology will be seen as the major force shaping the structure of U.S. agriculture and what happens out on the farm," he said.

Highlights of his projections for the American farm as it heads towards the 21st century included:

• Dairying will remain the most stable and value-added agricultural industry of the world. U.S. milk production per cow, which has doubled during the past 40 years, is likely to double again by the year 2000, while the number of cows will dwindle from 11 million to 7 to 8 million.

• Pigs will be developed that will produce leaner meat with less fat. Pig growth hormone tested at universities has enhanced rates of gain up to 15 percent, reduced carcass fat by as much as 50 percent and backfat by 70 percent, and has produced a 100 percent increase in loin eye area.

• Commercial use of growth hormone for dairy, beef, and swine will become a reality by 1990 and will be widespread by the year 2000. With appropriate management, the growth hormone technology could produce rewards to the small producer equal to those for the large operator.

• Consumption of broilers and turkey will continue to expand in competition with red meat. By 1990, poultry meat consumption is expected to equal that of beef and pork taken together. Per capita egg consumption in the United States will continue its downward trend.

• The world's dominant food crops will continue to be rice, wheat, corn, sorghum, millet, oats, barley, rye, soybeans, field beans, chick peas, cowpeas, peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes, cassava, bananas and coconuts.

• The amount of pesticides used for agriculture will be reduced substantially. Costs of materials and of application, increasing environmental constraints and destruction of non-target organisms, food safety and human health, and increasing number of bio-types gaining resistance will require less chemical usage.

• Conservation tillage practices, such as no-till, ridge and living mulching systems, will be the wave of the future. This is an emerging agricultural technology vital for resource conservation, including land, water, energy, fertilizer, soil and organic matter.

• Management of water resource availability and quality will be critical for productive and dependable farm production.

• The "plastic revolution" is well underway for crop production throughout the world. Plastic greenhouses, row covers, tunnels and mulches extend production area, control weeds, conserve soil moisture, repel insects and protect crops from freezing, thus greatly improving yields and quality of crops.

• The beef industry is at a crossroads, with consumers demanding low-fat, palatable and tender beef. The future of this industry hinges upon consumer acceptance of the product. There will be no great expansion of exports, and the fate of the industry lies with the domestic market. Acceptance of bovine growth hormone and its use will result in leaner beef and greater rates of gain.

Wittwer said, "Technology will raise world farm output, and agricultural research will advance more rapidly and broadly than ever before.

"If American agriculture is to remain truly competitive for the 21st century and beyond, we must first be willing to invest to retain our edge in agricultural science and technology and second to create a mechanism whereby new technology developed in other countries may be brought into the U.S. system.

McGregor Seeks Baltimore Farm Credit Seat

EAST BERLIN — Ralph H. McGregor, a 49 year old resident of York County, Pennsylvania; seeks the position of Director at Large for the Farm Credit Board of Baltimore. Mr. McGregor farms a total of 950 acres. The operation includes 225 Holstein cows and 190 replacement heifers. Presently, the rolling herd average is 19,600 with 706 fat.

Ralph is an active member of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative where he served as district president. He is also an active member of Dover Area School Board serving as president for 6 years. Mr. McGregor also participates in the PFA Land Use Committee, York County Extension Public Affairs Committee, Washington Township Planning Commission, Pennsylvania and National Holstein Association. He is a member of Agway, Inc., Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, and the PA Department of Agriculture's Cooperative Director School Advisory Committee.

He is married to Ada Mummert McGregor. Ralph and Ada have five daughters. They are members of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Ralph is a member of York Production Credit Association, and has served as a director of the Federal Land Bank Association since 1981. He believes family farms and their effective cooperatives are the key to American agriculture.

All stockholder members of the Baltimore Farm Credit District will receive voting ballots from the Farm Credit Administration, (Mclean, Virginia). Ballots will be mailed on October 5 and must be returned to the FCA by December 4, 1987.

Joint PCA & FLB members receive 2 ballots- can vote both ballots.

Any questions please contact: Ralph H. McGregor, R.D. #1 Box 169, East Berlin, PA 17316, Phone: 717-432-9586.

Cedar Crest FFA Freshmen Attend Leadership Conference

UNIVERSITY PARK — 15 members of the Cedar Crest Chapter of the Future Farmers of America attended a one-day leadership development conference offered by the Penn State Collegiate FFA on the Penn State University main campus on Friday, October 2, 1987. The purpose of the conference was to offer leadership development opportunities to freshmen FFA members. Four areas of leadership were discussed during the day. Kevin Eblen, National FFA President, presented a session on leadership. The State FFA officer team and members of the Penn State Collegiate FFA presented workshops on awards, public relations, and parliamentary procedure. The following Cedar Crest members attended: Scott Allwein, Rodney Ault, Chris Bringman, Lawrence Brown, Ammon Peiffer, Joanna Young, Mark Boyer, Ann Crouse, Daniel Donmoyer, Eric Flowers, Crystal Fox, Andrew Ill, Ron Weaber, Cory Whitman, and Eric Williams.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

Over the past 5 years, we have sold thousands of T.A.'s to satisfied customers in 25 states across the U.S. Some of our best customers are I.H. Dealers.

We do complete job or center housing while you wait or will sell you the parts.

Our prices on T.A.'s with the Dana Sprag, is still $595.00 with a 2 year warranty.

We also have units and parts available to rebuild old style T.A.'s, including Ramp & carrier sets for $300.00

Clutches, Pressure Plates PTO Drives & Water Pumps

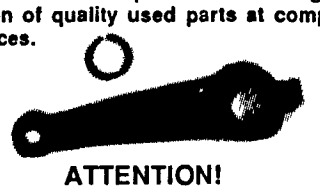
We have clutches available for most all IH tractors; including many heavier than original. We also have clutches for many other brands.

- Compare Our Prices -

All clutches & T.A.'s will ship U.P.S. and are sold on an exchange basis. Core charges Apply.

QUALITY USED PARTS

We are continually increasing our inventory of late model tractor parts. We have a good selection of quality used parts at competitive prices.



ATTENTION!
International Harvester Owners

Tighten worn steering arms on 56-66-86 series IH tractors without welding, splitting, or bolting.

A taper is machined into the new steering arms. A sleeve is then broached to match the original splines of the spindle. The outside of the sleeve is tapered to match the inside taper of the arm. These two, finely-machined surfaces then meet for a neat, permanent, surelock fit. A key is installed for added strength and safety.

THE ONE SPREADER FOR A TWO-SPREADER FARM

A Gehl 300 Series Scavenger® II manure spreader handles all types of manure. It saves you time and money by bridging the gap between liquid and solid manure handling. It's the one tough, reliable machine built to cut right through your manure spreading problems. It's available in five sizes — from 912 to 2925 gallon capacities — so you can choose the one that best meets your operation's specialized needs.

Manure from confinement housing can be quickly and easily loaded and delivered to your spreader with a versatile Gehl skid loader. The heaviest loads are no problem with a Scavenger® II manure spreader. It's built with heavy duty chain drive and rugged construction throughout. Your first glance will tell you the Scavenger® II is unlike any spreader you've ever seen.

Handles All Kinds Of Manure - Liquid, Semi-Solid, Pen Packed, Even Frozen

Fewer Moving Parts, Fewer Breakdowns

Unload fast!

The Model 355 grinder mixer unloads a full, 100-bushel tank in less than five minutes! Its big, eight inch diameter auger unloads feed fast. With extensions the unloading auger can reach a full 20 feet. The mixing auger thoroughly mixes your ration from the bottom up to produce consistent uniform feed. And the new optional electronic scale gives you accurate control of rations. Stop in and see the 355 today.

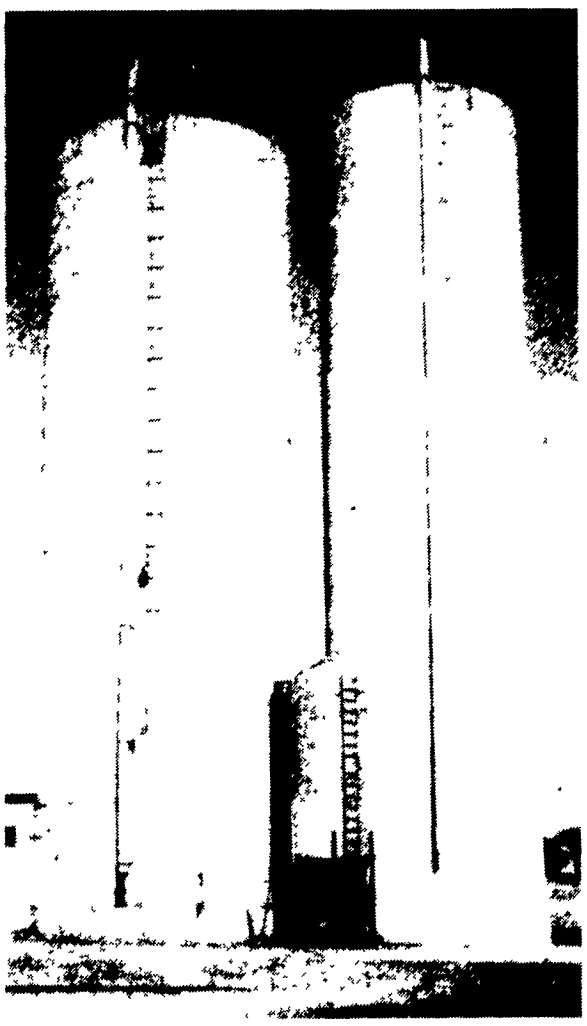
Solid Ways To Improve Your Farm

Consider The Many Advantages Of Concrete



The summer of 1987 will be remembered for the many hot, dry days. These high temperatures damaged a lot of stored corn in structures that have a thin wall and do not reflect heat. Avoid this heat damage with a poured concrete silo from Sollenberger Silos Corp.

* The Laidig 43 bottom unloader handles high moisture ear corn and shelled corn.

* The Laidig 98 or 198 will do a good job with grains; or forage at 55-60% moisture. BY FILLING EARLIER YOU CAN SAVE YOUR VALUABLE LEAVES.

✔ Smooth 6'' Poured Concrete Walls
✔ Sure-Seal Filling System Opens And Closes From The Ground
✔ Safety Rail Around The Poured Concrete Roof
✔ Enclosed Gooseneck
✔ Many Other Features
✔ Flying Dutchman Unloader Available

PRE-CAST CONCRETE FEED BUNKS

You Spend A Lot Of Time And Money Producing And Storing Your Good Feed Crops. Don't Just "Get By" With A Feeding Bunk That Wastes Feed Or Is About Worn Out. Your Best Choice For A Feed Bunk Is Pre-Cast Concrete.

SLANT BACK J BUNK H-BUNK

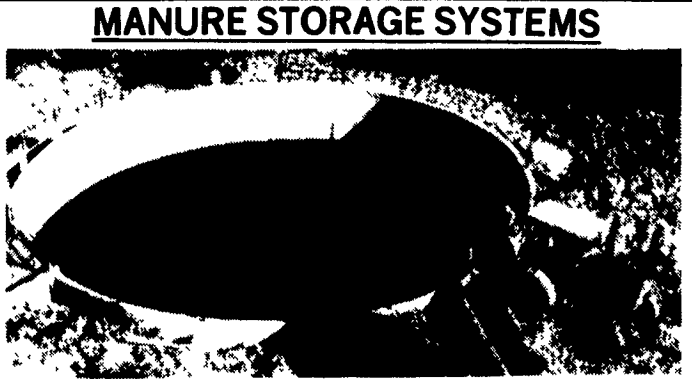
Let Us Know Your Needs. We Can Deliver From Our Large Inventory And Set On Your Prepared Site. OR: We Can Load On Your Truck To Help Save On Freight Costs. We Have Several Sizes And Styles To Choose From, Plus Metal Posts, For Cable, Which Can Be Bolted To The Bunk To Keep Cattle Out.

MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS



- Manure Storage Systems For The Small Herd - or The 400 Cow Herds And Larger.
- Systems Adaptable To Any Type Equipment
- SCS Approved
- Circular Tanks Poured-In-Place Above Ground - In Ground - Or Uneven Backfill.

INDUSTRIAL SILOS

Common Uses:

- Wood Chips • Sawdust
- Bark • Sand & Aggregates
- Coal • Grains • Meals
- Plastic • Water & Liquids
- Any Flowable Materials

Advantages:

- Designed according to your specific needs by registered, professional engineers
- Lower construction cost
- Standard 6" steel-reinforced, poured concrete walls
- Smooth, leak proof walls
- Maintenance free
- Concrete wall reduces product freezing in winter and heating in summer
- Lower fire insurance costs

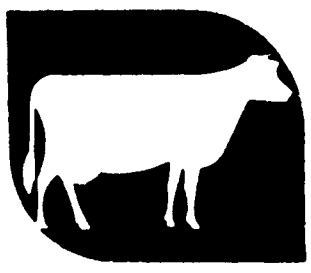
PRO-4
SANITIZING TEAT DIP



Don't kid yourself . . . killing GERMS is only part of the mastitis prevention program!! The answer is PRO-4 Teat Dip.

Pro-4 formulation recognizes that killing germs is only half the battle in mastitis control. Maintaining good healthy teat tissue is the other half of the battle that must be won to reduce mastitis. The multiple conditioning action on the teat skin of Pro-4 is superior to any teat dip on the market today. Pro-4 Teat Dip has a record of 14 years of safe and effective use.

Greencastle Girl Shows Champ At Franklin County

GREENCASTLE — Nicole Lebo took home the grand champion banner from the Franklin County Baby Beef Round-up October 10 at the Greencastle Livestock auction. Her light heavyweight steer, an Angus/Chianina/Lim. cross was bought at the Piedmont Invitational Sale. Nicole, 14, is the daughter of Leon and Judy Lebo of Greencastle.

Darren Meyers, 15, of Greencastle, took reserve grand champion honors with his Chianina/Angus steer, also a light heavyweight. Darren is the son of Gary and Elaine Meyers.

For the first time in the history of the Franklin County club, the grand and reserve champions at the round-up were the same as they had been at the Franklin County Fair in August.

Twenty seven steers were entered in the show.

Judge for the event was Bill Holloway, York, a 4-H Leader for 30 years and coach of the 4-H Livestock Judging team in York. He is also manager of Forge Hill Farms, Mt. Wolf, a purebred and commercial cow/calf herd. Holloway said of the top two steers, "These are two meaty steers, with good rumps and thickness and depth of quarter."

Winners in the Conformation classes were:

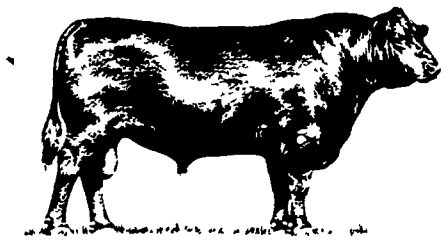
11-Millionth Angus Registration To Be Awarded

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.— Growth of the Angus breed in the United States will pass a milestone November 17 when registration number 11,000,000 is awarded to the grand champion bull at the National Angus Show in Louisville, Kentucky.

The lucky exhibitor of the bull will be the owner of the official 11 millionth animal to be recorded by the American Angus Association since it was organized at a meeting in Chicago, Illinois, in November 1883, reports Richard L. Spader, association executive vice president.

The 1988 National Angus Show in Louisville will be held in conjunction with the 1987 North American International Livestock Exposition and the 104th Annual Meeting of the American Angus Association. Some 4,000 people are expected to attend the Angus events in Louisville from Sunday, November 15 through Tuesday, November 17.

Registration number 10 million was awarded in 1982 to the grand champion bull of the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colorado. The bull was Rosebank Connection 69, later appropriately nicknamed "10," shown by Rally Farm, Millbrook, New York; Rosebank Angus Farm, Germantown, New York; and Timber Valley Farms, Dawn, Missouri.



First-Time Exhibitors Are Winners At Unionville Fair

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester County Correspondent

UNIONVILLE — In his first year of exhibition, 13-year-old Brian Hostetter of Brittania Farm, Parkesburg, took top Holstein honors at Unionville Community Fair. His 3-year-old, Brittania Chairman Sophia, was judged both senior and grand champion with the best udder.

Doebler's Hybrids honors top dealers

Ivan Garrison, an Elmer, N.J. dealer, was one of only three dealers in Doebler's eight-state sales area to be named a Super Sales Master. Twenty one others in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland earned Go Getter awards.

Franklin 4-H Beef Sale Sets 3 Records

GREENCASTLE — Three records toppled Saturday night October 10 when the Franklin County 4-H Baby Beef Club held its annual sale of project steers.

Club president Donnie Sheiss, Chambersburg, welcomed the capacity crowd at the Greencastle Livestock Market. "It's not just beef you're buying," he told the prospective buyers, "but an interest in college, vehicles, computers, and maybe a honeymoon."

Darren Meyer's 1250-pound reserve grand champion sold to County Market of Chambersburg for $2.70, also establishing a new record.

The average price for the evening, $1.28 per pound, was also a record for the club. Thirty-two head were sold, with a total weight of 38,825 pounds and an average weight of 1213 pounds. Total value of the sale was $49,711.60. Twenty-seven of the animals sold were project steers; the remaining five were companion steers.

Auctioneer Lyle Reed conducted the lively sale, announcing the name of the buyer as each animal was sold.

The club expressed its appreciation to the buyers for their support and to Jeff Craig, owner of Greencastle Livestock Market, for the use of his facilities for their show and sale.

Guernseys were exhibited by Troy Hendricks of Kimberton alone. Hendricks was named both senior showman and senior fitter.

Karen Sanner, Downingtown, was proclaimed junior fitter and Jennifer Lamborn, Landenberg, reserve junior fitter.

The judges were Pete Witmer of Willow Street and Gary Akers, Quarryville. Akers is chairman of the Solanco Fair and milks Holsteins. Witmer owns a Guernsey herd.

Angus Bull Prices Hit Record $1,797 in 1987

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — The average price of Angus bulls sold at auction hit an all-time high of $1,797 in the American Angus Associations's 1987 fiscal year, ended September 30, while registrations increased by nearly 6 percent and sales of Certified Angus Beef totaled nearly 43-million pounds, an increase of 44 percent over 1986 volume.

Improved beef prices and even stronger demand for Angus cattle helped the American Angus Association chalk up increases in nearly every category of business during the fiscal year ended September 30, according to Richard L. Spader,executive vice-president of the American Angus Association.

The sharp improvement in average registered Angus bull prices was $529 per head more than the 1986 average. It was established on some 9,500 registered Angus bulls sold at 365 auction sales. The average price of all registered females sold at auction was $1,598 compared with $1,426 a year earlier.

Registrations of purebred Angus cattle in the fiscal year just ended totaled 141,239 head, an increase of 5.8 percent. Transfers of Angus cattle, which represents sales, were 87,536 head an increase of 6,006, up 7.4 percent from last year. The number of people joining the American Angus Association was up slightly during the year totaling 1,504 new regular members. In addition, there were 806 new junior memberships issued in the 12-month period. These figures maintained the American Angus Association's position as the largest breed registry in the world.

The use of artificial insemination continued to increase. For the year 44,969 A.I. service certificates were issued, an increase of nearly 11.7 percent. More than 37 percent of all calves registered by the Association in 1987 were the product of artificial insemination.

Breeders continued to rely heavily on performance records for both herd improvement and merchandising. During the year breeders collected and reported to the Association 216,981 birth, weaning and yearling weights, down slightly from a year ago, but the fourth largest yearly total ever.

As has been the case the past few years, the largest Angus growth was recorded by the Certified Angus Beef (CAB) program. Although final sales figures won't be available for a few weeks, estimated sales volume for the year is 42.75 million pounds a 44 percent increase. Both August and September broke monthly sales volume records. August sales were 3.98 million pounds and September broke the 4 million pound barrier as estimated sales hit 4.23 million pounds.

During the year approximately 1.2 million head of predominantly Angus cattle were purchased by CAB packing plants for the program. Of this number, some 300,000 carcass met the rigid quality specifications as determined by USDA graders, and were rolled with the trade marked CAB logo.

Retail sales of CAB increased by 62 percent during the year and now account for 50 percent of all CAB sales. In addition, there was a 36 percent increase in food service sales as some 360 new restaurants signed up for the program. Nationally there are 771 signed restaurants and 570 individual retail outlets for CAB. In addition, another 4,000 restaurants use Certified Angus Beef regularly, but have not signed contracts with the American Angus Association, and so do not promote the fact that they serve CAB products.

This bunch of registered Angus calves helped boost American Angus Association registrations by nearly 6 percent during the fiscal year ended September 30. In all, the nation's registered Angus breeders recorded 141,239 head of calves during the year, more than any other beef breed association in the world.

Farm Safety Class

SIPESVILLE — A farm safety and rescue class, featuring harvest season concerns, will be offered at the fire hall here Oct. 24, 9:45 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

Tractor safety and emergency shut-off will be among the topics considered as well as farm equipment safety, calling for help, first-aid, fire extinguisher use, silo and manure pit gases and electrical safety. The New Centerville Fire Company also will demonstrate its new rescue equipment.

Reservations may be made with Erma Jacobs, 445-2232; Shirley Walker, 445-5177, or Gred Blair, 445-5359. A $5 registration fee will be charged.

FUEL INJECTION & TURBOCHARGER SPECIALIST

Most people think that diesel fuel additives are only used in the winter months to solve winter-type problems.

The real benefit of FPPF Fuel Power is to solve the year 'round problems that only a unique product like Fuel Power can solve:
- Totally disperses water to protect the fuel injection system
- Prevents the growth of algae
- Decarbonizes the entire fuel injection system which gives greater power.

Available in 8 oz. bottles, 1 gallon cans, 5 gallon pails, and 55 gallon drums.

Atlantic Breeders Presents Performance Awards

LANCASTER — Seventeen Atlantic Breeders Cooperative sales and service personnel recently received top honors for their outstanding performance during the first six months of 1987. They were presented with special awards and prizes by Gary Heckman, Atlantic's member sales director. This program encourages and recognizes achievements which improve service and increase sales volume.

Highest award winners were Professional Technicians Pat Arnold of Myerstown; David Russell, Kinzer; and George Shue, Gordonville; Coordinator Paul Werner, Mount Joy; Area Supervisor David Zimmerman, New Holland; and Direct-Herd Representative Glenn Geib, Conestoga.

In the sales performance categories, Arnold was first in semen sales increase and Linear-Mate usage, while Russell led in new and reactivated members and average semen fee. Paul Roland, Elizabethtown, was tops in first service increase and Rudy Detelich, Elizabethville, had the highest sampler sire usage.

Among Area Supervisors, Zimmerman topped the list for first service increase, semen sales increase, new and reactivated members, average semen fee, and Linear-Mate index. Robert Badger, Portersville, was first in sampler sire usage.

Direct-Herd Representative Glenn Geib (right) is congratulated by David Zimmerman for receiving the top award in January-June sales.

Other Technicians among the top 10 in total performance were Jeffrey Peifer, Lititz; Richard Smith, Honey Brook; Ken Noel, Greensburg; Paul Roland, Elizabethtown; Merrill Bickle, Tyrone: Brian Martin, Narvon; and Robert Bickle, Brookville. In direct-herd sales, Titus Smith of Martinsburg was second and Curtins Shuey of Massilon, Ohio was third.

Another six-months performance contest is underway throughout Atlantic's service and sales territory.

New Northrup King Sells Through Own Dealers

GOLDEN VALLEY, MN — With the recent merger of the agricultural seed operations of Northrup King, Stauffer Seeds and Pride, there will be a change in the way area farmers obtain seed from these companies.

In the past, farmers in the northeastern United States purchased Pride seed through Whitney-Dickinson dealers and Northrup King hybrid corn through Stanford Seed dealers. Stauffer Seeds had distributed seed through its own area dealers. Whitney-Dickinson Seeds, Inc., Buffalo, NY has been a distributor of Pride's corn, alfalfa and soybean varieties and hybrids in the northeast since 1983. The Stanford Seed Co., Buffalo, NY has been a distributor for Northrup King's hybrid corn for more than fifty years.

Beginning this year, Pride, Northrup King and Stauffer Seeds products will be sold under a single brand: The New Northrup King. It will be sold by dealers for The New Northrup King, rather than through distributors, explains Regional Sales Manager Jack Gaude, Doylestown, PA.

"We want every farmer in the area to have the opportunity to plant seeds from The New Northrup King," says Gaudette. "We are looking for additional dealers throughout the Northeast and Atlantic states." The company is selecting dealers in the agricultural areas of these thirteen states: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Northrup King always viewed the Northeast as an important market, but in recent years its commitment to the area has grown. Five years ago, Northrup King established a research station in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania to specifically breed corn with resistance to diseases found in the eastern United States. Two years ago, the company began establishing a dealer network to sell its proprietary alfalfas in this geography. Northrup King is the leading producer and marketer of alfalfa in the world.

"With the merger and our greatly expanded product lineup, we felt we could attain more rapid growth in this important market with our own dealer organization," explains Vice President Sales, Don Jacoby. "The combined resources from the merger justifies such an expansion." The New Northrup King is the second largest seed company in the U.S.

The newly-merged company has added several new sales managers in this region and is actively recruiting new dealers. The New Northrup King recently opened a new service center in Buffalo, NY. Anyone interested in more information about The New Northrup King and its products or about becoming a dealer should call its toll free number 1-800-458-0881 (in New York State) and 1-800-255-3097 (outside of New York). Tim Pabst, service center manager, will be happy to answer any questions you may have about the company's products, services or dealerships.

Hub extensions to eliminate the need for longer axles in straddle row operations using direct axle duals are now available in 13" and 15" sizes from Unverferth Manufacturing, Kalida, Ohio.

Unverferth Adds Two New Hub Extensions

Hub extensions to eliminate the need for longer axles in straddle row operations using direct axle duals are now available in 13" and 15" sizes from Unverferth Manufacturing, Kalida, Ohio.

Because Unverferth hub extensions are made of cast ductile iron and precision machined, they offer better overall performance and greater resistance to cracking and breaking than competitive welded extensions.

In addition to the two new sizes, Unverferth also offers extensions in 5" and 10" models. The 5" and 10" extensions offer a choice of 9- or 10-bolt design, while the new 13" and 15" extensions feature 10-bolt design only.

White-New Idea Introduces New Tractor

COLDWATER, Ohio — A new heavy-duty, row crop tractor, the White 160 rated at 160 PTO horsepower, was recently introduced by White-New Idea Farm Equipment Company at their corporate headquarters in Coldwater, Ohio. This new heavyweight featrues a six-cylinder, 504.5 C.I.D. Cummins "C" diesel engine delivering 30% torque rise and near "Constant Power" with fuel efficiency "as fuel efficient as the best engine available today." Turbocharging and "pulse" manifolding were major factors in achieving the unique combination of lean fuel consumption without giving up lugging power.

A refined 3x6 over/under powershift transmission, with 3 powershift speeds, in each of 6 ranges, provides 18 forward and 6 reverse speeds. This broad choice of travel speeds enables the operator to match power to the job for optimum efficiency. The powershift transmission coupled to the 30% torque rise of the engine provides a speed range of 40% in each gear of the constant mesh transmission without lose of power over the entire speed range. Power hydraulic differential lock, inboard planetary final drives, and heavy 3-7/8-inch axle shafts are also standard. A 1000 RPM independent PTO is hydraulically actuated through a reliable wet, multi-disc clutch.

A 22 GPM charged, closed-center hydraulic system provides 2250 psi of constant pressure to operate the category III-II three-point hitch and new combination float/detent remote valves.

A heavy-duty PosiTrac Full Power Front Axle provides the shortest turning radius of any tractor in the 150-170 horsepower range while also boasting a near 2 feet of crop clearance at the axle housing. The exclusive cast iron front mainframe not only gives the PosiTrac axle support, but provides the weight to properly harness the power of the front axle.

The Modular cab features a new Field Facts computer with bar graph display of engine rpm, as well as digital display of: ground speed, engine rpm, PTO rpm, hours of use, and area covered. The optional radar unit yields true ground speed, % wheel slip, and true area covered. Another significant option is the new AeroForm seat which is an air-ride suspension design with its own self-contained air supply.

Kimberton Spins Into First At Unionville

UNIONVILLE — The Kimberton Spinners spinning and weaving team took first place in the Unionville Community Fair sheep to shawl contest last Friday. The $100 first prize was donated by the Chester County Sheep and Wool Growers Association.

According to judge Lynn Henderson, of Fair Hill, Md., the Kemblesville team finished a very close second.

On the winning team were Andrea Barausky, Kathryn Keegan, Cindy Millar and Karen Raymond. They produced the winning shawl in just over two hours following contest rules that called for three spinners and one weaver to take the yearly offering of one sheep, spin it into yarn and then weave the yarn into a shawl to be later auctioned off

Commenting on the quality of the shawls made by the two contesting teams, Henderson praised the spinners' ability to create yarn that appeared to be spun by just one person. She also complimented the weavers' skill in producing shawls that lay flat.

Sheep-Producers Evaluation Workshop

MERCER — The Mercer County Extension Service is offering a workshop for sheep producers who wish to increase their live lamb and carcass-evaluation skills. The program will be conducted at the Mercer County 4-H Park and Extension Center on November 4 and 5.

The workshop will begin with registration at 9:30 followed by a 10 a.m. discussion on evaluation of market lambs on foot by Mercer County extension agent Bob Calvert and Butler County agent, Curt Hughes. At 11, Dr. Steve Baertsche, an extension sheep specialist from Ohio State University, will speak on condition scoring ewes.

After lunch, Baertsche will discuss feeding lambs, followed by economics of producing lambs, and a class on devising a health plan for market lambs given by Dr. Thomas Drake, head of the Penn State Veterinary Diagnostic Lab.

The workshop will resume the next morning at 10 a.m. with two-hour instruction on carcass evaluation by Dr. William Henning of Penn State, the extension red-meats specialist.

The Penn State Forage Van is scheduled to be at the Mercer County Extension Center on November 5 if anyone would like to have forage samples tested. The cost is $13 per forage sample.

For information on registering for the workshop, contact Bob Calvert, Mercer Co. Extension Office, PO Box 530, Mercer, PA 16137.

To Speak At Ag Breakfast

NEWARK, DE. — Dale Wolf, director of the Delaware Development Office, will be the guest speaker at the October 30 Friends of Agriculture buffet breakfast at the Sheraton Inn in Dover beginning at 7:30 a.m.

Wolf, a recently retired vice president in the agricultural products division of the DuPont Company, will discuss how the Development Office and the agricultural community can work together to improve the competitiveness of Delaware agricultural products.

Reservations at $5 per person must be made by Oct. 26. Make checks payable to Friends of Agriculture and mail to David Woodward, 127A Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303.

Mifflinburg IGA Receives Beef Promotion Award

MIFFLINBURG — National beef promotion honors were awarded to Stucky's IGA Market in Mifflinburg, Union County recently. The market was named top in the country among independent supermarkets participating in a special beef promotion contest featuring the slogan "BEEF, REAL FOOD FOR REAL PEOPLE".

"We used all the Point-of-Purchase (P.O.P.) material that the Beef Council supplied for the promotion," said meat manager Ken Rishel. "We changed our advertising from newspaper emphasis to direct mail color circulars, which helped our overall increase in sales," he said.

That increase in sales, according to Robert R. Coleman, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, amounted to a 43.1 percent increase in beef tonnage between January 12, 1987 through February 23, 1987. "This is excellent news for beef producers," Coleman said. "It shows that by working cooperatively with P.O.P. materials, recipe tear-off cards, nutrition information and advertising, retail outlets can and do sell more beef!," Coleman said.

Coleman presented store manager Don Shirk with an inscribed plaque, a video monitor and tapes for use in the store to merchandise beef. Rishel was presented a video cassette recorder for his personal use. The prizes were sponsored through the Beef Industry Council and paid for through beef/veal check-off funds contributed to the national program.

"We try to personally help our customers," Rishel said. "We make recommendations on what cuts of beef are better, the cooking time, temperatures and more. Our people have been trained to make these suggestions," he added. "We are trying to educate our customers that it is not the meat, but the fat on the meat that they should be concerned with. The IGA standard for quite a few years has been to go to a quarter-inch trim. If we have any complaints, it is because it is too lean," he said of their choice grain fed beef.

Stucky's IGA also carried an impressive line of value-added beef products including hamburgers and cheeseburgers precooked with rolls, ready for the microwave; stuffed peppers; stuffed cabbage; beef and bacon patties; veal patties; breaded beef patties and a full line of fresh beef.

"We have really noticed an increase in beef and general red meat sales," said Steve Rosenhoover, Meat Supervisor for Gateway Foods of Huntingdon. As an independent market, IGA purchases through Gateway Foods Warehouse in exchange for advertising support, seminars, management consulting, plus more," Rosenhoover commented.

Also attending the awards ceremony were store owners Jack and Bill Stucky and Joan Liesau, Coordinator of the State Department of Agriculture's PA Meat Marketing Program.

The contest was divided into three classes — large chain stores, small chain stores, and independent stores. Criteria used in judging were: The display of point-of-purchase materials; the display of the slogan "BEEF, REAL FOOD FOR REAL PEOPLE," and the percentage of the increase in beef sales resulting from the promotion.

"The timing is perfect to receive the video monitor," Shirk commented, "because the IGA 'Round-Up' beef promotion begins this week." Stucky's IGA has won top awards for the last three years, and are looking to keep beef on top with strong promotion and advertising efforts.

Crawford County Awards Banquet

BY CAROLYN HILSDON GILLES
Crawford Co. Correspondent

COCHRANTON — The agricultural community honored two of its own on Friday, October 9, when The Crawford County Council of Farm Organizations presented its 1987 Ag-Industry Award to Livingston Packing Co. and inducted Roy S. Black into the Agricultural Hall of Fame.

The presentations were made before 120 people in attendance at the council's sixth annual recognition and awards banquet at the Cochranton Fire Hall.

The Ag-Industry award is made each year to an industry that has given outstanding service to Crawford County agriculture and rural interests. David L. Livingston and wife Doris, Jamestown, accepted the award for the Livingston Packing Company, now in its 25th year of business. The company was cited as a "family business in its finest tradition." Owned and operated by Doris and David, assisted by sons Dave and Dennis, the business is characterized by willingness to support their community, their civic organizations and their church.

David Livingston is a director and past president of the PA Meat Processors Association, a director and past King Lion of the Jamestown Lions Club, chairman of the administrative board of the Westford United Methodist Church and a member of the South Shenango Township Planning Commission.

Doris Livingston is a current member of the Jamestown Area School Board and is president of the Westford United Methodist Women.

The Livingston Packing Company has been a great supporter of the 4-H program in the county, directly with members and through generous support of its sales. They have purchased livestock at the 4-H Livestock Sale for 15 consecutive years.

The Hall of Fame Award is presented to a farmer in recognition of achievement in his own farming operation and of service to the community and various farm orga-

Junior Hereford Ass'n. To Meet In K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—"Meeting the Challenge of Change" is the theme for the 23rd Annual American Junior Hereford Association Convention slated for November 6-8 in Kansas City. Convention highlights will recognize the most recent years' acheivements and plan for the promising 1988 events. An estimated 200 representatives from across United States are expected to attend activities such as national officer elections, national contests recognizing outstanding accomplishments by individuals and state junior associations, leadership development and educational mini-sessions, and acitivity planning.

Mark Mayfield, Kansas City, and Ola Madsen, Nicholasville, Ky., two prominent motivational speakers, will enlighten delegates with valuable tools for success. Workshop sessions led by Daryl Godfrey, Professional Resource Centers, Leawood, Ks., will center around personal involvement, communicaton skills, public relations and creative thinking.

The annual business meeting will focus on the election of new AJHA officers and directors. National directors completing their three-year terms include Sherry Brown, Lodge Grass, Mt., Mark Frisbie, Kuna, Id.; and Andy Malm, Albin, Wy.

National recognition will be bestowed upon five junior members with the highest award to be presented to an AJHA member, the Golden Bull Award sponsored by the American Hereford Auxiliary. Each winner will receive a bronzed Hereford bull and $200 cash stipend. The auxiliary will also award the coveted B.C. Snidow Award to an outstanding junior member.

The American Hereford Association $500 Future Cattleman Scholarship presentations will be made to two deserving junior members pursuing a college education.

Convention activities will be held at the Americana Hotel, Kansas City. Additional information regarding the convention schedule and registration is available by contacting the American Hereford Association Youth Department at P.O. Box 4059, Kansas City, Missouri 64101, telephone 816-842-3757.

nizations. Roy S. Black received this prestigious award for his operation of Black-Pond Farms from 1944 until his retirement in 1975. The farm is now operated by sons Charles and William.

Black was one of the 17 original cooperators in the Tennessee Valley Authority Demonstration Farm Program. In addition to the management and operation of one of the finest Holstein herds in the country, Black was active in numerous community, county, regional, state and national activities. He has served as school director, G.F.L. (Agway) Committeeman, township auditor, member of Twelve Apostles Lutheran Church, member and Master of Woodcock Grange and Pomona Grange. He was a county committeeman for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation District, a director for Crawford County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, a board member for the Crawford County Farmer's Association. He served on the Farm Crops Committee for the Crawford County Fair, the Gravel Run Cemetery Association, as host for the Crawford County Dairy Princess Pageant and dance, director and president of the Erie-Crawford Dairy Cooperative Association, a director of Milk Producers Federation, a director of Milk, Inc., a member of Pennsylvania Association of Farm Cooperatives (PAFC) and member of county, state and national Holstein Associations.

Other honorees of the evening were: Jim Wilson and wife Anne for Wilson's work as executive director of Farm-City Day; the Jim and Peggy Reese family for hosting Farm-City Day; Louise Glover, Farm Editor of Brown-Thompson Newspapers, and Michelle Shaffer of The Meadville Tribune Newspaper for excellence in news coverage of agricultural events.

Commodity queens Junia Laughery, Crawford County Dairy Princess, and Paula Holabaugh, PA Maple Sweetheart, spoke to the group about their latest promotion efforts. Holabaugh displayed two T-shirts that she developed for promotion of the maple industry. Slogans imprinted on the shirts were: "Maple Lovers Stick Together" and "Maple Makes the World a Little Sweeter."

A video tape taken at Farm-City Day by Sherman Allen was presented. It was announced that Sherman Allen will be the 1988 Council President, Craig Powell will be the Executive Director of 1988 Farm-City Day and the host farm will be Wayne Stainbrook's. The master of ceremonies for the evening was Council President Scott McNamara.

The Crawford County Council of Farm Organizations is comprised of representatives from more than 20 agricultural organizations. Together they plan and conduct Farm-City Day, assist with improvements at the county fair, conduct farm and fire safety programs, hosted an out-of-state farm tour group, held a public informational meeting on milk marketing and are actively pursuing improved facilities for the County's Cooperative Extension Service.

Berks Farm-City Banquet

LEESPORT — The fourth annual Berks County Farm-City Banquet will be held on November 2, 1987 at the Sheraton Berkshire.

Starting at 6:00 P.M. a social hour will be held with French-fried mushrooms, milk punch and pork products available for tasting. Contests of pork product tasting, plant origination and sheep and wool identification will be conducted. Prizes will be given to the top two farm and city winners in each contest.

Dinner will be 7:00 P.M. and will include tossed salad with mushrooms, stuffed pork loin, sweet potatoes, mixed vegetables, ice cream and milk, coffee or tea.

The program will feature the farmer-business exchange through slides. This year President Judge Forrest Schaeffer exchanged with Henry Frecon, fruit farmer; Raymond Croft, Board Chairman, Berks County Chamber of Commerce, exchanged with Tim Kissling, dairy farmer; and Dr. Susan Probst, gynecology and obstetrics, exchanged with Sue Hollowbush, sheep producer.

Also, an individual and a company will receive the Berks County Public Relations in Agriculture awards.

Each person attending will receive a special "Foose" pig cookie cutter. The cost is $9.50 per person. For tickets and reservations, contact Clyde Myers, Berks County Cooperative Extension Service, Berks County Agricultural Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533. Phone: 215-378-1327. Deadline for reservations: October 26, 1987.

First American Sheep Industry Convention Jan. 16-22.

Denver - "Connections" is the theme of the First American Sheep Industry Convention Jan. 16-20, 1988, which promises many opportunities for enhanced communications between sheep producers, organizations and industry supporters during the eventful four-day program in San Antonio, Texas. The theme focuses on important future connections and those already being made on behalf of sheep producers by the National Wool Growers Association, National Lamb Feeders Association and American Sheep Producers Council.

A unique program mix includes annual meetings of the sheep industry's three major national organizations, educational and informational sessions on important industry issues, a trade show of sheep products and services, and tours of San Antonio's sheep and wool production facilities and historic sites. Also scheduled are meetings of the Sheep Industry Development Program, National Sheep Improvement Program, NWGA Auxiliary and its "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest finals and fashion show.

Information sessions will cover a variety of industry topics. Producing and marketing consumer-preferred lean lamb, for example, is a major concern being addressed by all sheep industry organizations. A lamb cutability information session will approach this critical issue as it affects producer profits and consumer choice.

Profitability, another constant challenge for livestock producers, will be discussed by five sheep producers representing different regions and types of ranching. They'll describe their operations and explain how they apply successful management practices. Other discussion sessions include predator control, federal approval of new drugs, immigration, and computer applications for the sheep industry.

A special convention highlight will be a full-day range tour on Sunday, Jan. 17, with visits tow a wool pullery, wool scouring plant, and the well known YO Ranch, a diversified working ranch with sheep, Angora goats, Texas Long Horns and exotic game. Social activities include a Tex-Mex Fiesta, Tuesday evening, Jan. 19, which features regional food favorites and entertainment.

The "Make It Yourself With Wool" finals and fashion show is another special part of the program. The national competition draws over 70 winners of state and regional contests, who will vie for top honors in this spectacular wool promotion event. The contest is organized and conducted at local, state and national levels by members of the NWGA Auxiliary.

About 1,000 sheep producers and industry friends are expected to attend the First American Sheep Industry Convention. Industry leaders say the joint meeting will save thousands of dollars in meeting and travel expenses, and will greatly facilitate interaction among sheep organizations.

All sheep producers and others interested in the sheep industry are encouraged to attend. Special airfares are available through American Airlines for those attending. For airline reservation, call American Airlines Meeting Services 1-800-433-1790 and refer to STAR File #S-81811. For additional information about the program, hotel, reservations or airfares, contact first American Sheep Industry Convention, c/o National Wool Growers Association, #10 Lakeside Lane, Suite 200, Denver, CO 80212.

Coming Events:

November 4 - 1988 Farm Show sheep entries due.

December 4 & 5 - Second Annual Shepherd's Symposium, The Embers Quality Inn, Carlisle, PA.

January 10-15 - 1988 Pennsylvania Farm Show, Harrisburg, PA.

Looking For A Queen

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers are looking for their 1988 queen. The contest, which will be held here on January 14, is open to Pennsylvania women who will be judged on their poise, public appearance, beauty, personality, and general knokwledge.

The queen will represent the coop at public functions and will receive $200 in prize money.

Contestants must have finished their junior year in high school yet will be no older than 21 in the calendar year of the reign. She must be sponsored by any interested potato grower, organization, or group of potato growers, Pennsylvania potato chip manufacturer, or stores merchandising Pennsylvania potatos.

In addition, the contestant cannot have modeled professionally and will agree not to marry during the year of reign.

Maryland Wins Northeast Collegiate Soil Judging

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The University of Maryland's agronomy department has another addition to its bulging trophy case, which showcases the achievements of its nationally known collegiate soil judging teams.

For the eleventh time in 20 years, a Maryland team has captured the Northeast regional collegiate soil judging competition.

In addition, a University of Maryland student was the champion individual at this year's twenty-ninth annual contest held Oct. 10 near Newcomb in the Adirondack mountain area of upper New York state.

The Maryland team, along with second-place Penn State, is now eligible to compete in the national collegiate soil judging contest. That event is scheduled April 29, 1988, at Brookings, S.D.

Bruce Bagley of Huntingtown, Md., an agronomy senior, placed first in the regional contest. Robert Lindgren of Hillandale, Md., a senior in natural resources management, was fifth.

Other members of the Maryland team included Kathleen Mulholland of Edgewater, and Jennifer Cassells of Bethesda, both seniors in natural resources management and David Verdone of Adelphi and Wayne Blake-Hedges of Bowie, both of whom are agronomy seniors.

Colleges represented in this year's regional contest included Maryland, Penn State, Delaware Valley College, Cornell and the University of Connecticut. Cornell was the host school.

Penn State's Cooper Retires, Receives IRS Award

UNIVERSITY PARK — The Internal Revenue Service's District Director's Award was presented to Jesse Cooper, Penn State extension farm management specialist, by George A. O'Hanlon, Pittsburgh district director in ceremonies September 29 at the Nittany Lion Inn.

"This award, which has been given since the 1950's, honors an individual who has fostered taxpayer education and understanding," O'Hanlon said. "This is the first time someone outside the Internal Revenue Service has been so honored."

"I can't think of a more fitting way to end this phase of my career," said Cooper, who retired October 1 "Earlier this year I completed 25 years service to Penn State."

O'Hanlon said that the award was given to Cooper because of his leadership, the quality of his programs, his dedication to advancing the understanding of the national tax system and his professionalism.

During Cooper's career, his major focus has been state and federal income tax understanding and preparation. Over the years the program has broadened to include accountants and tax preparers. The tax activities expanded to include needs for assistance with management decisions and tax preparation.

Cooper's other extension programs have focused on solving financial problems related to farm management. These include: adjusting debt load, reviewing family expenses and studying the cost-effectiveness of individual operations.

George A. O'Hanlon, right, Pittsburgh district director for the Internal Revenue Service presented this year's District Director's Award to Jesse Cooper, Penn State extension farm management specialist, in ceremonies attended by Dr. Lamartine F. Hood, dean Penn State's College of Agriculture. This is the first time, since the award's inception in the 1950's, that an individual outside the Internal Revenue Service has been so honored.

Norlebco 4-H Dairy Club

The Norlebco 4-H Dairy Club held its annual Covered Dish and Family Night Banquet, October 15, 7:30 p.m. The banquet was held at the Ono Fire Hall and each family brought a covered dish. Angie Bollinger, Lebanon County Alternate Dairy Princess talked to the group about her experiences and presented the skit she used in competition.

Members winning awards were: Jesse Bomgardner, club rookie; Brent and Lawanda Shuey, best boy and girl under 13; Chris Harding and Kynel Bomgardner, best boy and girl over 13; Deb Shuey, honorable mention. Kynel Bomgardner will represent the club for the county competition.

Project books were returned to club members and they were complimented for their efforts during the year.

Raytec Purchases Product Line

EPHRATA, Pa. — Raymond Zimmerman, president of Raytec Manufacturing, announced today the purchase of the market-scale product line from Ostee Corporation, Sylvan Grove, Kansas. No purchase price was disclosed.

The new product line consists of five different scale products designed to accurately weigh market hogs. According to Zimmerman, "The new line fits right in with our present hog products. We feel this purchase will help us offer a much broader product mix to hog farmers." Raytec presently manufacturers and markets Way-Pig, the leading portable litter scale to help hog farmers weigh and transport pig litters.

In business since 1974, Raytec also manufactures and sells Herdex Record Systems for both the hog and dairy industries, as well as other management-oriented products to help farmers improve individual animal performance.

Empire Sheep Co-Op To Meet In November

ALFRED, N.Y. — Annual meeting of the Empire Sheep Producers Cooperative, Inc. will be Nov. 13-14 at Alfred State College.

Hosted jointly by the West Central New York Sheep and Wool Cooperative based in Canaseraga and Alfred State, the two-day event opens at 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13, with a meeting of directors to which pool managers also have been invited. This session will be in the college's agricultural science building.

First general meeting will be at 9:40 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 14, when Dr. James Thompson, dean of Alfred State's School of Agriculture and Allied Health Technologies, will officially welcome the visitors. All Saturday activities will be at the college lake-lodge facility.

At 9:45 a.m., the group will hear from James G. Butler, vice president of the National Wool Growers Association, who will offer an update on association activities.

Barbara Gates of Interlaken, president, will preside at the Empire Sheep Producers annual meeting from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. This will be followed by a lamb dinner.

The program then continues with a 1:30 p.m. session on sheep first aid.

At 2 p.m., Dr. Don Thompson of New South Wales, Australia, a practicing veterinarian who works primarily with flock health, will speak on Ovine Progressive Pneumonia (OPP). He is currently a research assistant at Cornell University in the field of OPP.

Completing the afternoon program will be two other presentations:

2:30 p.m. — "Handling Systems for Sheep," by Tim Willsallen of Ithaca. Originally from Southern New South Wales, Australia, he now manages a 300-white faced ewe operation in Ithaca.

3:30 p.m. — "1987 Program Review of NYS Cooperative Coyote Damage Control" by Thomas Tomasa, district supervisor, USDA Animal Damage Control Program.

Reservations for the program are in charge of Lee LaRochelle of Belfast, president of the West Central New York Sheep and Wool Coop and assistant professor of animal science at Alfred State College.

Deadline for reservations is Nov. 2. Professor LaRochelle may be contacted at 607-587-4714 or 716-365-2249.

Commercial exhibits of interest to sheep producers will be on display both days.

Unionville Beef Winners Chosen

UNIONVILLE — Tiffany Rohrer of Nottingham showed the Grand Champion Market Steer at the Chester County 4-H Baby Beef Show last Saturday in Unionville. Anita Howe, Downingtown, showed the Reserve Champion at the 63rd annual Unionville Community Fair.

Erica and Matthew McClellan of Fox Hill Farm, Unionville, exhibited Champion and Reserve Champion Angus heifers respectively. Clarise Tittle of Atglen showed the Grand Champion Hereford heifer.

Ribbons in the Market Steer classes went to Matthew McAllister, Spring City, Champion, and Walter Russell, Downingtown, Reserve Champion Light weight; Tiffany Rohrer, Champion, and Anita Howe, Reserve Champion Medium weight. Also to David Howe, Champion, and Vance Dietz, Reserve Champion Light Heavy weight. Both boys are from Downingtown.

Lane Lineberger, Downingtown, and Rob Rohrer, Nottingham, showed Champion and Reserve Champion Heavy weight Market Steers, respectively.

Fitting and showmanship honors went to Tiffany and Rob Rohrer, first and second Senior showmen; Matthew Howe, Downingtown, and Matthew McClellan, first and second Junior showmen; and Jonathon Howe, Downingtown, and Chris Bremer, Parkesburg, first and second First Year showmen.

Hostetler Receives Award

UNIVERSITY PARK — Kathryn Hostetler, Cambria County, received a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists at the association's annual meeting in Louisville, Kentucky, October 4-8.

A home economist with Penn State's Cooperative Extension office in Cambria County, Mrs. Hostetler was cited for her innovative programming and work with young homemakers. "Cambria County Cooperative Extension provides a program of interest to young families," Mrs. Hostetler said about the young homemakers program. Another successful program is the family strengths program, which provides financial management and parenting information to young families through already existing parents' associations. Mrs. Hostetler is also the Cambria County 4-H youth coordinator of the various 4-H camps.

A native of Millerstown, she holds a bachelor of science degree in home economics from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, and completed her master of science degree from the same institution in 1981.

Mrs. Hostetler was the 1980 recipient of the National Association of Extension Home Economist Fellowship Award and is a member of National and Pennsylvania Associations of Extension Home Economists.

She is married to Ronald L. Hostetler, who is also on the Cambria County Extension staff. They have a son and a daughter.

Honey Bee Quarantine Imposed

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has imposed a quarantine order restricting the movement of honey bees into, out of or within the Commonwealth effective October 14. The action was taken to prevent the further spread of the Varroa mite and limit its economic consequences to the state's agricultural industry.

The movement of honey bees into the Commonwealth is prohibited without certification by an originating state entomologist that the bees are mite-free. Similar certification by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is required for movement of honey bees within the state or out of the state. The quarantine will remain in effect until further notice.

Honey Bee Quarantine

Native to Asia, the Varroa mite poses a serious threat to the survival and health of honey bees because it feeds on developing larvae, pupae and adult bees. Adult bees spread the mites within the individual colony cells as well as to nearby colonies.

The Varroa mite was found for the first time in the United States on September 25 at a Wisconsin apiary. Federal inspectors detected the Varroa mite in a beekeeping operation in northcentral Pennsylvania after it was learned the beekeeper purchased bees from the infested Wisconsin apiary. Intensive survey work by the U.S. and Pennsylvania Departments of Agriculture indicates the Pennsylvania infestation is localized and has not spread.

Fast Facts

- Durable Patz hook-and-eye link chain Progression forging builds extra strength into hook-and-eye link contact points Final heat treating increases hardness, strength and wear resistance
- Four-tooth sprocket drives every link behind the hook--the link's thickest and strongest point
- Chain flexibility for various layouts
- Select 2" flites for solid manure or 4" high flites for slurry manure New, thicker flites are welded to Patz links ½-in -thick wear shoes extend flite life
- Three drive unit sizes match your gutter length and allow expansion
- Corner wheel top-and-bottom flanges guide the chain around the corner Corner wheel assemblies remove easily for service without concrete breakout
- Heavier red link available for extremely long pulls

Patz Model 100 Slurry Pump

For slurry manure

- Handle high volumes of free-flowing manure or slurry with fine-cut bedding.
- Moves manure underground through 15" or 12" PVC pipe to storage area.
- Stroke length offers three adjustments to match manure consistency.
- All moving parts removable for easy service.
- Big 180 gal. hopper.
- Ends daily hauling. Time savings and fertilizer savings pay for investment.

Patz Watch Out For Imitation Parts

Don't believe that imitation parts are a good deal Your best deal is a genuine Patz part

Each Patz part includes years of research, engineering and manufacturing experience plus high quality-control standards. Patz parts meet precise tolerances to assure reliable service.

For quality parts at competitive prices, depend on your Patz dealer.

YOU & VAN DALE.

Forage season — the time of year when you've got one eye on the weather and the other on your crop. Time everything just right and it'll mean dollars in your pocket later on.

The payoff comes at feeding time, and that's when you can count on Van Dale to deliver quality forage to your herd. Van Dale equipment performs when you need it to...Van Dale silo unloaders that really dig in, even at −20°F; Van Dale conveyors and feeders that let you feed more animals in less time; and Van Dale mixers that can actually improve the value of your ration.

To tame tough forage jobs on your farm, team up with a tough partner: Van Dale!

Location: Palmyra Bellgrove Road, Lebanon Co., PA.

Farm consists of 52 acres total with 30 +/- tillable limestone soil, several acres woodland and the balance in pasture. The modern dairy barn has 48 comfort stalls with electric trainers, Berg barn cleaner and lagoon. There is a 4" vac line and 5 Bou-Matic milking units on 2" stainless steel pipeline, Mojonnier 800 gal. milk tank, a concrete stave silo 18x70 with Silo-Matic unloader, 12x30 poured concrete, box stalls, free-housing for young stock, implement shed 7 misc. out-buildings. There is a stone & log 4-bedroom dwelling. You definitely want to attend this auction!

RATES AND TERMS: Cash or terms of not less than ten percent (10%) down payment with the remaining balance amortized over a period not to exceed 25 years; or a period for which the property will serve as adequate security; whichever is less. The interest rate will be determined at the time of approval of the credit requested based upon Farmer Program ineligible interest rate published in FmHA instruction. The current rate is 11.00%; however this is subject to change prior to approval.

ARCHEOLOGICAL IMPORTANCE: FmHA responsibilities under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (as amended 1980) require consideration of historic and archeological resources. In consultation with the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO), it has been determined that there is a high probability that significant archeological sites may be located on this farm property. Any future plans for land use change (including construction activity) must be reviewed by the SHPO. The purchaser agrees to implement and/or give due consideration to the SHPO review recommendations, as required of a Federal Agency under the regulation of the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation under 36 CFR part 800. The Pennsylvania SHPO may be contacted by writing to the PA Historical & Museum Commission, Bureau for Historic Preservation, P.O. Box 1026, Harrisburg, PA 17108-1026 or by calling (717) 783-8946

ARCHITECTURAL IMPORTANCE: The purchaser agrees that any alteration, rehabilitation or demolition, in whole or in part, of any historic structure on the property will be carried out in conformance with the recommended treatments in "The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitating Historic Buildings." Prior to the commencement of work, the owner will notify in writing the State Historic Preservation Officer of all alteration, rehabilitation of demolition which might affect the historical or architectural character or integrity of the historic structures. The State Historic Preservation officer will be given ample time (30 days) to comment on whether the proposed work conforms to the recommended treatments in "The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation and Guidelines for Rehabilitating Historic Buildings."

LONG-TERM FISH AND WILDLIFE CONSERVATION MEASURES: The following measures are recommended to meet FmHA mandates to conserve, protect and enhance important resources and to fulfill the mandates of Executive Orders 11988 and 11990.

1. That the Quittapahilla Creek and its adjacent wetlands be protected by a deed restriction establishing buffer zones extending fifty feet into the property from the ordinary high water line. The buffer zones should be left in a natural vegetated state and should not be mowed. Access by livestock should not be permitted in the buffer zone except for restricted areas for crossing and watering. Watering and crossing areas should not exceed 10 percent of the length of the buffer zone.

2. Representatives of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, the Service, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and the Farmers Home Administration are permitted access to the property for the purpose of insuring compliance with this deed restriction.
